Huge 'Quake in Aleutians; Tidal Waves Hit Hawaii

Warnings Up For B.C. Coast

A major earthquake occurred this morning in the North Pacific Ocean in the neighborhood of the outer Aleutian Islands.

Four hours later a 4½-foot tidal wave struck the Hawaiian Islands.

A general warning of tidal waves along this coast was broadcast from San Francisco, but check with points along the Vancouver Island West Coast at noon showed no effects had been felt there yet.

The quake was recorded at the seismograph at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here at 6:28-07 a.m., Pacific standard time.

An observatory official said it was close to scale 8 on the Richter scale. (The great San Francisco earthquake had a Richter scale reading of 8.25.)

"If there had been any communities near the quake they wouldn't be left today," he said.

The distance from Victoria was estimated at 2,400 miles. The quake rocked buildings at Fairbanks, according to The Associated Press.

A wave about 4½ feet high hit northern Oahu Island in the Hawaii group at 10:58 a.m.

An unconfirmed report said one or two houses were swept into the surf.

In 1946, a tidal wave in the Hawaiian Islands took nearly 200 lives.

On Oahu today the wave washed over the highway and hit a seawall five feet above the high water mark.

At Midway Island in mid-Pacific the U.S. Navy reported a 3½-foot wave hit the island but caused no damage.

The shock hit Fairbanks with a deep subterranean rumble. Equipment in radio station KFRB outside of Fairbanks and fixtures in buildings at Fairbanks were swayed by the jolt.

The centre of the local quake was estimated near Mount McKinley, about 80 miles from Fairbanks.

The main tremor was recorded so strongly at Sitka, about 700 miles southeast of Fairbanks, that the recording equipment was knocked off the track. Sitka is about 2,000 miles from the Rat Islands.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government announced today that Russia conducted another test Friday of an atomic weapon.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, who announced the test, did not say whether it was a hydrogen or a conventional nuclear weapon.

He did say, however, that the blast "was in the range of size of their recent explosions."

U.S. Asks RCN Aid In Seaward Patrols

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States has suggested informally to Canada that the Royal Canadian Navy share the burden of keeping radar watch off the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard.

However, informants add, Canada is unlikely to comply because defence officials feel that the RCN has neither enough ships nor manpower for such a task together with its other commitments.

The matter has been discussed by military leaders of the two countries but, it is understood, has not reached the government level. Officials say they regard seaward extension of the radar warning lines spanning Canada as a problem of great urgency. Without such an extension, Russian bomber forces could outflank the warning lines by sea.

The U.S. Navy now stations radar picket ships off the North American coasts, particularly in northern latitudes, to watch for aerial end runs and radar-equipped planes patrol northern skies.

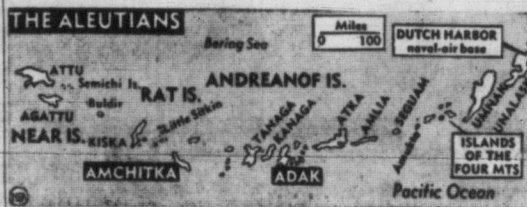

In the joint Canada-U.S. defence plans for North America, the U.S. has been given responsibility for this task but officials here say the U.S. Navy would welcome Canadian assistance.

Yugoslavs Refuse UNEF Duty

LONDON (Reuters) — Cairo radio said tonight Yugoslav troops with the United Nations Emergency Force today refused to carry out police duties in the Gaza Strip on the ground that this was the responsibility of Egyptian authorities.

Cairo radio said the Yugoslav contingent had been asked by UNEF headquarters to patrol its area in order to prevent riots feared in the Gaza Strip. It said the Yugoslavs refused to comply with the instructions because such action would interfere with the competence of the Egyptian police in the Strip.

Cairo radio said an important telephone call was put through from El 'Arish, the UN headquarters, to Cairo tonight, but gave no further details.

Egypt Rejects 50-50 Split On Canal Tolls

By WILTON WYNN
CAIRO (AP) — Egypt rejects a Western Big Three proposal for a neutral agency to collect Suez Canal tolls and split the proceeds with Egypt 50-50, information director Abdel Kader Hatem said today.

The motion the United States and France told United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld last month they favored payment of tolls to the World Bank or some other neutral international agency when the canal gets back in business.

The collection agency, under their plan, would give Egypt half the income for operating costs and keep the rest until the toll issue is finally settled. The tolls previously grossed about $100,000,000 a year.

Hatem's declaration came as UN salvage authorities awaited assent from Cairo to final clearance of the 103-mile waterway.

President Nasser, meanwhile, was quoted as saying that his government has not yet decided whether Israel ships, barred from the canal since the 1948 war, would be allowed passage.

Winters Says Banks Ready to Increase Funds Available

OTTAWA (CP) — Works Minister Winters said today chartered banks and other lending institutions have indicated they may increase mortgage money available for home building this year.

Mr. Winters, responsible for the government housing program, said in an interview the renewed interest in this form of loan by these institutions followed the Jan. 21 increase in the ceiling on insured mortgages to an interest rate of 6 per cent from 5½.

Following a sharp slump in house building in January, the boost was announced and Mr.

Winters expressed confidence then that Canada will build a better-than-average 100,000 new houses in 1957. Fewer than half the 4,000 house starts of January, 1956, were started in January this year.

Mortgages insured under the National Housing Act dropped in December to 598 from 2,317 in December, 1955. The decline was continued in January.

Mr. Winters said today there are signs the boost in interest ceilings on loans is attracting more money to the house building field.

Stewart Bates, president of the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said the full effect of the change of interest ceiling likely won't be apparent until late March or early April.

In Montreal, a chartered bank source said the chartered banks will meet with the Bank of Canada "next week." The source declined to say where the meeting would be held or its specific date.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Hassle Recalls Famous Farce

Nearly half a century ago George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, created a sensation by using the word "bloody" in his famous farce, "Pygmalion."

Fashionable first-nighters attending the London premiere are said to have shuddered in their seats when Eliza Doolittle, the flower girl who was turned into a lady by Professor Higgins, uttered the phrase "not bloody likely," and numerous complaints were addressed to the management.

How times have changed! When Tony Gargrave, youthful CCF member for Mackenzie, shouted: "That's a bloody insult!" in the legislature Friday night an eyebrow was raised in the public galleries—and even Premier Bennett did not seem particularly shocked, although the word was addressed to him.

Possibly the premier, in his wisdom, thought Mr. Gargrave had provoked, for the premier had just called a Friday night sitting—and night sittings on a Friday are rare occasions in parliamentary history. (The words "The House rose at 4 p.m. Friday" are almost legendary in the Times of London.)

CCF Leader Robert Strachan objected strongly (but not so strongly as Mr. Gargrave) and fellow members backed him up. The Premier responded, rather tactlessly, by saying: "I suppose you want to go to a party."

'Rude... Shameful... Disgraceful'

"That's a bloody insult," cried Mr. Gargrave, and for the next few minutes CCF members leapt up and down in their chairs shouting:

"Rude, shameful, disgraceful... withdraw."

Mr. Gargrave demanded an apology from the premier for suggesting the CCF wanted to party instead of attending to the people's business.

Speaker Thomas Irwin was

Marilyn, who swam Juan de Fuca from the U.S. to Victoria a week after Cliff's crossing, and whom Victoria honored with a plaque-bearing cairn and by renaming her landing-point Marilyn Bell Bay, could not be present because of her McGill University studies. She sent congratulations to the "Chief," as she always calls Cliff.

Another regretted absentee was Coach Gus Ryder, who is vacationing in Florida.

"IT'S BEAUTIFUL" Cliff's wife Joan was on the receiving end with him.

"It's beautiful," the blonde Mrs. Lumsdon told Aid. Curtis as she admired the crested plate with its lettering "City of Victoria, Vancouver Island, Incorporated 1862," and the Victoria motto, Semper Liber.

This and all the plates of the service have a gold inscription on the back which reads:

"Presentation service to Mr. Cliff Lumsdon, Lakeshore Swimming Club, Toronto, Canada, from the Corporation of the City of Victoria, in recognition of his epic swim, the first to cross the Straits of Juan de Fuca from Victoria, B.C., Canada, to Port Angeles, Washington, U.S.A., August 16-17, 1956."

J. D. Macfarlane, executive editor and vice-president, represented the Telegram.

VICTORIA PRAISED

Mayor Phillips welcomed Aid. Curtis as the representative of "the great city of Victoria," and extolled Victoria's generosity and good fellowship in making the presentation "to a fine local athlete, who showed the stuff he is made of when he tackled and conquered that treacherous and bone-chilling strait of yours."

Aid. Curtis said Victoria "was so happy that a Canadian boy did it. I carry the best wishes of everybody in Victoria."

Nine Killed In Riot-Hit South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Police armed with machine-guns stood guard today in the African township of Daveyton near here to prevent a renewal of rioting in which nine Africans have been killed.

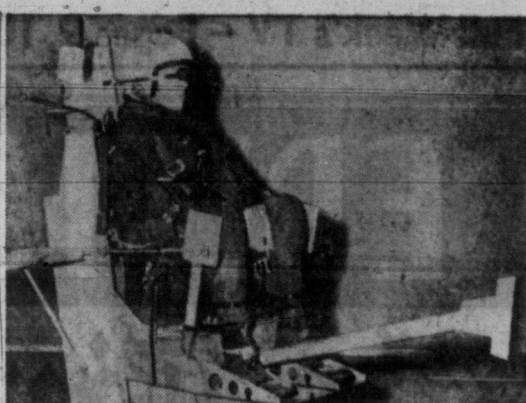

Another 16 persons were in hospital with severe injuries after street fighting between Swazi and Zulu Africans. Police said the trouble resulted from the slaying of a Zulu African.

Police in Johannesburg are on guard against a threat of rioting over the African boycott of city-township bus services after a fare increase.

About 200 Africans Friday night were involved in another riot in Johannesburg.

"WRONG-WAY KERSEY-GAN"

Mr. Morris Kersey, who owns a flying machine, was up with my brother... & Lorne Green: Bruce was a pilot in war-times roles.

So—stick-happy again... to feel the controls: Mr. Green sells lumber, & is a Shawnigan week-ender, Mr. Kersey formerly... a big peanut vendor.

Lorne's still green in the yonder up there. But hopes to soon solo... on a "wing & a prayer." They flew up to Duncan, & to other such places. Three business-men... with grins on their faces.

Salt Spring they circled... a pre-daffodil day. Then back for a coffee & brake at Pat Bay.

"Hi Ruth," said Morris, as a red-head did appear. "Just what are YOU doing... away out here?"

"Oh Dear," she sobbed, in quite obvious pain. "I ran out of gas... so missed my plane."

Morris quizzed his eyebrows at Lorne... then Bruce. They shrugged like 3 guys all carefree & loose.

"O.K.," said Mr. Kersey, "just a breeze... a push-over, Roger... Gentlemen... we'll fly the lady over."

All soon in the air, "she" was thrilled to the core. She'd never been up... in a Cessna before.

"Down there," pointed Bruce, "is Active Pass. Where ships blow their whistles, so they won't ever crash."

"And over there," said Lorne, "yeah... yes ma'am. They too... sell lumber... in Bellingham."

"Oh Golly," breathed "Red"... its' all such a thrill. Morris buzzed the tower... for the ride down hill.

In the Administration Bldg... Ruth spied a bus. Then over "the 3 grins"... she made a big fuss.

She looked up to her "eagles" to say farewell. "Would that bus," she asked, "go past the Olympic Hotel?"

"Good Gosh," they babbled... all puzzle & prattle. We're in Vancouver... and your Hotel's in SEATTLE."

Student Discipline Showdown Coming

Teachers and the educational system face two important controversies in the immediate future, Times associate editor Arthur Stott told the Greater Victoria teachers Friday at their association's annual banquet.

One concerns the question of discipline. "It is coming to a head as more young people misbehave in a more widespread and more vicious manner than has been the custom of anti-social types among juveniles of the past."

Teachers were often the victims and too frequently blamed for the unruliness and more serious offences of the young people.

On a broader field, the speaker suggested, another large debate is looming over the type of education that will be required in local and Canadian schools.

NEW AGE Industry has called for specially equipped graduates to deal with the problems and the havior trend do not come from the public, the initiative may be taken by teachers, he pointed out.

Inco Metals at Work in Canada

Copper is one of 14 elements obtained from Inco ores. Inco produces over 250,000,000 lbs. of copper a year. And more than half of all this copper goes to Canadian companies for the manufacture of copper tube and fittings and hundreds of other useful products. Copper tube and fittings for supply and drainage plumbing are easy and economical to install... and will usually last as long or longer than the buildings in which they are used.

INCO COPPER in millions of feet of plumbing for Canadian homes

... more jobs in Canada

FOR LONG LIFE and trouble-free service, there's nothing quite like copper plumbing in the home. It won't rust; it resists corrosion; under normal conditions, it will last as long as the building.

Today, nearly all the new homes being built in Canada have copper plumbing. And more than half of this copper comes from Inco.

Here's how Inco Copper helps make jobs for Canadians. Down in the mines, Inco workmen blast out the ore. It is milled, smelted and refined.

at Inco's plants in Copper Cliff, Ontario. Refined copper is sold to Canadian companies for the manufacture of tube, fittings and other plumbing items. Then plumbers install them in Canadian homes.

All these operations help provide jobs for thousands of workmen. That's how Inco helps stimulate the growth and development of industry in Canada.

IN PARLIAMENT

Postmen-Hungry Dogs, Pork Barrel Politics

(From Times News Services)

The House spent Friday considering everything from postmen-hungry dogs to alleged political pork barrels.

At one point, only 36 members were in the 265-seat House as it considered post office plans for spending $150,822,334 in public funds for the fiscal year starting April 1.

One suggestion, from Elmore Philpott (L., Vancouver South), was that new postmen be given courses on how to get along with neighborhood dogs. Nine out of 10 postmen got along well with them, but something might be done about the 10th, whose pants were the target of every dog on his route.

Nimsick Raps 'Politicking' By Socreds

It would be a "sorry day" for democracy if a Social Credit government ever was elected in Ottawa, Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) told the legislature Friday.

"You don't know the meaning of democracy," retorted Health Minister Eric Martin.

Mr. Nimsick said government members of the legislature had spent most of the current session "electioneering" for the federal election.

"Almost every speech from the government side has been made with one eye on Ottawa," he complained.

Skilling's Seeks Social Credit Nomination

Waldo Skillings, former Victoria alderman, will seek the Social Credit nomination in Victoria in the forthcoming federal election.

Mr. Skillings said Friday night he had been invited to stand as candidate at the Socred nominating convention to be held in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Garden at 8 p.m. Monday.

Only other candidate, whose hat is definitely in the ring, is John D. Johnson, city druggist.

Humphrey Golby, chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, is a possible candidate.

Fight-if-Must Now U.S. Policy

Eisenhower Signs Middle-East Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed the Middle East resolution declaring United States readiness to fight if necessary to block any Communist aggression in that area.

The president said in a statement the proposal, which he recommended to Congress two months ago, marks "an important forward step in the development of friendly relations between the United States and the Middle East area."

It is, he said, a "further demonstration of the will of the American people to preserve peace and freedom in the world."

The Senate and House of Representatives completed action on the resolution earlier this week.

In addition to declaring the willingness of the United States to use force in event of open Communist aggression, the measure authorizes the spending of $200,000,000 for military-economic aid to Middle East nations by July 1 without some of the restrictions in existing law.

Eisenhower in his four-paragraph statement said the resolution and the unity of national purpose which it reflects will "increase the administration's capabilities to reducing the Communist danger in the Middle East and to strengthening the general stability of the area."

He noted that his special ambassador, James P. Richards, will leave next Tuesday for the Middle East to explain the resolution to nations in the area, an essential and important first step in carrying out the new Middle East policies, he said.

Richards, a South Carolina Democrat and former chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, said he may visit 18 or more countries in his two-month trip.

ON RECORD BUDGET

CCF No-Confidence Motion Ruled Out

A CCF vote of no-confidence in the record $296,000,000 budget brought down by Premier Bennett two weeks ago was ruled out of order Friday by Speaker Thomas Irwin.

The government, supported by the two Liberal members, supported the ruling by a vote of 37-10 after it was challenged by CCF Leader Robert Strachan. A second division was called moments later on Premier Bennett's motion to hold a night sitting, rarely held on Friday nights.

A heated exchange broke out when opposition members voted against the motion and the premier accused them of putting "party" ahead of the people's business.

Moving the non-confidence motion, Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) said the budget was inadequate because it did not allow for increased hospital needs, did not make allowances for old-age pensioners and failed to increase direct grants to the University of British Columbia.

BREACH OF FAITH

Mr. Nimsick further charged that the budget did not encourage home-building, that it supported Ottawa's tight-money policy, made no decrease in taxes, failed to help agriculture and committed "a breach of faith" in handling the game conservation fund.

Speaker Irwin ruled the motion out of order because it stated, in effect, the estimates for government expenditure were inadequate and should be increased.

He held no private member can vote increased estimates.

As the result of the second division was read to the House by E. K. De Beck, clerk of the House, cries of "stearmrolling" and "railroading" were heard from the opposition.

"Those are the kind of remarks that should be withdrawn," snapped Premier Bennett, but Speaker Irwin took no action.

Mr. Strachan pointed out that a public statement had been made by the premier that there would be no night sessions this year.

"Not a week has gone by without one—and this week we have had three," he complained.

"Last year, the budget debate took 11 days, the year before 15 days, and so far this year it has taken 10 days. This week-end we have to study a monumental piece of legislation—the new 899-clause Municipal Act. It isn't fair."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner wound up the budget debate at the night sitting and the house proceeded to pass the first item in the estimates for the coming fiscal year—a sum of $11,491,378 allocated for public debt.

The Municipal Act

BILL 24, NOW BEFORE THE Legislature, is a major and impressive effort to bring the Municipal Act up to date, tidy up amendments added during the last 40 years and co-ordinate under one piece of legislation several related acts.

Until it has been given close and expert study, all its effects will not be known—and even then will probably be misunderstood in certain particulars by the public.

It is inconceivable that a work of this kind will be perfect and universally approved. The bugs will become apparent as time goes on. No one glancing at the 292-page bill expects it to be without them.

There are, however, certain features which draw immediate comment. The bill does not, and presumably was not supposed to, give financial relief to the municipalities. Actually, in its present form, it will reduce municipal income in two particulars at least.

Municipal returns from public utilities will be lower here, if present computations by civic and other staff members are correct.

Beyond that, municipalities will lose tax revenue from private schools. The concession given to such institutions is, in many respects, one of the most important developments in the new bill.

A case can be made for this concession and related directly to the municipal taxpayer. While such schools carry on classes providing education equivalent to that furnished by public schools, the municipal taxpayer is spared the per-pupil cost of educating students in them. Exemption from real property taxes on the lands and buildings cannot amount to the actual funds saved in municipal education costs.

But where does this process stop? Having gained one concession, do the private schools proceed to the next? A progression of this policy could injure the conventional argument for public schools—that the authorities provide free education up to certain standards for all children up to a certain age, and that parents who want something different must pay for it.

The bill's provision for a metropolitan administration where the majority of voters in two-thirds of the municipalities in any given area wish it has already roused debate. While Oak Bay objects, the move seems to be one along the road to co-ordinated services and therefore seems to have merit. It is not amalgamation—which this newspaper has advocated—but it is a movement in that direction.

The question of making police commissions and parks boards appointive will unquestionably rouse dissent. Victoria has tried the appointed police commission and voted it out. The people, at the time of the vote, objected to this withdrawal of their right to name representatives in charge of police affairs.

They have reasons for taking that position. The police board is, among other things, a budgeting body. The taxpayers have a right to decide who shall sit on it to spend their money—and the accompanying right to throw those representatives out of office at the polls when the public is dissatisfied. The same could apply to a parks commission.

Alterations in the qualifications of candidates for municipal office—a change which opens the door wider to younger men and women seeking election to councils and school boards—is to be commended. Its application will bring Victoria into line with other municipalities which have liberalized their regulations in recent years.

It is also interesting and gratifying to note that municipalities are now given permission to support such enterprises of community value as the symphony orchestra. Certainly when such organizations add to the cultural values of an area, all municipalities should have the authority to support them.

These are ingredients of the new bill which makes a workmanlike effort to bring into line the different pieces of legislation under which the municipalities—the children of the provincial government—operate. Its full content, merits and demerits will not be revealed until it has been given much deeper and more detailed consideration.

Canada First

MR. DIEFENBAKER PROVED himself an able orator in his Victoria speech this week. But what did his eloquence mean?

He made two major points, both of them familiar.

First, he says inflation is rampant. He would cure it by reducing taxes and interest rates—that is to say, by making it easier for corporations and governments to borrow and for individuals to spend money. He would thus increase public purchasing power without necessarily increasing the output of goods, now being produced in record volume.

Mr. Diefenbaker is an orator but not an economist. Most economists would agree that he has laid down a foolproof recipe for more inflation.

Nevertheless, he has some support for his theory that an increased money supply is deflationary. That support comes from Premier Bennett and the Social Credit. Mr. Bennett could have made Mr. Diefenbaker's speech about inflation without altering a word.

The agreement between them on fiscal problems seems to be perfect and no barrier of policy keeps them apart. The thing that keeps them apart is Mr. Bennett's ambition to destroy the Conservative Party and Mr. Diefenbaker's ambition to revive it.

Secondly, Mr. Diefenbaker says he stands for a trade policy of "Canada first." That phrase has been used by the Conservative Party for nearly a hundred years and, as a phrase, no one can object to it. What exactly does it signify in its latest version? Mr. Diefenbaker answers that Canada should depend less on the American and more on Commonwealth markets. With this, too, most Canadians will agree in principle.

It is easy to say that we should switch our trade from the American to overseas markets. How is this to be done?

Are we to accept, voluntarily, the relatively low prices offered for our goods overseas and refuse the much higher prices of the American market? Mr. Diefenbaker surely does not expect us to do that voluntarily.

Then he must mean that we should restrict our exports to, and our imports from the United States by tariffs or other legal barriers. Otherwise trade will flow in the currents of demand and price.

If that is what he means—and his policy is meaningless otherwise—let him say so. A case can be made, and has long been made, for higher tariffs and traditional Conservative protectionism. Mr. Diefenbaker does not make it openly. He resorts to the omnibus phrase of "Canada first" without admitting its consequences in lower prices for our exports and higher prices for our imports.

However, the election campaign is young. Perhaps before it is finished Mr. Diefenbaker will explain "Canada First" to a nation which already is first, among all the nations of the world, in its prosperity and expansion.

Chancellor of the University

ELECTION OF MR. A. E. (DAL) Grauer as Chancellor of the University of British Columbia is an excellent choice in every way. As a graduate of the University, (he won first class honors in economics), and a former member of the University Senate, he will bring to his new position a deep understanding of the institution, its past and its potential future.

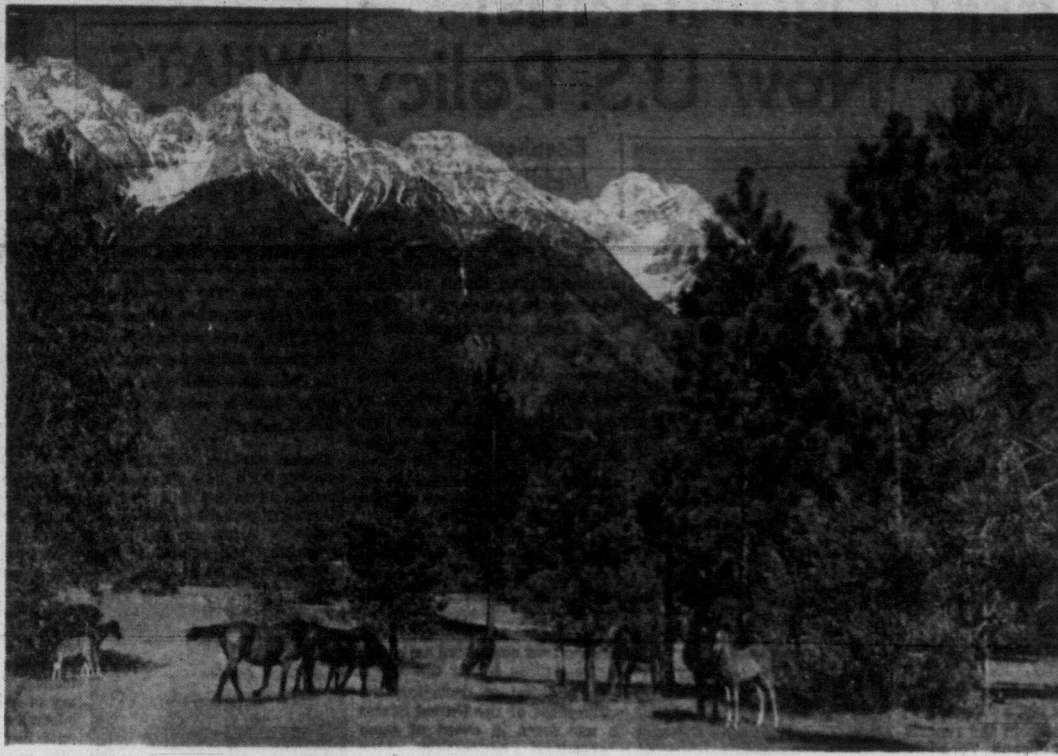

But he will bring much more. Mr. Grauer's career has been a brilliant one in scholarship, in industry and in Canadian citizenship. As a Rhodes scholar he studied law and was called to the bar in this province in 1930. Later he lectured at the University of Toronto, became an expert advisor to the Bank of Canada and the Rowell-Sirois Commission on Dominion-Provincial relations, was consulted by the Government on other national problems and recently served on the Gordon Commission.

Mr. Grauer's additional contributions have been many. As head of a great power corporation he plays a leading part in British Columbia's present development. In civic, charitable and cultural projects of all kinds he has shown leadership and vision.

As Chancellor he will follow a long line of able men who have held the position, and will discharge his duties in keeping with the honored tradition that now attaches to the office. In this he sets a worthy example. Although busy in many and varied fields, he was ready and willing to accept new responsibilities in the educational life of the province.

Men Wanted, But No Amateurs Need Apply

JUST as the nation prepares for a June election the ablest Canadian politician of our time has written a sort of condensed textbook for candidates and voters. No one who knows politics will quarrel, I think, with the view that Senator C. G. Power is our ablest politician (using that word in its widest and highest sense), a man who threw away his career in the House of Commons on an issue of pure principle.

His experience of politics, beginning in 1917—he was elected while serving in the Canadian army overseas—is by far the most comprehensive in our generation. Now, in Queen's Quarterly, he tells the candidates and voters of the approaching election what they should expect and what they should seek.

POLITICS, says Senator Power, remains one of the only full-time fields of endeavor wherein the applicant deems it advisable to boast of his ignorance. Beware, then, the Senator says, of the election orator who announces that he is "a business man not a politician," that he is "a patriot not a partisan." If he has no knowledge of government, let him stay home.

Such a man "may be of some use to his own business but he is useless to yours. If he does not associate himself with some group having views not necessarily identical, but at least with some similarity to his own, he is a single voice crying in a wilderness of futility."

In other words, if a man is to be any use in politics he must be a politician. Yet the electors persist in sending men to Parliament who know nothing about politics; though not many voters would seek medical treatment from a plumber or call in a doctor when the plumbing is out of order.

"The selection of a representative," Senator Power argues, "should be made on account of the competence of the applicant and his understanding of the whole problem of government, not because he is a joiner of clubs and lodges, or a bell ringer, a constant attendant at civic receptions, and a front-rank mourner at funerals."

LOOKING back to his youth, when his own father was a member of Parliament (as his son is now), Senator Power remembers another era and a different kind of politics. Then a man was sent to Parliament because he was distinguished in the business life of his town. He went to Ottawa not as a professional and expert of government, but as an amateur. His real vocation was at home and Parliament only a sideline.

Today, the Senator says, membership in the House of Commons is a full-time job for a professional politician, in the most difficult of all professions.

The member must give virtually his whole year to his profession, is paid a large annual salary and has no time for any other activity, if he is to do his job. And to do his job he must master a field of knowledge much wider and more complicated than that of most professions.

His work and life, however, are not generally understood by his electors for, as the Senator says, the House of Commons has been under public eclipse since the beginning of the last war. In the war years the nation and the war program were managed not even by the full cabinet but by the all-powerful War Committee, of which Mr. Power himself was one of the most powerful and probably the most successful member.

He did his job brilliantly, created the Commonwealth air training scheme out of nothing and resigned in the conscription crisis of 1944 because he would not break his word to his voters.

Nevertheless, as a House of Commons man he regrets the decline of the legislature and the almost unlimited authority of the executive.

Contribution to Pensions

Referring to numerous letters concerning the old age pension and the means test.

Is it not a fact that income tax payers contribute 2 per cent of their income to the fund providing the old age pension? If so, then, are they not entitled to some return for their contributions?

Comes the 'Inquisition'?

The question of Canada requiring a censor for literature is somewhat Gilbertian, because, at present, we do not know who makes up the committee for such a peculiar occupation, or undertaking.

What is embraced in the word "salacious" is also open to question, for almost every public act of "exhibitionism" is open to question also, and is always thrown into the discard by the intelligent mind, as with their reading matter.

The mere thought that the "mind" could now be cast into penal servitude to a "fanatical" puritanism is utterly repulsive in this day and age.

Surely there is no desire in this land of a so-called free people to resuscitate that ogre of the past — a Grand Inquisitor?

modern cabinets pay little attention to him; with the result that promising young men, who should be the nation's future leaders, are discouraged, often apathetic and effectively destroyed.

This human process, the Senator thinks, has debased the whole parliamentary and democratic process and, for the time being, has undermined the historic function of Parliament.

He believes, however, that things will change, that Parliament will reassert itself. It will never return to its old ways, simply because politics is now a profession and no longer a part-time hobby, but as the new professionals are trained they will recover the authority of the legislature and, when necessary, discipline the executive.

MEANWHILE the Senator's advice to candidates and voters is timely and useful. A few months from now we shall have the chance throughout the nation to send the best sort of men to Ottawa and to leave the others at home.

Though these decisions are presently attracting less attention than hockey games, movies and television shows, an election is a rather serious business. For good or ill, its results will affect every life in the nation. Perhaps with a great effort we might choose our next Parliament as carefully as we choose a doctor or a plumber.

THE SPEAKER GETS THE CREDIT, BUT

The Voice From the Back Row Always Has the Last Say

AS SOON as I got home from Mr. John Diefenbaker's meeting last Thursday night I looked up the word "stentorian." It had been running in my mind during most of the Conservative leader's address and it turned out to be exactly the right expression. A stentorian voice is a powerful voice, and that's what Mr. Diefenbaker has.

Tobin

He also has a powerful platform manner, a slightly heavy but persuasive way with an audience. He never subsides to a conversational note: he declaims, he orates, he pontificates. You get the impression that if he were to ask you the time it would be in a full orotund tone. You would have no doubts about his sincerity, nor would anyone else within an appreciable distance.

On a platform today John Diefenbaker has a good presence. He shows complete confidence and control. It was not always so.

The last time I had seen and heard the rising Saskatchewan politician was in the Winnipeg Auditorium in December, 1942. The intervening fifteen years have done a lot for him.

At that time Mr. Diefenbaker was one of a handful of candidates vying for leadership of the Conservative Party. The job went to John Bracken, who made a dramatic, last-minute entry. (If his taxi had taken three minutes longer to reach the convention hall he would have been too late to qualify.)

There were other dramatic incidents too. For instance Howard Green, another candidate, collapsed in the midst of his speech and was carried from the stage to receive medical attention.

George Drew, who made the best speech of the convention, was not a candidate but later won the leadership against them all.

But it was John Diefenbaker's speech I have always remembered best, at least the manner of it. He started out at a high, tense pitch and got stuck with it. He couldn't go up, and he couldn't come down. So the entire address was an unvarying, continuing climax.

That's a tough pace to sustain even for fifteen minutes. The result was that the audience remained on edge for the duration, and sighed with relief when the conclusion of the speech, still at peak load of agony and intensity, allowed them to untwist their nerves and relax.

Mr. Diefenbaker still shows traces of that high-pitched intensity. But he is now the master of it rather than the victim. He has learned to use it for emphasis, descending to the level of the platform now and then to get a new start.

By almost every standard Thursday's meeting was an excellent one. There was a rather undignified rush for the exits when the collection plates appeared, even though The Queen had not yet been sung. But this might be attributable to members of parties other than the Conservative who had sneaked in in one disguise or another.

It was encouraging to see that a political meeting can still draw an audience. Well over a thousand Victorians forsaken radios, television, movies (remember movies?) and other ways of killing an unendurable evening and turned up in the good old style to hear a speaker in the flesh.

I sat in the rear as a back-bencher and had a good view of the proceedings.

As regards statistics, the crowd was about evenly divided between men and women. The women were good, sensible, conservative hats. Ninety per cent or better of the men's heads were bald. And when General George Peckes declared in ringing tones that "The Conservative Party is a party of youth!" all the rows of aging heads nodded vigorous agreement.

General Peckes, who without much encouragement might have stolen the show, so great was his popularity, had other ringing statements to make.

He declared that John Diefenbaker is the "greatest living Canadian," and elaborated on it by calling him "a cross between Simon de Montfort and Disraeli."

Mr. Diefenbaker buried his face in his notes. Mrs. Diefenbaker looked straight ahead. There was a slight shuffling of feet in the audience but the incident passed.

Incidentally, there was a good deal of "favorite son" sentiment in the audience. When Mr. Diefenbaker made a smiling reference to prairie people who might be present there was a widespread and hearty response from ex-Saskatchewanites.

As a speech, the Conservative leader's remarks were good, rousing political stuff. He probed for the Government's weaknesses and had no trouble finding some. He referred scathingly to the mudslingers in Parliament, with Cabinet ministers apologizing for not knowing what they were talking about.

"I cannot recognize," said Mr. Diefenbaker sadly, "the Parliament I used to know."

But he slipped up in one respect. I thought. He scornfully denounced the Liberals for their bribes to the electorate. Mark my words, he said, there's an election coming up. And as sure as there's an election they'll offer you a reduction in your taxes.

Ten minutes later he was roundly declaring, "Taxation must be reduced," and offering his party as the only one that would do it.

It was stentorian all right. But a little confusing.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Past the Kindergarten and Down the Hill

LAST week we started on a simple boyhood odyssey, a shoe-suffling walk down old Fernwood Road, and we ran out of space before the end of the first long block at Pandora.

Sivertz

The journey was a kind letter from Rhoda Boyer, who before her marriage was one of the fine Sherwood family who lived at the corner of Pembroke and Spring Road, just opposite the famous spring itself. Her letter corrected my last column in which I said Paul Clyde was a grandson of Mrs. Jenkins, when, of course, it was Claude Emory.

But the more intriguing part of her letter was the information that the site of the David Ker home at Fort and Fernwood had then been occupied by a small kindergarten presided over by Mrs. McNaughton, Paul Clyde's aunt and an exceedingly lovely young woman, Pearl Fleming. It was one of the saddest things in our childhood days and memories that this beautiful girl's life was cut short by tragedy.

Rhoda wrote that the little kindergarten had 22 pupils in 1897, at which time I was two years old and she four. She remembers the names of half the total number and I am sure they will evoke many memories.

There was Olive Gowan, Marjorie Carne, whose father, Fred Carne, was proprietor of a fine, large grocery; Ernie Elford, whose family gave its name to a street three blocks east of Fernwood; Eva Muncie, Grace and Harold Beckwith, Marjorie and Aubrey Kent; Jean McEwen, whose father was then pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church; Ollie and Rhoda Sherwood.

It must have been quite a walk for a little four-year-old, but perhaps her chubby hand was often resting in Pearl Fleming's warm palm on the way home.

So with this digression into pre-school life, we continue our interrupted journey, pausing to admire the big Rogers home that stood—and still stands—on the southeast corner of Fernwood and Pandora. Cliff Rogers later became president of the White Pass & Yukon Railway, after working with Herbert Wheeler on that most romantic northern system of transportation.

Later the Creech family took over the Rogers' home.

Now, mind you, we are just skipping along as kids do after school and there is no pretence here that we docketed all the homes along this artery of human progress. We found, too, all sorts of random provocations on the route to divert attention, and if the day was a warm, dry, spring day, we might stop to play marbles on some level spot.

I was never much good at marbles through some inability to shoot from the thumb knuckle and I think I mostly shot by what was derisively called "fudging," a method that lacked precision and speed in the shot.

So our halting progress was largely in a series of spurts and stops. Perhaps we would notice Cyrus H. Bowes' home, not because it held any intrinsic interest, but because his drug store down on Government Street held two fascinating immense glass containers of some colored fluid through which he would shine a light.

His home was just about at Balmoral and across the street was the fine Westcott home. Virgil Westcott was one of our contemporaries, a good-looking and well-dressed boy, who later became a dentist.

His name intrigued me. Totally ignorant of Latin I failed, naturally, to associate it with the poet and simply thought it was rather a "pretty" name but one singularly unsuited to myself or to any of my close friends.

The rest of the block down to Grant was almost without interest until we came abreast the austere home of Perry Mills and we would slow down in the hope that Mr. Mills might drive up in a hack and we could glimpse his amazing red waistcoat and odd-shaped top hat—somehow like the hat made famous by Winston Churchill.

At the back of his house Mr. Mills boasted a fine orchard and he kept a pretty wary eye on the cherry trees along about the end of June. He once caught Tom and George Norris sating themselves on his cherries which surprised them and showed that the diminutive lawyer could move quickly and silently.

The Norris home, just across the road, was a sort of centre for this area; like the hub of a wheel whose spokes reached out as far as Belmont, Pembroke and maybe Chambers Street.

Of course the real hub of activity on Fernwood was a block away where Gladstone intersected. There was the terminus of the old No. 3 street car line that ran from this corner all the way to Beacon Hill Park. And this corner was then, as it is today, the thriving little shopping centre for a large, scattered district.

Billy Reagin had built his bakery there and on the opposite corner was Hendry's Grocery, both with stables for their horses and delivery rigs behind.

And as we run out of space again we say adieu for another week having stopped to rest in the shade of the Baptist Church spire.

The Amiable Tiger

"If a person woke up in the middle of the night and found an escaping tiger on top of his bed and suffered a heart attack it would be nothing to the point that the intentions of the tiger were quite amiable..."

Such speculations as the foregoing are seldom called for in the course of litigation in Canada, and this column feels it is a great shame. When one of its scouts in London sent it a report of the ease in which that immortal passage occurs, your humble servant got to thinking how very dull is the day to day routine of our judges. Divorces, motor accidents, squabbles over wills... but never a glorious shenanigan such as the one which got Mr. Justice Devlin of the Queen's Bench division thinking about amiable tigers.

SILENUS

The facts of the case were simple. Monumentally so. A midget and his wife were suing a circus proprietor for damages. So far, nothing out of the ordinary. Midgets can sue as well as the next man. But how did they suffer? From a nervous elephant. In sober restrained tones the sad tale was recounted, of how an amiable cow elephant (I am disappointed by "cow"... I always thought lady elephants were just called "ladies" or "girls" like cows are) named Bulla was startled by a small dog called Simba; of how she trumpeted, and took off after the small dog; and of how the midget and his wife became involved in the falling timbers, etc., which resulted from Bulla's excitement.

His Lordship dwelt upon the different sorts of animals which are known to the law. He distinguished domestic animals, animals wild by nature, animals wild by nature with amiable temperaments, and tame animals with vicious propensities. But all the time you could tell his non-legal thoughts were dwelling upon the crowded minute of magnificent brouhaha, barking dogs, trumpeting elephants, crashing timbers and shouting mahouts (or oozies) which had been the cause of the midgets coming before him.

Could not some thoughtful citizen, some public-spirited soul, arrange something like this to liven up the judicial life of our judges?

It is probably too late. We are too utilitarian here. If your elephant trotted on me, you would probably just pay up and be done with it, instead of saying it was my fault and refusing, like a man. Even in the days when camels (two-humpers, I understand) trod our Cariboo Trail, frightening horses and stampeding cattle, nobody thought of suing them or their owners. Or if they did, there is no record of it.

Just think how a defendant camel would have fared at the hands of Sir Matthew Begbie... in round phrases it would have been condemned as an animal wild by nature, or at least unnatural in British Columbia. Think of what would happen if such remarks were in print today! Nasser would feel the Arab cause was insulted, and would throw sand in the canal in retaliation. Mr. Dulles would look wise. President Eisenhower would make a speech. Mr. Pearson would fluff up his tie and hurry off to the United Nations. Mr. St. Laurent would... but we must confine this flight of imagination, which has already gone too far.

O deride not the camel!

But if British Columbia's courts are denied startled elephants and analogous tigers, they do have the Sheep Protection Act. Did you know that if a dog kills your chickens it is this act which gives you recompense? Well, it does, and presumably for your sheep too (unless of course, the sheep are savage by disposition and kill the dog. The statute is silent as to this situation).

All in all, animals have great possibilities, and this column feels that it is only fair that we make use of them to give our judges a bit of a break occasionally.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By CHARLES LYNCH

Prestige Diminished

NEW YORK—There can be little doubt that the prestige of the United Nations has been diminished by the events of the 11th General Assembly.

No previous Assembly made more news, and never in its history has the United Nations been so much in the minds of people all over the globe. But the net result has not been in favor of the UN.

It is too early to say how deep the damage is, and how much harm has been done to the basic UN concept, so dear to the hearts of men of good will in almost every country of the world. Attitudes on anything so ponderous and far-reaching as the United Nations shift slowly, and trends of thought require months or even years to detect and to make themselves felt.

One must, of course, make the usual reservation that there really is no "United Nations" as such—that this place merely represents the sum of the viewpoints and motives of the member nations, and that any world organization of this sort can be no better than its members make it.

The 11th session started with a bang, inheriting the Middle East and Hungarian crisis from the emergency special sessions that took place during the first two weeks of November.

The Assembly's record on Hungary requires a minimum of comment—it is a record of resolutions deploring Russia's action, calling upon Russia to withdraw her troops. It is a record of Soviet indifference to each and every resolution.

The credentials of a delegation representing the Kadar government in Budapest were accepted by the Assembly, although that delegation proceeded to boycott most of the meetings. Anna Kethly, minister of state in the short-lived Nagy government, was given no recognition by the Assembly, although she did get to testify briefly before a committee which was set up as a pigeonhole for the Hungarian question when the Assembly found itself stymied.

On the Middle Eastern crisis the Assembly was more decisive at the outset, after the British, French and Israeli attack upon Egypt. Britain and France heeded the demand for a ceasefire and for troop withdrawal—whether they did this because of Assembly demands, or because of opposition of the Commonwealth countries, or threats by Russia, is still a guessing game.

The United Nations Emergency Force came into being amid a great deal of excitement at the prospect of the UN having "teeth" at last. UNEF moved to Egypt with dazzling speed. But Israel was in no such hurry as Britain and France had been to withdraw her troops, and throughout most of the Assembly she defied resolutions calling for her withdrawal. Interpreting those resolutions gave the secretary general, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, a bad time, and by the Assembly's end his own reputation, so high in the early days of the Assembly, had diminished in a number of countries, where it seemed that UNEF was being used more to further the purposes of Egypt than those of the world community.

Rare Surgery Gives 1-Year-Old Healthy New Heart Connection

CHICAGO (CP)—Normal health is a special birthday present today for a one-year-old Glenn Phinney of Brandon, Man.

The happy-looking, round-faced boy was operated on Feb. 28 to correct a rare and potentially crippling congenital fault in his heart. Today, doctors say, he is "in fine shape" and will be going home shortly with his mother, Mrs. Milton Phinney.

Doctors found shortly after he was born that a mixed-up circulatory system was not sending enough blood to his lungs to pick up fresh oxygen.

He was taken to Children's Memorial Hospital here, where similar cases have been treated successfully during the last 15 months. Surgeons decided to operate.

They opened the chest cavity and made a new blood vessel connection in the right side of the heart. During the operation surgeons also tied in auxiliary blood vessels to make the flow of blood from the heart to the lungs normal.

The operation did not involve a switch of arterial connections at the heart itself.

Doctors said Glenn weathered the operation without difficulties. He was given two pints of blood and put in an oxygen tent as a precautionary measure.

He was taken from the oxy-

75% of Blame Laid to Cyclist In Car Mishap

A boy cyclist Friday was found 75 per cent to blame by Mr. Justice H. Alan Maclean for an accident which occurred at the corner of Blanshard and Johnson Streets on May 4, 1956.

The cyclist, 14-year-old Eugene Ross Innes of Victoria, through his father, sued Robert C. Wigg, 1015 Foul Bay Road, a minor, for serious injuries suffered when he was knocked down in a collision with Wigg's car at the intersection.

In a judgment, the Supreme Court Justice said the cyclist rode into the intersection without keeping a proper lookout.

As for the defendant, the justice said he was 25 per cent to blame for the accident because he also did not keep a proper lookout.

Mr. Justice Maclean assessed the damages for the plaintiff at $3,000 and $700.40 in special damages.

But because the cyclist was held to be 75 per cent to blame for the accident, he will only recover from the defendant a total of $925.

$36 Million 'Commandeered' By Premier, Gibbs Claims

P. A. Gibbs, Liberal member for Oak Bay, charged in the legislature Friday that $36,000,000 earmarked in the provincial budget for the sinking fund will actually be used to pay off debts of government agencies.

"The $36,000,000 is to be used in fact to pay so-called contingent liabilities," he said, "a belated recognition that contingent liabilities have to be paid by the people just as any other kind of liability."

The premier had stated in his budget speech that the money was to become a cash reserve supplementing the sinking fund, in order to pay off B.C.'s direct debt.

"That, of course, would be very desirable if we have the cash to spare for creating such a reserve," Mr. Gibbs said, "and if the people were not demanding tax relief."

The budget showed that government agencies such as the Power Commission, PGE and Toll Highways and Bridges Authority have total commitments of $150,000,000, the member said.

GIBBS IN HOUSE

Deal Called 'Red Herring'

Liberal member P. A. Gibbs Friday accused Premier Bennett of using the Wenner-Gren proposals as a "red herring" to divert attention from B.C.'s serious marketing problems.

"Because of our reliance on export of primary resources and failure to meet foreign competition we've priced ourselves out of the world market," the Oak Bay member said.

The premier should have informed the people of B.C. of the difficulties of our exporters, Mr. Gibbs said. "Instead, he diverted the people's attention with a mammoth industrial intent—a red herring—a red Moby Dick."

Not only that, he alleges that these problems of international trade are attributable to the federal government—which is nothing but a perversion of the truth."

Of this sum, the agencies "must find immediately, say, $36,000,000 to pay the contractors."

But the premier had said there is "a lack of loanable funds in the open market for government agencies."

And so he "comes up with the smart idea that the $36,000,000 surplus revenue collected from you and me shall not be refunded to us."

"He has decided to commandeer that $36,000,000 of ours to pay the contractors."

In its place $36,000,000 of government agency bonds were placed in the sinking fund bearing interest obligations, Mr. Gibbs said.

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

Mr. Gibbs, a chartered accountant, described it as a "fantastic scheme."

He got into a hot exchange with the premier when he went further and called the proposal "ingenious but dishonest."

Mr. Bennett jumped to his feet to demand a withdrawal of a statement imputing dishonesty on the part of the government and Mr. Gibbs complied after an order from Speaker Thomas Irwin.

The premier accused Mr. Gibbs of "trying to hurt" B.C. by suggesting the government would not pay off its bonds.

He said the member had attempted to give this impression, "B.C. will never default on its bonds," said the premier.

Guest Artists Are Selected Months Ahead of Concerts

Very shortly now, we shall release to you information concerning guest-artists and or guest-conductors who will join the orchestra in the course of the next, 1957-1958 subscription season. As a preliminary to this announcement, allow me to discuss this and allied subjects with you briefly.

First of all, a season like ours cannot be planned for concert to concert. Certain firm commitments must be made now for concerts which will not see the light of day until from eight to 15 months later.

Just as the concert you have been hearing recently were laid down in certain essentials a year ago, so the concert you are hearing now were laid down in certain essentials a year ago.

When you come to study the list of visiting artists, may I suggest that you view their names not so much from the point of view of your familiarity with them than in the light of your past experience with our guest-artists generally.

Let us take the example of Glenn Gould, who, incidentally, is about to fulfill his long-anticipated appearance with us on Sunday, and Monday, March 17 and 18—the next pair of concerts (also in Duncan next Friday evening on March 15).

FAME FOLLOWED
When he played with us last season for the first time, he was, so far as anybody knew, seen in Victoria, both with important careers already to their credit, and both residents of eastern Canada. At least one of the guest-artists who made one of the deepest impressions this season will return in the course of the next.

While I continue to maintain that the only really important name on a program is that of the composer, rather than that of a performer—it is, I hope, the music primarily to which you come to listen—concerts are a necessary and legitimate part of a balanced symphony season.

Our guest-artists budget—as our budget generally—is but a fraction of that of other orchestras who undertake comparable seasons to ours.

We can only hope that you have approved, and will continue to do so, of our endeavors to put our limited means to the best use we can find.

MARIAN ANDERSON

GLENN GOULD

Two Great Events

Two of the major events of this season, to which all music lovers have been looking forward with rising anticipation, come off within the

On Monday night the golden voice of Marian Anderson will be heard at the Royal Theatre in one of her fabulous and distinguished recitals.

One of the greatest contraltos of all time, Miss Anderson's voice and musicianship have become a living tradition, on a par with the greatest of the past—Caruso, Jenny Lind, Schumann-Heink.

According to advance reports from Famous Artists' box office, she will be greeted by a capacity audience when she steps on the stage, Monday.

The following weekend—March 17 and 18—last but one of this season's subscription series of concerts by Victoria Symphony Orchestra will feature the inspired and incredible artistry of a youthful Canadian pianist whose fame has already far outstripped any other young pianist on the North American continent.

Glenn Gould has been frankly hailed as a genius, and this by serious critics who have almost never allowed the word to pass their lips previously.

This is Gould's second appearance here with the Victoria Symphony; his first, a year ago last December, is still a highlight in the memories of those who heard him.

He will be playing Beethoven's Concerto No. 4 in G minor for piano and orchestra.

Speaking of spirited performances, violinist Zino Francescatti gives one on a new Columbia record. He is soloist in Brahms' Concerto in D Major for violin, played by the Philadelphia Orchestra with Eugene Ormandy conducting.

This work is one of the major violin concertos in the repertoire. It is on the same level as Beethoven's and Elgar's violin concertos.

An interesting sidelight on Francescatti is that he was once an ardent mountain climber. Today, however, his only interest is music. It is his profession and hobby rolled up in one.

Johann Sebastian Bach was prolific in more ways than one. Apart from composing hundreds of works, he had a family of 20 children—four of whom turned out to be famous musicians in their day. Their works are coming to the fore now with more frequent performance.

Angel has just released a disc entitled "Four Symphonies by three sons of Bach"—Johann Christian, Wilhelm Friedemann and Carl Philip. The music is performed by the Orchestra de Chambre under the baton of Louis Froment of Paris.

All I need say about this disc is—if you like chamber works, this record should be on your list. The symphony of Wilhelm Friedemann neglected for many years, is a masterpiece.

POPS LIBRARY
More about women—Ann Leonardo is the beautiful Brunette who often appears on Arthur Godfrey's morning TV show. Her Capitol recording of "The Law of Attraction" should establish her as a lady with a future... Similarly Ann Hathaway is making great headway with her stylings of songs such as "Stormy Weather" and "What Is There to Say?" on the Motif label... Felicia Sanders' "Johnnyo" (Mercury) is a tenderly sung ballad that has more depth and sensuality than her "Song from Moulin Rouge."

Turntable tips—Queen Elizabeth is a Magoo fan and should be happy with the "Magoo in Hi-Fi" LP issued by RCA-Victor. Dennis Farron's music is exceptionally good... "Take Me Back Baby" and "Keep Deep in the Blues" by Guy Mitchell (Columbia) are coupled on a single that is a natural follow-through to Guy's "Singing the Blues" success... Gale Storm's recording of "Lucky Lips" has a good beat... Roger Williams (Kapp) doesn't need any vocal support but gets it anyway in his sensitive coupling of "Almost Paradise" and "For the First Time."

Tops in Pops—"Rock Doc" by Louis Jordan (Mercury), "Three-penny Tango" by Dick Hyman (M-G-M) and "Meaning of the Blues" by Julie London (Liberty).

ENDS TONIGHT
Presenting
DANNY KAYE in "KNOCK ON WOOD"
Co-Starring MAE ZETTERLING
The irrepressible King of Comedians is superb in this riotous feast of fun and will keep you in stitches for the full 100 minutes he is at his mad-cap best. We wish there were more of this type of entertainment. Whether as a sentimental, patient of a psychiatrist, sports car driver, ballet dancer "extraordinary," or the victim of an international gang of plotters, Danny breezes through these sequences in his own inimitable way, leaving a trail of laughter behind that can be heard for miles. No wonder he is Princess Margaret's favorite "Court Jester" and loved by all the children of the world. Unreservedly recommended and in Technicolor.

Gallery's Mass Harbor Show Calling All Artists in Area

A novel exhibition planned by directors of Greater Victoria Art Gallery will probably initiate a regular painting spree on the part of pallet-and-brush artists in this area.

Creation of a mass portrait of Victoria Harbor is the scheme in which all painters, in any medium and style, are invited to participate. Exhibition of the paintings will take place at the gallery from July 9 to 28.

It is expected by this means, that more local work will be brought to public attention. The exhibition will also reveal how variously a single theme can be interpreted by the individual artist.

For purposes of the portrait,

Victoria harbor will be defined as comprising the area from the harbor mouth to, and including, Point Ellice Bridge. Views from any vantage point will be acceptable so long as they show, somewhere, a bit of harbor water.

Primarily, the exhibition is open to anyone who at any time has had a picture accepted in one of the gallery's jury shows. Works by such artists will be admitted without jurying.

Artists who have not previously shown in jury shows but who feel their work is up to jury standard, are invited to submit harbor paintings to the gallery's exhibition committee two weeks prior to opening of the show.

Gallery directors state that if the show is successful—which it can only be if the artists themselves are enthusiastic about the idea—plans will be laid to make the event annual or semi-annual. Each year's theme would, of course, be different.

Anyone feeling himself qualified to attempt an entry can pick up details and an entry form at the gallery, Moss Street.

Canada's world-famed Stratford Shakespeare Festival has spread its influence across the country, not only through the unrivalled reputation of its productions, but also, in the last two years, through its touring subsidiary, the Canadian Players.

What began as a dream in the minds of several members of the festival company, through the magic touch of Tom Patterson, the festival founder, became in 1954, a reality.

On Patterson's invitation, Douglas Campbell, an Old Vic star, brought his wife, Ann Casson, daughter of Dame Sybil Thorndyke and Sir Lewis Casson, to Canada to star in the festival and afterwards to form the touring company.

When the Patterson-Campbell company went into rehearsal it was with Shaw's Saint Joan, which had brought Ann Casson such high praise from Shaw himself during a two-year run in England and on the continent.

The production constituted an unqualified triumph for the new company and established it almost overnight as a worthy off-spring of the great festival.

Now on its second coast-to-coast North American tour, Canadian Players, is meeting with success on all sides. The company will appear in Victoria on Tuesday and Wednesday, performing Shakespeare's Othello on the first night, and Man and Superman on the second.

Tickets are going rapidly but are still available at Eaton's box office.

WRITTEN AND REWRITTEN

Voyage From Life Is Ultimate Dream

MR. ARCULARIS, by Conrad Aiken. Harvard. The play, dramatized originally by the late Diana Hamilton and retitled "Fear No More," lasted out its scheduled four-week London run despite mixed reviews. Aiken, however, was dissatisfied with the play even in the revised version he produced during its British provincial tour.

He has now rewritten it extensively. In the process restoring its original title. In its new form, "Mr. Arcularis," has been seen on television in the United States and Canada and in stock productions in Washington and Provincetown, but it has not as yet been produced professionally on Broadway or in London's west end.

The play begins with Mr. Arcularis on the operating table, undergoing delicate surgery. The action shifts abruptly to the patient's hospital room and then to the ship on which he is travelling for his health. Only gradually does the audience realize that the "sea voyage" is in fact Mr. Arcularis' last dream, and that inevitably the play must end with his death under the surgeon's knife.

The play in book form is an interesting addition to any theatrical library.

Singer April Ames, a Zephyr recording artist, is busy between TV appearances and record dates, but not too busy for several weekly stints on behalf of the March of Dimes fund drive. She puts her heart into her appeals for contributions to treat polio cases—and she means what she says, because she knows something about polio sufferers. She had the disease as a child.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

Keen Analysis Of Modern Man

With three novels—and very slim ones at that—and a couple of collections of philosophical essays, Algerian-born Albert Camus has achieved the stature of one of the greatest writers of our time.

As one whose insight into human character probed so deeply that it became not mere wisdom and understanding of humanity, but an inspired depiction of what we are and what we do. The ideas were crystallized in an art form so close to the rhythms of modern existence that those who read "The Stranger" felt its strength and immediacy as a personal experience.

Camus had started as the son of a working-class French family in Algeria in 1913. He worked at all sorts of things—in an automobile accessory factory, in the weather bureau, in a shipping office—to pay his own way through the University of Algiers. He became a journalist and was a success.

James Scott

Century-Old Literary Device

In 1935 he ran a theatrical company which concentrated on the moderns, especially the French like Gide and Malraux, and when the war came he quickly became one of the leading writers of the French Resistance. Since 1946 his career has been as a writer known and respected throughout the world.

His newest book, "The Fall," reflects Camus' own toughness of fibre and his own dearly-bought worldly wisdom. In form it has an interesting literary parallel. It is an interior monologue which uses in prose almost exactly the same devices as those handled so skillfully in poetry a hundred years ago by Robert Browning.

And the similarity does not end there. As I read through the 150 pages of "The Fall" I could not help thinking over and over again that either Browning or Camus was an interesting throwback to the 19th century.

"The Fall" is a monologue by a former Parisian lawyer living in Amsterdam who now calls himself a "judge-penitent." It lasts for five days during which time the former advocate explains how he fell from a position of prosperity and serenity, how he wallowed in the abyss of his own dilemma and what he fastened upon as a means to his salvation.

In the recital, the problem of modern, sophisticated man is laid bare or as Camus makes his hero phrase it, "With all that, I construct a portrait which is the image of all and of no one."

The details of the portrait are of a man successful in his profession, unwittingly, but firmly secure in his own pampered ego. A man who did good deeds because of the satisfaction he got from so doing, not because he liked being good.

Sound of Laughter Crumpled Structure

And simultaneously, this man had a subterranean life in which he indulged all his fleshly desires with no regard for the partners of his interminable affairs. He sought solely the means of satisfying his own sensuality and became an expert at it.

And then the whole fabric of his successful existence began to crumble. It began with a faint sound of laughter he happened to hear one evening as he was walking home. From that moment on he was never free of the laughter—laughter at him, not with him.

In short, he became the modern man whose life is not securely enough based to confront the stresses of modern living.

This, Camus says, is the root of our fear: our instinctive knowledge that we are guilty and that the rest of the world, which is also guilty, is judging us.

The solution is ingenious but I doubt that the author intended us to take it seriously for he makes his hero say in conclusion "At long intervals, on a really beautiful night I occasionally hear a distant laugh and again I doubt."

The book does not provide the answer, but it does contain one of the most penetrating analyses of modern man you are likely to read in this generation.

Catholic Censorship Tactics Rouse Book Publishers Anger

By HOWARD BENEDICT
NEW YORK (AP)—A middle-aged man walked into a New Jersey newsstand and asked for a paper-bound copy of an Ernest Hemingway novel.

"I'm sorry, we don't carry that book," said the dealer. "It's on the list."

If the man had asked for certain works of some other prominent writers, the answer would have been the same.

He would have found the same situation in parts of Massachusetts, Michigan, Oregon, Wisconsin and in many other areas where the National Organization for Decent Literature is successful in keeping what it considers objectionable literature out of the hands of children and teenagers.

The books on the list are not disapproved for adults, but because of it many older persons have difficulty buying certain books, except in book stores.

PUBLISHERS OPPOSED
The list has resulted in a struggle between NODL and the American Book Publishers' Council of New York, which represents 90 per cent of U.S. publishers.

The publishers' council accuses the organization of using "book burning tactics" and "censorship by lynch law."

NODL, a Roman Catholic organization with headquarters in Chicago, answers that its movement is necessary "to preserve the ideals of our young people."

Most of the books banned are not "classics" and are not written by prominent authors. But the fact that some well-known books are on the list has provided the ABPC with its heaviest ammunition in its fight to halt what it calls the NODL use of "extra-legal pressures on news dealers to enforce censorship."

NODL insists that if adults want to read the banned books they can buy them in book stores.

HIGHER PRICES
Publishers say this means a person has to pay 10 to 20 times the price for a book.

Peter Jennison, assistant manager of the National Book Store, says: "Maybe this is National Laughter Week or something, for there is quite an emphasis in this direction among several of the new books."

There is, for example, Louis Untermeyer's Treasury of Ribaldry; Low's Autobiography, by David Low; Laughter is a Wonderful Thing, by Joe E. Brown; Reerbohn Tree; His Life and Laughter, by Edward H. G. Pearson and The Complete Stories of Mark Twain.

Admirers of Bromfield will be interested in a study, Louis the clear counsel of the NODL council, says NODL works this way:

"Local parish committees armed with the NODL list visit news dealers in their neighborhoods and ask them to remove blacklisted books and magazines from sale. If they agree, they are given a certificate of co-operation that is renewed monthly. The list of co-operating stores is read or posted in the churches and parishioners are told to patronize only the stores displaying the seal of approval."

The NODL director, Most Rev. John F. Dearden, Bishop of Pittsburgh, denies his organization puts undue pressure on dealers.

"The NODL program," he says, "is a voluntary one aimed at keeping from the nation's youth publications which violate the standards of good taste and accepted code of polite behavior. This list is circulated to handlers of the publications asking their voluntary help in keeping and is often responsible for them off the newsstands. It is adult criminality..."

DISAGREE ON EFFECTS
The publishers' council and NODL differ widely on whether certain books have sociological effects on adolescents.

The publishers refer to a study by Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck of Harvard University which says "the important influences on a child's development are his real experiences, not what he reads about."

NODL retaliates with a resolution adopted by the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, which reads in part: "There is a growing realization that foul publications, through their distribution to children and youth and their extensive encouragement to read them, contribute to the breakdown of the moral sense in children which today is causing an increase in juvenile delinquency their voluntary help in keeping and is often responsible for them off the newsstands. It is adult criminality..."

Salt Water and Laughter Among Latest Additions

A much-discussed book by Gerald Green is new on the fiction shelves of Victoria's Public Library. This is The Last Angry Man, a novel which presents a segmented study of modern social mores in the American way of life. It is a serious novel and is surely one not to be missed.

Alister MacLean—author of HMS Ulysses—is back with an exciting and heroic drama of wartime, The Guns of Navarone. Also new on fiction shelves, is one for the sailors—both armchair and real—Thomas B. Woodruff's collection of Best Stories of the Navy.

Again, with reference to the navy, Victoria historian Frederick V. Longstaff's HMCS Naden's Naval Barracks is now available.

Maybe this is National Laughter Week or something, for there is quite an emphasis in this direction among several of the new books.

There is, for example, Louis Untermeyer's Treasury of Ribaldry; Low's Autobiography, by David Low; Laughter is a Wonderful Thing, by Joe E. Brown; Reerbohn Tree; His Life and Laughter, by Edward H. G. Pearson and The Complete Stories of Mark Twain.

Bird House Building Data

Birds, like humans, are fussy about their living quarters. As one wag put it and a large bird in a small birdhouse might reiterate, "these are not quarters, they're eighth's." So it is wise for the builder to keep in mind the individual needs of the species of bird he seeks to attract. A birdhouse that is adaptable to many varieties of birds is suggested above. Individual specifications for different species of birds are provided here.

Mac is a very active-type doggie, smooth coat, mixed terrier and collie, black and white, nine months old. Friendly, happy-go-lucky fellow.

COMMON CENTS PROBLEM

Many have noticed, at one time or another, a glass jar filled with copper cents on view in a store window as a provocative attention-getter.

Observers are invited to guess the number of cents in the jar and the one whose guess comes closest to the actual count wins the grand prize. No indication is given of the approximate amounts in the jar beforehand.

Here, four jars are shown and this time you are given certain definite clues to the contents of each. You do not have to do any guessing. Simple arithmetic will give you the correct answers.

The number of cents in A, plus half of the cents in B, C and D, totals 740. Jar B, with one-third of A, C and D, totals 740. Jar C, with one-quarter of A, B and D, totals 740. And Jar D, plus one-fifth of A, B and C, totals 740.

How many cents are there in each of the four jars?

Ethel Merman Stars Tonight With Perry

Bette Davis Seen in Sunday Drama Omnibus Treats With 'Capt. Kidd'

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

Unfortunately for weekend viewers three of Sunday's five programs are in competition with one another. For instance, at 9 Bob Hope holds sway on Channel 4 for an hour with the likes of Rosemary Clooney, Lana Turner and Wally Cox. During this time he will star in two comedy films, one of which is a "dead" husband who turns up, much to the embarrassment of newly-weds Lana and Wally. At the same time, however, on Channel 11, Bette Davis is making her TV dramatic debut in GE Theatre's "With Malice Toward One," a play about a frustrated female novelist who seeks vengeance on a publisher.

Bette Davis

Meanwhile, on Channel 4, 9:30: Omnibus is busy presenting a 90-minute play depicting the trial of a woman who is accused of murdering her husband. The play is a comedy, and it is being presented by the same cast as the play on Channel 11. ## A BUMP IN THE CORNER... A FEW HARSH WORDS...

Never one to ignore a challenge, New Westminster Royals' defenceman Pete Durham pulled off a spectacular wire-climbing act Friday night at Memorial Arena that had fans, police and hockey players playing a riotous game of tag in the south mezzanine. The action started when Durham crashed Victoria Cougars coach Colin Kilburn into the boards, left. Several Victoria fans, led by the overcoat-wearing

while his intended victim made hasty tracks up the steps and into the crowd, right. Cougars won, 5-2. On the spot to record Durham's epic was Times photographer Bill Halkett.)

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

The time was roughly 10:42 and the place was the New Westminster Royals' dressing room.

The air was heavy with steam and harsh words, through which shone naked light bulbs and a wall-to-wall smile adorning the roughly-chiselled features of a certain Lloyd Robert (Pete) Durham.

Durham was having a real titter at the anxiety of a pair of reporters who were trying to pump him.

Feeling off a soggy BVD, Durham grinned largely and intoned, "You guys want me to say something, don't you?"

"Well, I'm not saying a word. Not a one. I bit once tonight."

In the middle of the dressing room, Royals' coach Hal Laycoe was pacing up and down, flapping his arms against his sides much in the agitated manner of Jimmy Durante.

"Don't tell 'em anything, Pete," Laycoe was cautioning. "Just let me do all the talking for everybody. Don't talk for the papers."

Durham waved a hand airily and answered, "Ah, relax, Hal. I won't say anything."

Arnie Knew a Fan Who...

Little Arnie Schmutz, hockey's answer to baseball's Billy Martin and the Dead End Kids' Leo Gorcey, was saying excitedly, "I know a hockey fan who's going to have sore fingers tomorrow."

"Listen, I'll tell you what," Durham said, "come see me Monday and I'll give you the whole story. I'll even name names."

Then he chuckled all the way to the shower room.

Laycoe, meanwhile, was in a lather.

"You want to know something," he asked intensely.

"That Kilburn is smart. He's the smartest guy in this league. He's too smart for this league. Hell, he's too smart for the NHL."

"I was up there for 13 years and I never saw such a smart guy. Detroit spent a bundle buying Tony Leswick just to needle guys, but this Kilburn he makes Leswick look sick."

With a despairing flap of his arms, Laycoe bellowed, "Kilburn should give courses in how to get swung at."

Hal was referring to Kilburn's peculiar talent for offering his body for target practice. There is a growing club in the WHL, composed of players who can honestly say, "I swung at Kilburn and got a penalty."

Laycoe does not like the club, nor its entrance requirements. "Never mind, fellas," he said, "Looks like the Good Lord wants Victoria in the playoffs."

By this time Durham was back, still chuckling at some secret.

"Were the fans cussing you, Pete," a reporter asked.

"Hmmm?" answered Durham.

But then he expanded a little.

Should Old Acquaintance Be Forgotten?

"There was a guy at that end of the rink who used to be there when I was playing for Victoria. I remember the guy pretty well. He was the one I was after."

"When I got up to the top of the wire, I saw him light out so I stopped up there. I figured he might get brave and come back and then I could get my hands on him. I was mad when I started but when I got down in the crowd, there was an old Englishman there and he was trying to say something and he couldn't get it out. It was real funny. One thing I was thinking about was getting my gear off so I could get loose. Oh well, nobody got hurt bad."

Schmutz (his mates call him Snuff) repeated, "I know a guy who's going to have sore hands in the morning."

Then there were the two old pros, Max McNab and Ollie Dorohoy.

"Max was saying, 'You know, we got a pretty bad time from the fans in Vancouver with that inter-city rivalry. But it's nothing like what we get here. Your fans are pretty rough.'"

Dorohoy, speaking through a Coke bottle, nodded solemnly and said, "Thing is, we expect the fans to get on us. They pay for that and it's their right. But they have no right to get personal, like some of these fans do. When they start getting personal, a guy can take just so much and then..." Dorohoy finished his statement by waving his pop bottle at Durham.

Pete smiled back.

And Schmutz said, one more time, "I know a hockey fan who's going to have sore hands in the morning."

Court Rule Marks Break-Up of IBC

NEW YORK (UP)—Uncle Sam apparently had the International Boxing Club on the ropes today and the situation was hailed with glee by independent promoters.

One of the sport's foremost legal "brains," who wished to remain unidentified, said Judge Sylvester Ryan's decision in Federal Court that the IBC is a title-fight monopoly "unquestionably will result in a loss of IBC power—just how much I do not know."

He said it was nearly certain the decision would force promoter Jim Norris to abandon entirely the IBC's policy of having contracts with champions for exclusive title services.

"And," he added, "it's quite likely the government attorneys will demand and get a break-up years."

of the IBC organization into at least three separate entities—instead of having the present one big set-up with interlocking directorates among the Madison Square Garden Corporation, the IBC of New York and the IBC of Illinois."

Two promoters at Oakland, Calif., agreed. Jimmy Dundee said, "It's a good thing. Maybe it will stop the IBC from taking a boy away from you after you have built him up." And Frank Tabors said, "The decision is a boon to boxing. The IBC has hogged everything through the will demand and get a break-up years."

Guyle Ties Point Mark; 'Peg Wins

Gets 110th Point; Canucks Defeated

EDMONTON (CP)—Centre Guyle Fielder of Seattle Americans tied the all-time Western Hockey League point-getting record Friday night, but his team was beaten 5-3 by Edmonton Flyers.

A crowd of 5,447 fans saw Fielder, the slender Seattle pivot, score two goals and assist on another to boost his season's record to 29 goals and 81 assists which tied the record of 110 points set by Edmonton centre Bronco Horvath in the 1954-55 season.

Winnipeg Warriors won a come-from-behind 6-4 decision from Vancouver Canucks in a spirited Western Hockey League game before some 2,000 fans.

10 POINTS DOWN

The victory left the Warriors still 10 points out of third place on the prairies. Vancouver gave up third position in the coast division to Victoria Cougars, whose 5-2 decision over New Westminster gave them a one-point margin over the Canucks.

Gordy Redahl accounted for half of Winnipeg's four-goal outburst in the third period, which brought the Warriors back from a 4-2 deficit. The visitors led 2-1 after the opening frame.

Chuck Holmes scored twice for Edmonton and the other Flyer marksmen were Murray Costello, Don Poile and Bill McCreary.

EIGHT TO GO

Fielder, who still has eight games to play in the regular schedule, opened the scoring with the only goal of the first period. The second period ended in a 2-2 tie. Flyers grabbed a 5-2 lead in the third before Wright finished off the scoring.

Claude Pronovost, filling in for the Edmonton net for injured Denny Riggins, had little chance on the three shots that beat him but he stopped 39 others.

In the first period Fielder broke away alone after being set up on a pass from Wright, and beat Pronovost cleanly from 20 feet out with a rising shot.

Fielder put Americans on even terms again 38 seconds before the period ended with a 35-foot slider that went under a Flyer rearguard. Pronovost didn't see it.

Fielder passed the assist record several games ago. The previous high of 67 was set in the 1949-50 season by Mel Reid of Tacoma and tied by Fielder himself in 1954-55.

MATT BALDWIN DESCRIBES BRIER VICTORY

'You Get Going, You Got'

By MATT BALDWIN
As Told to the BUP

KINGSTON, Ont. (BUP)—When we first started out from Alberta last year we felt we would be very lucky to win seven and lose three games, because of the tough competition from the western rinks.

I guess we made a mistake because we ended up with five wins and five losses. So this year when somebody asked me what we would do, I had no comment to make.

We hadn't been going too well and I felt probably we

EX-49er DUNCAN SIGNS TO LEAD LIONS IN '57

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Lions announced today the signing of Maury Duncan, 25-year-old second-string quarterback with San Francisco and Pittsburgh in the National Football League.

Herb Capozzi, general manager of the Western Intercontinental Football Union club, said Duncan is expected to lead the Lions' play this season. He is their third import quarterback.

Duncan displaced former Lions' quarterback Arnie Galiffa as understudy to Y. A. Tittle with the San Francisco 49ers in 1955.

D & D Scrambles For Thin Edge

Dickinson & Dunn may have picked a poor time to come up with a shoddy performance.

Wire-Climbing Pete Rises to Challenge

Cougars Beat Royals; Durham Steals Show

Victoria 5, New Westminster 2

By DENNY BOYD

When they made dogs, they invented fleas. When they evolved picnics, they thought up rain. And when they invented hockey, they put Pete Durham together and marked him "Victoria—Special Delivery."

If Pete's mission in life is to torment Victoria's tormentable hockey fandom, the New Westminster Royals' bruising defenceman reached the high point of his career Monday night at Memorial Arena—in several parts of the arena, to be exact.

Durham and the Victoria Cougars both shuffled their respective social standings, the Cougars knocking off the Royals to climb back into third place in the coast division and Durham challenging any or all of some 2,700 hockey fans as he solidified his first-place standing in Victoria's Hate Parade.

With an inborn talent for angering local fans, Durham reached never-before attained heights last night as he scaled the wire screen at the south end of the rink and ploughed head-first into a crowd of hecklers bent on the annihilation of one particular fan who had been needing Durham both with word and gesture.

However, the fan did a Jesse Owens to scamper to safety and Durham cooled off before he cost himself a heavy fine. But before he went back on the ice, there were a total of six Royals' players scattered through the mezzanine, a policeman led the fan away and Durham picked up 14 minutes in penalties.

Laycoe Said a Mouthful

And, as Royals' coach Hal Laycoe said after the game, "Us Royals may not win all our games but we are an entertaining team."

The much-needed victory put Cougars a point ahead of Vancouver Canucks in their little leap-frog game for third place.

Monday night, the Cougars have the chance of making it a three-point lead as they host the Warriors. Cougars now have a home-ice winning streak of five straight and have scored 17 goals in their last three home games.

Durham drew a holding penalty after only 42 seconds and while he was off, Bruce Carmichael got the Cougars off and running, chipping in the rebound from a Don Chiupka shot.

Over the Top Went Pete

Durham burst into full bloom around the nine-minute mark of the third.

He was penalized for chopping Colin Kilburn across the arm and when Kilburn pined Arnie Schmutz into the end boards on the tag-end of the same play, Durham again took after Kilburn.

A knot of fans gathered at the wire screen and began shouting at Durham. Schmutz slapped at some poking fan fingers with his stick and Durham engaged in a bout of fist-shaking and hollered threats at one fan in particular.

The fan wouldn't come down to the ice so Durham dropped his stick and climbed hand-over hand up the 10-foot screen. He paused momentarily at the top and then plunged straight down into the crowd while the fan took off like a scalded cat.

Durham continued up to the top of the stairs where he was met by a policeman and former Cougar Bernie Strongman. By this time, other Royal players had poured over the boards.

The policeman led the fan out of the arena and the players went back on the ice.

And, if anyone was wondering, the Royals play here next, March 22.

Stop the Presses, New 10-Pin Warning

Five sets of vest buttons were stretched dangerously close to the popping point around this building Thursday morning.

Reason for the inflated chests and five unusually-bright faces was the performance of the Victoria Press squad in the Commercial Tenpin League at Gibson's Bowladrome Wednesday night, when the pressmen rolled a new league and city team single-game high for the season.

Operating with a 139 handicap, the press gang tossed a 1,151 total at VMD in the first game, which boiled down to a 1,012 scratch total. They cooled off a bit as they followed with games of 959 and 898, but still finished with a three-game total of 3,008, tops for the league this season.

The first game effort was a single pin better than the 1,011 scratch total posted by Strathcona Cafe in the Strathcona Senior Tenpin League earlier this season and two up on the 1,010 rolled by Clubs in the Strathcona loop.

Tommy Nute set the pace for the Victoria Press crew in the big game with 225, followed by George Gunniss with 221, Bill Templeton, 218; Dennis Begg, 176, and Pete Salloway, 172.

John Furmston made the biggest individual splash in city tenpin circles this week when he performed the rare feat of cleaning up the big four split in Gibson's commercial loop. Furmston, believed to be the first city trundler to pick up the 4-7-6-10 split since Len Person did it a couple of seasons back, will receive a badge from the American Bowling Congress for the effort.

Third six-game square of the city zone tenpin singles roll-off goes at Gibson's at 6 tonight with Ken Munn, winner in 1954, out in front with a total of 2,166.

Final set in the 24-game series is set for Strathcona Sunday at the same time.

Cee Dixon, only 11 pins off the pace, and Wilbur Webb, at 2,153, are in the best positions to thwart Munn's bid to become the first two-time winner in the history of the event.

However, the race for the two Victoria berths in the B.C. zone final is still wide open with seven other keepers within 81 points of the leader.

Nute's 586 was the top triple in Gibson's commercial this week, Gunniss had 555 and Templeton, 547. A Quinn rolled a 574 triple and a 215 single, followed by Wilbur Webb, 570, Dick Donaldson, who had a 148 sandwiched between games of 201 and 213, to match Webb's total; R. Harris, 552, B. Lyons, 551, Dick Tripp, 543, and Bill Walker, 540.

In Gibson's senior tenpin loop, Roy Begg was well out in front with 630, which included a 244 single. Next in line were Ron Wilson, 573, Howie Hazzard, 565, W. Johnson, 555, Bob Bystedt, 540, Andy Palmer, 547, and Jack Bacon, 543.

Art Manson's 607 set the pace in the Strathcona senior circuit. Dave Begg had 554 (220) and Nick Howard, 545. In commercial play on the Strathcona alleys, Gordon Ramsay was out in front at 573, followed by Bill Hitchin, 561 (207, 210).

In the mixed tenpin at Gibson's Dot Bennett topped the ladies with a 541 triple and 201 single while Len Murrant rolled 569, Walt Davis, 567 (237), Jack Hobby, 560, and Bill Holness, 543.

Elva Litherland's 498 triple was high for Gibson's ladies' tenpin loop and Dot Bennett's 473 topped the Strathcona ladies' league.

Dot Bennett will be defending her singles championship and all-events scratch title in the ladies' city singles and doubles championships at Gibson's Sunday.

The meet will be held in two shifts, one starting at 12:45 p.m. and the other at 9 p.m.

Listed for action at 12:45 are Maureen King, Shirley Bovan, Lolly Hughes, Elva Litherland, Mary Dyke, Gladys Cornthwaite, Hazel Hitchin, Lorna Pollock, Grace Elves, Tess Kamann, Lea Orchard, Myrtle Todd, Jessie Howard, Iris Murrant, Marg Hobbs, Gertie Begg, Alleen Watson, Olive Webber, Marg Craig and Muriel Lawson.

Scheduled for the 9 p.m. shift are Betty Anderson, Vera Logie, Jean Myers, Peggy Sellers, Joan White, Irene Celius, Joan Semper, Gladys Waller, Jessie Vashe, Ev Sharpe, Sheila Dovey, Ollie Caldwell, Lucy Lenton, Mona Corbett.

Irene Plaxton, VI Poulson, Erma Stables, Ev Angus, Duff Williams, Dot Bennett, Marg Beane, Kay Ellis, Peggy Trickett, Mary Welsh, Hope Graham, Etta Shaw, Mary Porter, Edna Profit, Betty Elves, Mary Conlan, Flora Hobbs, Mary Bashford.

Viking Views

By ROBIN FARQUHAR

Victoria College is a far quieter place this weekend than it was a week ago.

Now that the Vikings basketball team is on the prairies for their date with the Lethbridge Chinooks and a try at the Canadian junior men's championship, the echoes of cheers raised in their favor last weekend have died away.

That four-point overtime win over West Vancouver last Saturday for the provincial title was a cheer-jerker if there ever was one. Throughout most of the second half and the entire overtime period, the College supporters were on their feet, screaming full blast for their idols.

Let this be an example, to the rest of the people who were at the game, of school spirit as it should be. Forget about yourself at a game. Don't worry about looking or sounding silly.

Just yell for all you're worth at your team, and you will help them far more than the crowd that politely applauds after each half.

In our opinion, it was this school spirit that won the game for College last Saturday. Two more evenly matched teams than these have never met. It was that terrific ear-cracking support that carried College safely to victory, more on the waves of sound than anything else.

But enough about school spirit and team support.

As has been stated, it's been a quiet week up at the College, but there have been a few activities to keep the students busy.

This afternoon, the Vikings rugby team played the first division Oak Bay Wanderers at Windsor Park.

Although they are without the services of big scrummer Mike Kaye today, Vikings, who lost a previous tussle with the Wanderers by a couple of tries, are expected to give their rivals a run for their money.

College's backfield strength has been increased by the induction of stand-off Ron MacKenzie.

Ron, a former captain of Victoria High School's Howard Russell Cup champions (1955), has been kept idle for the past year and a half with a knee injury, but thanks to a recent operation, he is now back in playing condition, and is expected to add speed to the three-quarter line drive.

Four members of the Vikings gained city-wide fame last Saturday when they played in the Crimson Tide game against Vancouver Reps. They were forwards Stu Smith, Mike Kaye and Doug Graham, and inside three-quarter Bob McKee.

Smith also did the kicking for the Tide, accounting for all six of their points.

The only other College activity this weekend was the HMCs Naden invasion Friday night in which the students faced the sailors in basketball, water polo, volleyball and swimming.

And finally, Maureen Bray, College PE instructor, and College student Warren Bell were welcomed back last week from the Canadian badminton championships.

First United Midget Champs

First United captured the city pre-midget boys' basketball title Friday night as they edged St. Louis College 12-10 at the Metropolitan gymnasium.

Ken Jackson scored nine points for First United, which took both games of the two-game series and will compete in the B.C. tournament at Chemainus April 6.

First United Whites won the city night boys' crown Thursday night by trimming First United Blues, 41-25. Bruce Mitchell scored 12 points to pace the Whites to their second win in the two-game series.

Snooker League Lead at Stake

First place will be at stake when Tillicums and Elks clash in the inter-club snooker league Monday night.

Heading for the final game in their regular schedule, the two clubs are tied for the top spot with totals of 137 points. Top four clubs in the six-team loop will advance into playoff competition.

Standings: Tillicums 137, Elks 137, Pts Pais 126, ANAP 126, Britannia 96, Eagles 96.

Final Games Sunday

Final games in the play-downs to decide two Victoria clubs to enter the Vancouver Island curling championships.

Later this month will be held at Victoria Curling Club Sunday.

4 p.m.—Robertson vs. Rodin, Austin vs. Adams, Watson vs. MacDonald, Sturrock vs. Kerr, Francis vs. Walls, Gutoski vs. Smith, Perette vs. English.

1:30 p.m.—Macdonald vs. Austin, 1:30 p.m.—Watson vs. MacDonald, Robertson vs. Hobbitt, Sturrock vs. Perlette, Francis vs. Gutoski, English vs. Walls.

A playoff, if necessary, will be held at 9:30 p.m.

NEW YORK (UP) — Walter Byars, the stubby Boston welterweight whose "basketball speed" achieved the year's biggest ring upset, said today, "I'll fight anybody who'll draw money, preferably the champion."

Mustachioed Walt, the ex-marine who was a 6-1 underdog before he snapped the 12-straight winning streak of sensational Sugar Hart before 2,400 at Madison Square Garden Friday night, attributed the victory to his remarkable speed and turtle-shell attack.

It left Walt unbeaten in 11 straight.

"I got my speed and elusiveness while playing basketball at Brandeis High School against taller fellows," explained Mr. Upset. "And I figured out the turtle-shell offence on my own because I was always boxing taller fellows while learning in the marines."

He grinned a lot last night "to get Hart's goat."

Now 25, the welter champion of New England is fresh from two consecutive major upsets—over Philadelphia's Hart last night and ex-world champion Kid Gavilan, Dec. 4. It was because the Gavilan upset was considered a "fluke" that he

Oak Bay to Meet Cumberland For Island High School Title

Tonight's finals in the seventh annual Vancouver Island high school basketball tournament at Cowichan High School will have a new look.

Out of contention for the title are both Victoria High School Totems and Alberni District Chieftains, who have dominated the tourney in previous seasons.

Battling for the title in the feature game at 9 tonight will be Oak Bay High and Cumberland Hilltoppers, the only teams to come through the first two rounds of the eight-team tourney with unblemished records.

Meeting at 8:30 tonight for third place and the third Vancouver Island berth in the provincial tournament at Vancouver later this month will be Esquimalt and Nanaimo.

TOTEMS MEET CHIEFS

Totems and Chieftains, who clashed in the final last year, will meet at 7:15 to decide the fourth and sixth positions. Ladysmith and Cowichan meet at 6:00 for the seventh and eighth spots.

Chieftains, who have failed to reach the final only once in their last six tries, were knocked out of the running for the title in their first game, dropping a spine-tingling 36-35 decision to Nanaimo.

Totems also saw their chances of holding the title they won last year erased in the first round as they were trimmed, 51-33 by the Toppers.

SHOWERS STARRY

Oak Bay, paced by peppery Jack Showers, bumped Ladysmith, 49-38, in the first round and followed up with a resounding 36-32 triumph over Nanaimo in the semi-final round.

Showers, who dropped in 26 points, against Ladysmith, turned in a 25-point performance in the semi-final tussle.

Cumberland followed their conquest of the Totems with a hard-fought, 39-31 victory over Esquimalt to gain the final round.

Esquimalt reversed an earlier decision this season as they clipped Cowichan High, 45-41, in the first round.

WILL FIGHT ANYBODY

'Mr. Upset' Byars Stuns Sugar Hart was so underrated in the betting Friday night.

Byars, weighing 144½ pounds to Hart's 145½, won the unanimous decision in lopsided fashion on a rounds basis: 6-2-2, 7-3 and 8-0-2. The United Press had Walt ahead, 6-4.

Managing director Harry Markson of the International Boxing Club was so delighted with Byars' performance that he said, "we'll certainly match him with some good boy just as soon as we can find a date somewhere. He was terrific."

But 21-year-old Hart, with the Elvis Presley sideburns, was yelling today for a return bout with Byars.

"I don't believe I lost last night," said the streamlined Philadelphiaan who suffered breaks in his winning streak of 12 and his kayo streak of seven.

"And I don't believe Byars thought he beat me because he came out fighting for his life in the 10th. He's have coasted if he'd been ahead."

LOVE BEATS POLITICS WITH VISA EXTENSION

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Czechoslovakia bowed to the demands of romance Friday and extended for 48 hours the visa of Harold Connolly, Olympic hammer-throwing champion from Boston, Mass.

His visa expired Thursday midnight as he attempted to gain Czech permission to wed 23-year-old Olga Fikotova, Czechoslovakia's only girl gold medalist at the last Olympic Games.

The two athletes met and fell in love in Australia.

ISLAND DIGEST

14 Victoria Daily Times SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 1957

Bartender's Appeal Averts Jail Term

NANAIMO (CP)—A successful appeal against the first of two convictions on charges of selling beer to a 15-year-old boy has saved bartender William Christopher Alston from a nine-month jail term.

The bartender was fined $300 and $41.50 costs by Nanaimo Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts on the first charge last October. Later the same day, he was convicted on a similar charge involving other juveniles and was given the mandatory jail term.

Judge L. A. Hanna in County Court here Thursday upheld Alston's appeal and quashed the first charge, saying he could find no proof that liquor had been sold to the boy.

Counsel for Alston withdrew the mandatory jail term. Crown counsel agreed to a fine of $300 as the conviction had technically become a first offence.

FLUORIDATION VOTE ASKED IN NANAIMO

NANAIMO—PTA Council here has asked the city council to put a referendum before voters "as soon as possible" on the subject of fluoridation of the city water supply.

Suggestions have been made here that a vote might be taken in connection with municipal elections in December.

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

Don the Gloves!

COWICHAN LEADER — The IWA is proposing to ask for a 20-per-cent wage boost. This is news.

If the union is basing its case on the extravagance of governments it has a good case. If, however, it is bearing in mind the state of the lumber market today, its thinking would seem to be wholly unrealistic.

We are not less worried about unions than governments at this time. Both are trying to outdo each other in welfare benefits.

We wish the IWA luck in its bargaining. At the same time someone should get the boxing gloves ready. There is a rough fight ahead.

Opportunity

SIDNEY REVIEW — Wide interest was aroused in this district in the recent announcement by the provincial government that a new department of recreation will be created, headed by a cabinet minister. Here is an opportunity for Premier W. A. C. Bennett to pay honor to Saanich constituency. We hope the premier will seize the opportunity which is knocking again.

Saanich's member has the confidence of the electorate. He proved this again by a resounding victory at the polls last year. He toppled his CCF, Liberal and Conservative opponents with ease. John Tisdale is unquestionably the man Saanich residents want as their representative. We hope he will be welcomed into the cabinet without delay. It would be a gracious compliment to the thousands of Peninsula residents. And appointment of a third Vancouver Island cabinet minister would be generally approved all over British Columbia, we are confident.

LANGFORD—Canvassers working in the area between View Royal, Metchosin, and Mill Bay collected $500 Thursday night in a campaign to pay off indebtedness of $1,500 against the new Langford ambulance.

They sold memberships in Langford Ambulance Association which will entitle members to ambulance service at half price, and to participation in a draw at the Fireman's Ball, March 16.

Edmonton Mayor Liberal Candidate

EDMONTON (CP)—Mayor William Hawrelak Friday night was nominated Liberal candidate to contest Edmonton East constituency in the federal election. The seat now is held by Social Credit member Ambrose Holowach.

70 Fathers, Sons Attend Langford Scout, Cub Dinner

LANGFORD — Breaking of the flag by Scout, Courtney Loggin and Cub Wesley McKay opened the father and son dinner held by Langford Cub and Scout Group Committee in the Legion Hall here.

Seventy fathers and sons sat down to a turkey supper served at decorated tables.

Guests of honor were Chris J. Plumb, Rev. H. P. Davidson, Earl Powell, Rev. W. J. O'Brien, L. S. Horner and H. W. McKenzie.

CENTRAL SITE—WESTWOOD

Nanaimo Seeks Mental Hospital

Proposed new provincial mental hospital should be located in Nanaimo, Trade and Industry Minister Earle Westwood said Friday.

Making his maiden speech in the legislature, the new minister said Nanaimo was the "logical" spot for the hospital because of its central position on the Island.

Mr. Westwood, who represents the riding of Nanaimo and The Islands, also suggested that a new name be found for the Gulf Islands.

A distinguished name recalling the early romance and history, coupled with a tourist promotion campaign, could make the islands a mecca, he said.

The minister said every district in the province must be awakened to the tourist potential of the century.

The 1958 celebrations are an "opportunity to put British Columbia on the map as a holiday destination," he said.

"Investment in facilities for hospitality and entertainment is needed now—investment not only of money but of ideas, of time and energy, of co-operation."

Mr. Westwood also chided the opposition for its "negative thinking."

"There has been more constructive criticism from our own backbenchers than from the opposition," he said.

LAUDS WENNER-GREN

The Wenner-Gren development scheme for northern B.C. he described as a "forward step toward a long-neglected goal."

Development of the hinterlands of the province would result in a beneficial decentralization of industry, he said.

Mr. Westwood stressed the importance of B.C. finding new markets for its products and said it was up to both labor and management to keep prices competitive.

Rural Centennial Planners to Meet

LANGFORD—A meeting will be held here March 20 when a final decision will be made on joint centennial celebrations next year by district communities.

Already four areas have agreed on joint observances of the B.C. centennial. Representatives from Glen Lake, Lutton, Happy Valley and Langford met in Lutton Hall this week to discuss plans, and it is believed Metchosin and Colwood might join soon.

Licence Threat

Scares Salesmen

SIDNEY—A number of salesmen operating from door-to-door without trades licences this week chose to leave when A. W. Sharp, village clerk, said they must either have the licences or stop selling.

They had said they were making a survey and on gaining access to a home proceeded to sell a home medical book, Mr. Sharp said.

$6 Million Boom In Construction

Commercial, Industrial Jobs Offset House Slump

By PETE LOUDON

Greater Victoria builders are hammering through a $6,000,000 construction boom in commercial and industrial expansion, a Times survey revealed today.

The big-scale construction is going a long way to offset the slump in house building caused by tight mortgage money.

Building totals for Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt are almost $2,000,000 greater than at the end of February one year ago.

And just over the horizon, two projects alone are worth $6,500,000 more—the balance of the B.C. Electric underground wiring project and the $4,470,000 school construction program.

JOBS STILL SCARCE HERE

There are 2,828 men and 1,088 women registered for work at the National Employment Office here, manager J. H. Fox said today.

This is a reduction of 60 persons from the previous week.

Normal Civic Jobs Continue

These startling figures do not include the hundreds of thousands of dollars being spent on normal civic expansion by the municipalities.

The whole picture isn't shown in the lists of building values in municipal building offices.

No permits are issued for the B.C. Electric wiring program for instance—instead the company buys city supervision.

The project, incidentally, has grown from a $2,225,000 undertaking to a $2,730,000 job, company officials estimate. This year's work will cost $300,000.

Here's a rundown on projects underway:

Customs and Immigration building (old post office) $1,000,000, to be completed this fall.

The Canada Trust building, $350,000, should be up in September.

The Douglas-Yates branch, Bank of Montreal, is winding up a $272,000 addition, probably in May.

Work is just starting on the $300,000 64-bed Queen Alexandra Solarium at Gordon Head.

The Salvation Army is busy with a $52,000 renovation of its hostel for men on Johnson Street.

Despite the fact tenants are yet to be found, Edward Mallek is pushing construction of a new seven-store block worth $94,000 at Douglas and Fisgard.

Across the street, parking is at a premium in one of the largest lots in Victoria, at the rear of the Hudson's Bay store, partly because shoppers are still flocking to buy, partly because the lot has shrunk recently to make room for a $200,000 addition to the store—two new freight elevators and more warehouse space.

Also on Douglas, the Odd Fellows have launched a $26,000 program, repairing damage in a recent fire and also installing a new boiler, new heating system, and a new rear exit.

Supermarkets Show Confidence

Safeway is putting final touches to a new $350,000 store at Tillicum and Burnside. It opens March 20.

Workers have cleared away old homes at Fairfield and St. Charles. Plans are being prepared and this spring another $350,000 store will be under way.

At Head Street and Esquimalt, carpenters, electricians, plumbers and metal workers are rushing completion of a $100,000 Super-VaVu supermarket.

Faith in the future despite dwindling naval contracts is expressed by Yarrows Ltd., also in Esquimalt, where a $32,000 addition and renovation is taking place in the administration section.

Oil Firms Push Expansion

Greater Victoria school trustees, praying today for an affirmative rate on the $4,470,000 program of school building, still has crews on the job completing previous contracts—the $123,600 Mount View addition, the $189,400 maintenance buildings, on Gorge Road which will open in April, and the $300,000 addition to Margaret Jenkins School.

The federal government is pounding piles for a new $213,000 hydrographic survey ship wharf in inner harbor.

Oil companies are expanding. McColl-Fontenac is building a $70,000 station at Douglas and Frances and a complete new plant on Kingston Street worth $300,000.

Shell Oil has a $20,000 job underway at its Songhees Road plant—new tanks. There is a $32,000 service station going up at Scott and Hillside, a $26,000 station at Fort and Foul Bay.

Monday, Shell will start work on a $33,000 station at Douglas and Saanich. At the same time a lot is being cleared at Johnson and Tyee for another.

British American Oil Company has a $20,000 station going up at Marion and Cadboro Bay.

What greater proof of prosperity than this—the canny St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society is starting its long-planned $55,000 clubhouse on McBride! Municipal reports of building can cause long faces if read separately.

Esquimalt, for instance, says building there is down $217,000 from last year at this time.

Oak Bay admits to being down $90,000. If it weren't for the Solarium, Saanich would be just holding its own. Victoria is up only $300,000—a small gain among big figures.

But the Solarium puts the district total up a million and the B.C. Electric project adds almost another.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Comox, Fortune, James Bay, return March 15.

Cordova, Port Quebec on reserve training cruise, return Monday.

COMPETING in the first contract bridge tournament for Vancouver Island championships to be played here next Saturday will be Madeline Anderson, Seattle, known as "Mrs. Bridge" throughout the Pacific Northwest. She was member of U.S. bridge team that toured Europe last summer and is chairman of international matches between Canada and the United States.

Bridge Prizes Donated

Four Victoria mercantile and specialty firms are providing permanent trophies for annual competition in the Vancouver Island contract bridge championships which will be played in the Empress here next Saturday.

Championships to be played off are ladies' pairs for the Sidney Reynolds trophy; men's pairs for the W. & J. Wilson trophy; mixed pairs for the George Straith trophy, and open pairs for the Henry Birks & Sons award.

The bridge classic is expected to attract about 150 of the Pacific Northwest's top-flight players.

Spectators will be allowed, as long as they don't move around from one table to another but watch individual plays.

Japan Goods To Be Shown In B.C. 3 Days

Canada's fourth-ranking customer and biggest trading partner on the Pacific, Japan, will display wares at a "Japan Merchandise Show" in Vancouver for three days starting March 13, assistant director of the Toronto trade centre, Shigeru Oue, said here today.

Traditional Japanese products such as toys, bamboo ware, porcelain and exotic silks will be shown. The show is co-sponsored by the Japanese government and businessmen of that country.

Highlighted will be camera equipment for which Japan has achieved international recognition.

The show is aimed at Canadian importers and businessmen, though it will also be open to the general public.

Japan is in the position where she must export to survive.

In 1956 exports to Canada totalled $65,000,000 while imports from Canada totalled $125,000,000, of which grain accounted for $75,000,000 and pulp, $15,000,000.

Japan's export market is gradually increasing. For example, textile exports to this country in 1956 were four times the 1953 figure, for a total of $13,000,000, with iron and steel products jumping from nearly $2,000,000 to $16,000,000.

One half of Japan's exports to Canada are used in B.C. and Alberta, Mr. Oue said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. There is a stone seat in Pioneer Square on the side nearest the cathedral dedicated to the memory of Lucy Sanders. Who was Lucy Sanders and who placed the seat there?

A. She was the mother of Vyrne Hope Sanders, former editor of Chastelaine, a women's magazine published in Toronto, who was given permission to set up that memorial to her mother in Victoria's early burial ground.

Q. Will you please give me the address of Gregory Clark, the writer?

A. Write in care of The Victoria Daily Times.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

WILL BOUNDARIES BE WIPED OUT SOON?

Unique aerial photo taken last week shows area that some day may be united in a Greater Victoria metropolitan district. Picture was taken from a government surveys plane during exceptionally clear weather Feb. 28 from an altitude of 22,000 feet. The plane was on a test flight of cameras and aircraft. Boundaries of four local municipalities were drawn in later. They may be merged in future under metro plan detailed in the new B.C. Municipal Act brought down in the legislature this week.

MONTE ROBERTS

I keep having trouble with friends of mine. Usually, the trouble I have is with old friends of mine, but in this case, the trouble is with a new friend of mine. This new friend of mine is named Eric. And the trouble arose when Eric proved to me there is no such thing as radio, television, or microwave telephone communication.

The way Eric put it is this: Radio, television, and microwave telephone communication are all based on the electron.

And the electron, as Eric explained, is something which no person has ever seen.

The electron, Eric said, is nothing but a theory. Theoretically, Eric theorized, there is such a thing as an electron, and there ARE such things as, for instance, a million (or trillion) electrons.

But it can't be proved that there is even one little electron, because (as Eric said at the outset) who has ever seen an electron?

This leads to the obvious conclusion (my new friend said) that radio, television, and microwave telephone communication are all strictly theoretical.

If you think you hear a radio program, or think you see a television show, or think you are talking to someone in Port Angeles via microwave, it is strictly in your imagination, Eric claims.

And—despite the trouble my new friend Eric is causing me—I am inclined to agree with him.

Until I personally see an electron, I will not believe that electrons can do what they are supposed to do.

If anyone disputes my new friend Eric's claim that radio, etc., is all a figment of the imagination, let him produce an electron, and introduce me to same.

In the meantime, I will go along with my new friend Eric's thesis (despite the trouble it is causing me) because his surname is Mallett, and he is the new commercial manager for Vancouver Island of the British Columbia Telephone Company.

Budworm Attack Gets $100,000 Aid From Ottawa

The federal government will contribute $100,000 this year to help fight an infestation of black-headed budworm in northern Vancouver Island forests.

B.C. Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston said this week the bug faces an "all-out attack" this year, financed by the lumber industry, the province and the federal government.

The $100,000 federal contribution is contained in 1957-58 estimates tabled in the Commons Friday.

An experimental spraying program was carried out in the area last year, Mr. Williston said.

The disease is centred in 1,600 acres of hemlock on the northern end of the island. Larvae of the budworm feed on new shoots of the hemlock. Tops of the trees may be killed after two or three years and continued infestation will kill off the whole tree.

City Teachers, Board Officials Tour Royal Roads

School board officials and teachers of Greater Victoria had a first-hand look at Canada's regular officer training plan during a visit to the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads.

The 37 visitors toured classrooms and talked with cadets, inspected the grounds and facilities at the college and had lunch with members of the college staff.

The teachers and trustees were told that accomplishments of students show that British Columbia and Ontario have equally high standards of public and high school education, and lead the rest of Canada.

Many of the visitors said they were impressed with the educational opportunity offered by the program, which calls for three years at Royal Roads, then two years at advanced institutions leading to commissions in the navy, army or air force.

WRITER-LECTURER Mrs. Florence V. Mayberry of Santa Paula, Calif., will address a public meeting in the Blue Room, 1303 Broad Street, next Wednesday at 8 p.m. An auxiliary board member of the American Hands of the Cause of Baha'ullah, she will speak on "The Baha'i World Faith."

Capt. Charles Leving Leaving Royal Roads

A change in command for Royal Roads and the other two Canadian services colleges was announced today by Defence Minister Ralph Campney.

Capt. John A. Charles, RCN, present commandant of Royal Roads, will be succeeded by Col. Percy Cooper, 41, of Revelstoke.

Capt. Desmond W. Piets, of Halifax, will become commandant of Royal Military College, Kingston, and Group Capt. Jean G. Archambault, 43, of Outremont, Que., will be the new commandant for College Militaire Royal.

Capt. Charles' new posting has yet to be announced.

Junior 'Frostbiters' In Competition Here

Junior members of yacht clubs in three Pacific Northwest cities are competing this weekend in a "frostbite" team series at Cadboro Bay.

Host is Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and also competing are Royal Vancouver, Seattle, and Corinthian Yacht Clubs.

Races started at 1 p.m. today, will resume at 10 a.m. Sunday.

MONDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Gyroco: Empress Hotel, noon luncheon. Times' associate editor Brian Tobin will speak on "The United Nations in Action."

Prospect Lake and District Community Association: Prospect Lake School, 8 p.m.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The RCAF announced Friday night surface and anti-aircraft firing practice will be held in and above the Strait of Juan de Fuca on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Monday there will be action from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Tuesday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and again from sunset to 9 p.m. Wednesday there will be firing from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Free entertainment for Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association, No. 3, has been arranged for this month as follows:

Monday, March 11, bowling at Gibson's Bowladrome, 9:30 a.m.; Friday, March 15, Dominion Theatre, 12:45 p.m.; Monday, March 18, hockey at Memorial Arena, 8:15 p.m., and Monday, March 25, bowling at Strathcona alleys, 11 a.m.

D. R. F. Brower, who recently established a United Kingdom Information Service in Vancouver, will speak to the English-Speaking Union of the Commonwealth, Victoria branch, Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Meeting will be held in the Douglas Building. Mr. Brower's subject, "Atomic Energy in Harness," will be illustrated by the film "Atomic Achievement."

Replicas of ancient murals in the church of Our Lady of Lzevic in Yugoslavia will be shown for two weeks here starting Tuesday in the Art Gallery.

They were brought to Canada on request of the gallery to the Yugoslav government, and had previously been shown in the Tate Gallery, London.

Provincial archivist Willard Ireland will address University Extension Association March 25 in the Normal School auditorium on 1958 centennial celebrations in British Columbia. The talk, open to the public, starts at 8:15 p.m.

Although donations are coming in slowly, the Red Cross campaign for funds may top its quota of $79,500 this year.

Total to date is $13,101 and it "compares favorably" with the amount collected in the same period last year, campaign secretary Mrs. R. J. McRae said today.

The service will mark the beginning of an extensive parish visitation to raise $17,500 through pledges over the next 21 months.

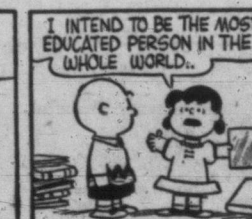

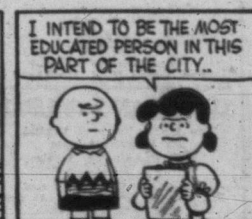

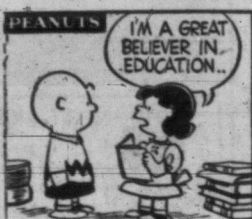

Special dedication service for visitors and members of the congregation will be held Sunday morning at St. David's-by-the-Sea Anglican Church, Cordova Bay.

The service will mark the beginning of an extensive parish visitation to raise $17,500 through pledges over the next 21 months.

Two Indians, George Charlie, Brentwood, and Norman Johnnie, Kupper Island, each were fined $10 in Sidney police court Friday for violating the Migratory Birds Convention Act by shooting from a power boat near Shoal Harbor.

Eight ducks and a shotgun were seized by police. Indians are permitted to shoot game the year round, but are not excluded from the Migratory Birds Act, which prohibits anyone from shooting game from a power boat.

Special dedication service for visitors and members of the congregation will be held Sunday morning at St. David's-by-the-Sea Anglican Church, Cordova Bay.

The engagement is announced of Mary Gail Christie, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Christie, 2190 Sandowne Road, to Mr. Allan Mutch, Victoria, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Mutch, 786 Edgewood Road, North Vancouver. The wedding will take place on Friday, March 15, at 8 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church with Canon George Biddle officiating. A reception will be held at the Old Charming Inn, Beach Drive. The bride's only attendant will be her sister, Miss Joan Christie. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Quiz Contests Give Librarians Many Strange Experiences; 'Dig and Delve' for Answers

By TERRY FRENCH

"We don't like quizzes!"

The words ring out in varying tones of determination from the reference rooms of both Victoria Public Library and the provincial library, where magazine and newspaper quiz games are figuratively turning librarians' heads grey.

Since the advent of the quiz these librarians find their work has taken on a new aspect. "Baffling!" is the way Miss Betty Snair, first assistant in the Public Library, explains it.

For you see, the top-notch quiz addict doesn't come right out and say the information requested is perhaps going to win a set of dishes or an arm chair. Presumably that's a deep, dark secret . . . at least until the information is acquired.

"So we lift, carry and sort books," Miss Snair explains, "and we dig and delve for the answer to the inquiry. Then, when we come up with the answer we may . . . we just possibly may . . . discover that we've done the work for someone to try his or her luck at a jackpot."

"One man firmly convinced me that he was doing research on Arctic exploration," she said, "and it wasn't until some time later that I discovered that he was trying to find out when a certain ship went aground somewhere up North. It was another quiz question."

Most people seem to be embarrassed by their quiz hobby, librarians tell you . . . "and it seems some of them should well be embarrassed," adds J. C. Lort, head of the Victoria Public Library, "for many times pieces are cut from reference papers, the occasional book completely disappears, and files are tattered and ragged from continual wear and tear by the searchers."

Mr. Lort also remembers several years ago in an Up-Island library that many newspaper files were demolished or taken away during one rather feverish contest run by a mainland newspaper.

"If people would only tell us what they want, and why, we could help them so much faster," reference department staffers of both libraries say. They quickly add, however, that information is no longer given out over the telephone "if we know it's for a quiz," and only limited help is given quizzers who come into the libraries.

"The same questions are being asked time and time again, and we simply haven't the time to keep looking up all the answers, for everyone who decides to try to win a prize."

When stakes on various quizzes get high, a strained feeling is quite noticeable in the libraries if several quizzers chose the same moment to ask for the same books. Not long ago, one of the librarians found herself acting as a referee between two library visitors. Both wanted the same book, for the same reason. In order to avoid a battle, the librarian was forced to decide . . . quickly and firmly . . . which one was to have the book and which one was to wait.

Same problems and reactions are found in the provincial library, where the time of the day seems greatly to determine the number of calls made by quizzers. During the mornings, when local radio quizzes are on, people telephone with questions, but ask them in such a way as to disguise their "quiz program" sound.

All librarians have found that, in most instances, people using the reference rooms for their quests are not intelligent in their use of reference books, and they have no particular desire to learn. Their only thoughts are to find isolated bits of knowledge, not to assimilate pertinent and relative facts.

Some libraries in other parts of the country have adopted a practice of posting quiz answers on bulletin board and inquirers are referred to the board. This is quite a service to the public and a work-saver for the staff, but rather upsetting for the quiz program directors, it seems. Victoria libraries have not yet arrived at this point in the problem.

How many quizzes have our hard-working library staffs helped solve?

As one librarian laughingly put it: "I don't know whether or not we have helped anyone win anything. At any rate, we've never been offered any prizes."

Women

Victoria Daily Times SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 1957 17

Miss Sylvia Berg and Mr. Ken Tebbutt will exchange wedding vows on March 30. Miss Berg has chosen her sister, Mrs. W. Leach, as patron of honor; Mrs. I. Bentum, sister of the groom-elect as bridesmatron and Miss Frances McDonald as bridesmaid. The best man will be Mr. David (Bud) Tebbutt, and the ushers, Mr. M. Bazett, Mr. D. Murray and Mr. E. Berg. (Photos by Vance Buhler.)

The engagement is announced of Annie May (Ann) Jaynes, youngest daughter of Mrs. J. A. Jaynes, 1414 Vining Street, and the late Mr. Jaynes, to Mr. Bruce Taylor Baines, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Baines, 1120 McKenzie Street. The wedding will take place on April 6 at 8 p.m., in First United Church, Rev. A. I. Higgins officiating. Miss Dorothy Jaynes will be maid of honor, and the bride-elect's sisters, Mrs. F. M. Tutte and Mrs. J. M. Webb, bridesmatrons. Mr. George Geddie will act as best man, and Mr. Gordon Riddle and Mr. Stanley Walters, the ushers.

Several current contests are giving Victoria Public Library reference room staffers, Miss Pauline Van Berckel, clerical, and Miss Muriel Laing, department head, a succession of bad moments. "We have passed out the Encyclopedia of Canada and the map of Canada so often in the past few weeks we've lost count," they say. Miss Van Berckel, from Holland, is spending a year in Canada. Others in reference department are Miss Betty Snair, first assistant; Mrs. Joan Lawrence, Mrs. Eleanor Danks and Miss Merle Emery.

SHOPPING GUIDE

See-Through Plastic Covers To Protect Your Luggage

By PENNY SAVER

As soon as we get a glimpse of sunny weather, thoughts turn to travel and vacation plans. The how's and where's of the plans take up most of the time, and it isn't until you're on the verge of packing that you remember that you haven't thought much about your pieces of luggage. Protection for them is important if they are to last any time at all. If your luggage is getting a bit travel worn, then the handy new zippered plastic covers will make them look better, and if your luggage is still new looking, the covers will keep them that way. All-around zippers make these see-through covers easy to put on and take off, and being plastic, they can be wiped clean of dust and dirt with a damp cloth.

If you should run into rain yes, it does happen! on your trip, you'll be glad of these protective covers that keep your luggage from being water marked. The shade of the cases shows, through the covers so they are easily recognizable as yours. For your train case, overnight case or hat box, the covers are $5.45 each. A wardrobe or a pullman cover costs $6.95.

Women who love a touch of glamor for evening, will enjoy, as I did, the rhinestone hair ornaments that have just arrived. New and beautifully feminine, are swirls, clusters and sprays of sparkling stones to make every woman feel like a princess. For long or short hair styles, the clip-comb ornaments catch gay evening lights and glitter with every toss of your curls. The coiffure jewelry is priced at $9.95 and $13.50. With your casual outfits, wood is the thing. A gold link wooden block necklace caught my fancy in one little store. Flat rectangles of highly polished wood are joined by a gleaming gold link necklace. Earrings, also of wooden rectangles, are a part of the attractive set. Browns are so popular this season, that you'll be able to wear this set time and time again with so many different outfits. Interesting and smart, the set costs $5.95.

For information about any of the items here in the column, call me at 2-3131. I'll gladly tell you where I shopped.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

Mother's Attitude to Sick Child Important Feature of Convalescence

"The best part of being sick is that Mummy took time to read aloud to me . . . stories and poems. I liked A Child's Garden of Verses because there was a little boy in it who had to stay in bed for a while, too." Tommy told his chum when he got well again.

Robert Louis Stevenson writes of "the pleasant land of Counterpane" and it is a mother who makes the difference between convalescence being a happy or a boring time. It is hard for her. Extra demands are made on her time, energy and patience. But a parent and child are often drawn closer to each other during sickness.

A sick child needs more attention than a healthy one, but parents must not allow him to become a small dictator. If he is an only child, or if his illness has been serious and they have been very anxious about him, this can easily happen. Nor should the parent, in his zeal to get the child better, assume the dictator's role.

In the first place it is well for a mother to realize that her own attitude is of tremendous importance. A mother just has to keep her courage up and look on the bright side at a time of family upheaval. Junior is sick but he will get better. His recovery will be a lot more pleasant and quicker, too, if he does not suspect that mother is worrying about him. Fatigue, with the extra work of a patient in the house, is sometimes so great that a mother finds it very hard not to be irritable, and depressed. For that reason, she should cut out any unessentials in her day, and plan to get in a little more rest.

The doctor's orders should be followed implicitly. A mother should make sure she understands clearly his instructions, and then follow them to the letter. Friends and neighbors—relatives, too—may think they have much wiser ways of treating this particular illness. A parent may have to listen politely to their ideas, but hold fast to the resolution that the doctor is the person who is in full command of a child's recovery.

Map out your child's day so that there is a routine which is followed with time to wash, breakfast, tidying up the patient's room, free time for Junior to amuse himself, a fruit drink, more free time, dinner with a rest after his meal and definite things to do during the remainder of the day. If Junior can write, he may enjoy working out with mother his own schedule, and tacking his own copy up on the wall. A day broken into different hours of purposeful activity does not seem to stretch out endlessly. A patient, even a young one,

Cathedral WA Tea and Sale

On Shrove Tuesday, a successful tea and sale was held at the home of Mrs. Claude Gardiner, 1180 Faithful Street, under the auspices of the Afternoon Branch of Christ Church Cathedral Women's Auxiliary.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Gardiner, who is president of the branch and Mrs. C. Simmons, the first vice-president. Mrs. E. Hart and Mrs. R. Dwyer were in charge of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. L. Curtis, Mrs. J. R. MacDonald, Mrs. A. Semple, Mrs. W. Green, Mrs. K. Aitken, Mrs. G. R. Piddock, Mrs. L. Small, Mrs. B. Josephs, Misses J. Brown, L. Wollaston and N. Robinson.

Daffodils and pussy willows in a silver bowl, flanked with yellow candles in silver holders decorated the table, at which wives of the Cathedral clergy, Mrs. B. Whitlow, Mrs. R. E. H. Howell, Mrs. C. M. Hubbard and Mrs. A. E. Greenhalgh, presided.

In charge of home cooking and plant tables were Miss E. Gollmer and Mrs. Townsend. Donations were received by Mrs. C. Courtney, treasurer.

LENTEN RECIPE

BAKED EGGS

Two tablespoons cooking oil, 4 tablespoons coarsely chopped onion, 1½ tablespoons chili powder, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon sugar, salt, 1 cup tomato juice, ½ cup water, ¼ cup chopped time olives, 4 slices bread, 4 eggs.

Heat oil in skillet. Add onion and fry until wilted but not brown. Stir in chili powder, flour, sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Add tomato juice, water and olives and stir until well blended. Cook and stir three or four minutes. Pour into eight-inch round baking dish. Cut four rounds from bread with ¾-inch cookie cutter. Cut centres from rounds with 2-inch cutter. Toast bread rings and place on top of sauce. Break an egg in centre of each ring. Sprinkle with salt. Bake in moderately hot oven (375° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Serve immediately. Serves four.

When you are feeling the urge to greet spring and summer with a new spirit, how about starting at the beginning and doing a bang-up job.

You need a lively and energetic feeling to put you on the right road and for this a good high-protein, low-fat diet will do wonders.

You will also need a little extra time for beauty care and wardrobe overhauling. You could gain this time by bouncing out a little earlier each morning . . . It's getting lighter and warmer, so it should not be too much of a hardship.

Good diet will do a great deal to add sparkle to your complexion, but you can help by following a beauty routine each night before retiring. Cleanse your skin carefully, tone it up with skin tonic and use a night cream.

Give your feet a little extra care, for you will soon be exposing them in open sandals and your toenails should be as well cared for as your fingernails.

It's Time to Take Stock of Yourself And Your Wardrobe for the Spring

Tips on Caring for Your Small Culinary Herb Garden

By PATRICIA RAE

Last week I gave you a simple plan for a tiny culinary herb-garden, set against a wall; and described the first eight plants in it—Hyssop, Rosemary, Winter-Savory, Marjoram, Parsley and Chives. So . . . we'll carry on from there with:

Garden Thyme: Perennial—clip tips occasionally, especially after flowering. Break up and re-set every other season. Thyme is often overdone in food and should be used very sparingly. An unusual way is in a peanut-butter sandwich with a little chopped borage.

Sage: Perennial—stem-rotter. Easy to root—divide next year. Use in cottage cheese, poultry stuffings (a very little), wif game, and with egg-plant.

Sorrel: French Sorrel is needed for culinary use. Perennial—grows into solid clump, which can be root-divided each year. Use leaves in cream-soups, and the young spring-leaves in salads.

Chervil: Annual, which self-sows, so leave space for it to come up again, year by year. Use as you would parsley, but more sparingly on account of its anise-like flavor. Goes into "Bouquet Garni" (with thyme and a bay-leaf).

Borage: Annual, which self-sows all over the place! But you can use it in salads (the young leaves), soups and the starchy blue flowers as "cordial herbs"—floating on tomato-juice, fruit-drinks or punch. The flowers also dry prettily for including in pot-pourri, and may be candied for cake or jelly decorations.

Lemon-Balm: Perennial root-stock; sometimes dies down in winter, but in spring will root-spread like mint. You will enjoy lemon-balm in fruit-salads; citrus-drinks and the leaves (tried) impart a lovely fragrance to sweet-bags and pot-pourri.

Lemon-Thyme: Perennial—moderate spreader through root-shoots. Use when frying or grilling fish; or mix (dried or fresh)—into batters.

Fennel: Perennial which self-sows (dreadfully, so cut off all flower-heads during summer!) Wonderful in "white-sauce" with fish; or in vegetable-cream soups.

SUMMARY OF HERBS' CULINARY USES

The busy housewife planning her culinary herb-garden may want to see—at a glance—how best she can use each of these herbs; so I will group them all for you for ready-reference:

Soups—Winter-savory, parsley, chives, sorrel, chervil, borage, fennel, garden thyme.

Sauces—Marjoram, parsley, chives, chervil, fennel.

Meat—Rosemary, Marjoram, garden thyme.

Poultry or Game—Rosemary, sage, Marjoram, chervil, savory.

Fish—Parsley, chives, chervil, lemon-thyme, fennel.

Salads—Hyssop, Rosemary, chives, sorrel, borage, lemon-balm.

These are a few general uses for the herbs I've selected for your miniature garden; but, if you want a larger herb-plot with more variety to include (say)—dill, horseradish, basil, summery savory, lovage, oregano and tarragon, you will read notes on additional herbs-plants in a later article.

If I can help you plan a miniature herb-garden such as I have described last week and today; or a larger one, to include the above plants and also a few others, do let me know—Care of The Times' women's department.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Says Way to a Man's Heart Not Through His Stomach!

I sound like the FBI because today's column is about how to get your man. After Kenneth Gordon and I help you get him it is up to you to keep him.

Today I am bringing you Mr. Gordon's ideas about what makes women attractive to men. As you know, Mr. Gordon is a distinguished young violinist.

He disagrees with much of the standard advice which is given to sweet young things and even to middle-aged femmes who are on the lookout for a man of their own.

The other day in New York he said, "Take that old chestnut about the way to a man's heart being through his stomach. It's ridiculous! If a girl feeds a man a rich, heavy, extravagant meal he is more likely to become drowsy than interested in her. He also may wonder if she would be an extravagant housekeeper, or—if she would spend most of her time in the kitchen. He may even reflect upon the effect that kind of food would have on his waist-line (and hers) in time.

Then, of course, there is the idea that two can live as cheaply as one. Of this Kenneth says "When looking for someone to fall in love with a fellow is not auditioning an accountant, which is all he needs if he merely wants to keep the bank books balanced." Of course this author's idea is that two can live as cheaply as one if one of the two starves to death.

Then there is the question of the girl who looks like a fashion plate whenever her man sees her. Mr. Gordon had this to say: "Such a girl might warm the cockles of a merchandise manager's heart but she seems unobtainable. A guy is afraid to kiss her for fear of musing her up. A friend of mine went with a girl for a long time and never knew he was in love with her until he caught her once in an old bath robe with her hair in curlers. She looked so natural and human."

The girl whose belongings and surroundings are always in apple pie order may be striking terror to the heart of a potential suitor instead of arousing admiration, for any man with any imagination is likely to wonder how such a person would react to the sight of spilled cigarette ashes on the table or a shirt left over the back of a chair.

HOPE FOR NEW DIMENSIONS

At this point I asked Kenneth what advice he would substitute for the old bromides. He replied, "I'm the last person to know. I haven't found myself a partner yet but I don't think people want to get married just for the sake of being married. They hope it will add new dimensions to their lives.

"I'll bet that girls with lots of interests, plenty of energy and a natural amiability make out better in the romance department than the beauties, fashion plates or determinedly domestic females."

It seems to me that subjects connected with romance have a definite place in a "Why Grow Old?" column because there is nothing like love to keep one young, physically, emotionally and mentally. Whether this be love of a man or woman or love of life or work or humanity we now know that the emotion of love builds health and personality and happiness. Dust off your heart!

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. E. (Ted) Taylor, 1175 Yates Street, are announcing the engagement of their daughter June Elizabeth,

The Role Universities Must Play In Atomic Age Conference Theme

The threat to man-power from non-democratic countries must be offset by giving a higher quality of education to a larger proportion of our own population. Mrs. A. B. Hall, Nanaimo, told members attending the B.C. regional conference of University Women's Clubs, in the Empress Hotel today.

Mrs. Hall chaired a panel discussion this morning on "What We Need From Our Universities Today." Speakers, all from the Nanaimo Club, were Mrs. R. Herlihue, Mrs. E. D. Strongtharm, Mrs. R. E. Chapman and Mrs. E. H. B. McGowan.

As chairman, Mrs. Hall described the basic problems confronting higher education, and said the real problem is not one of quantity alone but requires also an unusually first-class quality.

MUST LEAD

"The security of our whole nation depends almost entirely on Canadian universities playing the leading role in this educational problem with which our country is now faced," she said.

Facilities available at Canadian universities, needs for expansion with maintenance of high standards; the contribution expected from our universities toward Canada's culture and the place of research in our universities were questions discussed by the panel.

Continuing the conference theme of "The Role of the Universities in This Atomic Age," the second panel at this morning's session was based on suggestions as to ways of getting what we need from our universities.

Presented by the Vancouver club, the panel was chaired by Miss Mollie Cottingham. Speakers were Dr. Marianne Jetter, Mrs. A. J. Tripp and Miss Shirley McLeod.

"University should be available to all men and women who wish to study and whose minds are suited for higher education," Dr. Jetter said in outline.

"Such education should produce the best trained men and women," she emphasized.

Mrs. Tripp spoke on channeling young people into fields in which they are interested and for which they are best suited and most needed, and Miss McLeod discussed the feasibility of establishing junior colleges or technical schools in addition to the central university of the province.

In conclusion Miss Cottingham talked of finances. "Who should pay for higher education in Canada and how much will it cost?" she questioned.

"Interest free loans and more scholarships would relieve the worthy student of the necessity of dissipating his energies in work aside from his course. He could devote full time to study and research and do greater justice to his academic opportunities," she said.

The conference was chaired by Mrs. Margaret McDonald, New Westminster, who brought greetings from the Canadian Federation of University Women at opening of the morning session. At luncheon in the crystal ballroom of the Empress Hotel at noon today, Mrs. M. F. Smith, president of the Victoria club, presided, and Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, brought greetings.

L. J. Clark, Victoria College, was guest speaker. At the afternoon session the final panel, "British Columbia's New Teacher - Training Program," was presented by the Chilliwack Club, with Mrs. E. E. Bertram the chairman.

Following close of the conference, Mrs. Ross entertained the gathering at a tea hour reception at Government House.

Miss Shirley Williams A Bride in St. Johns

Radiant, in a gown of misting nylon net posed over taffeta, Miss Shirley Margaret Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Williams, 2807 Adelaide Avenue, entered St. John's Anglican Church, Friday evening, on the arm of her father for her marriage to Richard Walter Scott Ginn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ginn of Port Arthur, Ont.

Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony held in a setting of spring blossoms and daffodils.

The lovely, dark-haired bride chose a traditional, full-length bridal gown complemented with a fingertip veil of net. She wore the groom's gift, pearl earrings, and carried a cascade of red roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Gwen Leaver, chose a pink waltz-length gown with pink feathered headband and a cascade of blue carnations. Bridesmaids, Mrs. Shirley Sadler and Mrs. Pat Weeks, wore pale blue gowns similarly styled, with blue feather bandeaux and cascades of pink carnations.

The groom had as his best man Jack Merryfield, while ushering guests to ribbon-marked pews were Harvey Bazinet and Ron Todd.

At a reception held in the Golden Slipper, Lieut. G. A. Dufour, the bride's godfather, proposed the toast to her future happiness.

The bride's going-away outfit was a light beige fitted suit with dark brown accessories and a short grey fur jacket.

Following a honeymoon trip through Washington and to Portland, Ore., the newlyweds will make their home in Port Alberni.

For Affianced Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Heard entertained at their home, Clifford Street, recently for Miss Jacqueline Quest and Mr. John Kusey, whose marriage takes place next Saturday. Many gifts, concealed in a small replica of a church, were presented to Miss Quest. A corsage of pink rosebuds was given the bride-elect on her arrival, and her mother, Mrs. C. W. Quest, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. M. Kusey, received stephanotis. A floral arrangement of snapdragons, carnations and stocks centred the refreshment table, where was placed a shower cake. Other guests were Mr. C. W. Quest, Mr. and Mrs. C. Barwick, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Blunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ainscough, Mr. and Mrs. George Pears, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Philon, Mr. and Mrs. George Cox, Mr. and Mrs. G. Birtwistle, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Nichol, Mrs. W. Ballantyne, Mrs. M. Poole, Mrs. E. Burbridge, Miss Joanne Kerr and Mrs. P. Henze.

New Pre-finished Square-tex needs no painting...

"Now you can build a finished ceiling in a week-end," says Cam Forrest, PV Do-it-yourself Advisor.

Good news! Canada's original patterned hard-board, PV Square-tex, is now available pre-finished in lovely neutral color-tones. All the awkward, messy work of painting ceilings is eliminated... now you can build and finish your ceiling in one operation! It's easy:

1 First, strap ceiling joists as shown. (In remodelling, nail strapping through plaster to joists).

2 Next, nail up panels of Pre-finished Square-tex (most nails go in grooves). Add corner mould and the job is done!

Complete instructional folder from your lumber dealer, or mail coupon below.

Square-tex is the best panelling medium for new ceilings or remodelling old! Four feet square, it is light enough for overhead handling—big enough to cover 16 square feet at a time. Also builds beautiful feature walls.

new exclusive ARBORITE TWIN-TRIM

The metal moulding with a matching Arborite finish

Whether you're the type to do it yourself or have it done, this revolutionary new Arborite development provides the ultra-professional look you've always wanted—an unbroken expanse of colour and pattern—AT NO EXTRA COST!

What is Twin-Trim? Twin-Trim is an exclusive Arborite product... a metal moulding with a matching Arborite finish especially designed for use with Arborite 10 (1/10" grade). By using Twin-Trim mouldings you can achieve that modern "unbroken expanse of colour and pattern" effect.

Where is Twin-Trim Most Useful? Twin-Trim colour match mouldings are ideal for wall or counter installations in bathrooms, kitchens, recreation rooms, hotels, hospitals and institutions. Twin-Trim is also excellent when combined with Arborite Curvatop, the one-piece counter top and splashback.

How is Twin-Trim Used? Twin-Trim is applied in the same manner as conventional standard metal channel mouldings. Ask for folder with full application instructions. (No. ASL6). Caution: Twin-Trim colour match mouldings are made for use on flat surfaces only. Bending around corners is not recommended.

Sizes, Patterns, Colours! Twin-Trim comes in 8 ft. lengths... and in the majority of colours in each of the following Arborite patterns: Pearls, Linens, Marbles, Echoes, Holidays, Solid Colours and Woodgrains.

Ask about Twin-Trim—buy Twin-Trim—at your local lumber and building supply dealer's, or write for further information to:

BEASTALL ADVISES

Make Sure Your Plant Factory Has Full Quota of Raw Material

The past few days have been spent discarding potted plants which have succumbed to old age or outgrown their usefulness, and to facilitate burning or composting, the root balls were broken down. These plants were originally potted into a mixture of sand, loam and leafmould, and one would expect a fair amount of the mixture to be salvaged from the root balls.

When nearly 100 pots had been emptied the total salvage amounted to two shovelfuls of sand; no loam, no leafmould. Sand is inert and therefore not used by plants, but the other ingredients of the original mixture had been converted into masses of roots, long stems, branches and hundreds of leaves.

Jack Beastall

We started with plenty of soil and some small plants. We finished with large plants and no soil.

This same process of converting soil into plant tissue is going on continuously wherever plants are growing. In the garden both useful plants and weeds are converting soil into plant tissue and leaving sand, clay or a combination of both. This clearly shows that soil is not a permanent thing. It is made from plant and animal refuse, and it is used up in the making of more plants.

UNBALANCED
When the rate of making plants exceeds the rate at which refuse is converted back to soil, the ground deteriorates and gradually loses its ability to support plant life.

When we burn all the weeds and refuse from our gardens and devour the greater portion of the food plants, there is very little returned to make new soil, and it is no wonder we have such a struggle to produce good plants.

Fortunately for the gardener, soil is a manufactured article. Nature manufactured our first soil over a period of centuries by a method which was not designed to satisfy the demands of intensive gardening.

In the same way a factory is unable to maintain a large output unless it receives a large input of raw material, so our gardens cannot produce bumper crops of food or flowers unless they receive sufficient raw material to convert into plants.

Raw material must be secured before output can commence, and a steady supply maintained if output is to continue. As gardeners we should make sure that the raw materials for making plants are on hand before we sow seeds or buy plants.

Since soil is decomposed animal and vegetable waste we can manufacture it right in the garden.

We can decompose, with the aid of the many products now available, weeds from the garden or vacant lots, sods, plant refuse, sawdust, spent hops, manure of all kinds, paper, rags, and anything originally animal or vegetable.

We can add peat moss to the soil, and we can grow green crops expressly for the purpose of turning under.

Ceramic Tiling Easy With New Adhesive

By MR. FIX

A rainy day respite from outdoor, early spring chores sets up an ideal condition for the home handyman; he can dream of projects for the future without becoming involved on that day in any particular chore.

And if there's a modernization project in the wind, it might be well to consider the possibilities inherent in ceramic tile as a medium in which to work.

FIRE RESISTANT, colorful and decorative, use of ceramic tile by other than a professional has been made much less difficult with the introduction of special adhesives. These hold the weight of tile well and substitute for the traditional method of attaching it by use of a layer of concrete.

And don't confine your thinking to bath or kitchen—tile squares off to make an attractive appearance in other rooms of the house.

LET'S HINGE an example on redoing the face of an old fireplace to produce a keynote for a room in the modern manner.

Cover area to be tiled with fireproof asbestos wallboard or gypsum wallboard. Fasten with a recommended adhesive and hardened masonry nails. Seal all joints in backing material with spackling compound.

Cover with masking tape and spackle again. Sand off excess spackle, once it has hardened. ("Spackle" is a filler material).

If you intend to tile the floor area on either side of the hearth, cover it first with 1/4-inch exterior grade plywood. Leave 1/16-inch space between plywood and wall to allow for expansion. Be sure to set all nails. Countersink screws, if they're used instead of nails.

PREPARE BRICK hearth by covering it with a thin coating of mortar (one part Portland cement, three parts sand) to bring it up to level of plywood on either side of hearth. Your tile adhesive will adhere well to this coating.

APPLY adhesive—once the above preparatory steps have been taken. Available under several brand names, adhesive recommended is one that bears the Department of Commerce specification number "CS181.52." It's available wherever tile is sold.

Use a sawtooth trowel or spreader to apply adhesive. Work in an area less than 10 feet square, as adhesive hardens rapidly.

If you're using large, individual tiles—about 4 1/4 inches square—press each one into the adhesive with a slight twisting motion.

SMALL, UNGLAZED tiles are known as ceramic mosaics, and you'll find that they come pasted on sheets of paper measuring two or more feet square. Press entire section of tile into adhesive, paper side outward.

Remove paper after tile has been allowed to set for about one hour by sponging thoroughly with water and stripping off paper.

HERE'S HOW to trim tile to fit when needed:

A special cutter that can be rented from the tile dealer will cut ceramic tile easily. Lacking use of one of these, you can cut ceramic tile by first scoring its glazed surface with a glass cutter.

Place the scored tile over a nail or pencil and press on each side with your hands. Or break the tile over a straight edge. Using a fine file or carborundum stone, smooth the rough edge.

TRIMMING the small ceramic mosaics (the ones that come pasted to sheets of paper) is done with ordinary pincers or even pliers. Break off small chips and smooth edges with a carborundum stone.

When you reach the bottom row of tiling, cut each tile individually, rather than the entire row at one time, since your floor may not be perfectly level.

THE TILE SHOULD BE allowed to set for about 24 hours before applying "grout"—the thin line of mortar which shows in the tile joints. Soak the tiles thoroughly with water before actually applying the grout.

Old-fashioned grouting mixture usually contained Portland cement, lime and sand. But today you can purchase special grouting compound wherever you buy the tile.

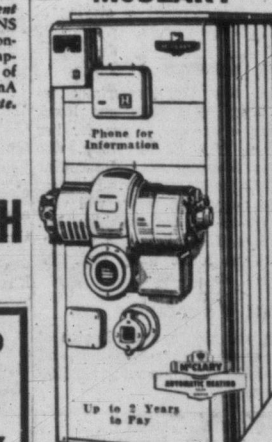

The grout is dry when you purchase it. Simply mix the powder with water to the consistency of thick cream. Let stand for 10 minutes and remix.

Spread the mixture over the tile with a sponge, making sure that all joints are filled.

Then wipe off the excess with a rubber squeegee. Clean surface with a wet cloth to wipe away the final film of grout. When dry, polish with a soft cloth.

Golden hamsters are among the most prolific of all mammals. Millions in captivity today are descended from a single litter of 12 found in a burrow near Aleppo, Syria, in 1930.

Small Boys' Two-Tier Bunk Bed Easily Made in Dad's Workshop

This is the first of a series of columns by Peter Whittall to appear on this page from time to time, on expertly-designed major projects by which the handyman can add beauty and utility to every room of the house.

By PETER WHITTALL

Here is a plywood bunk bed designed especially for small, adventuresome boys. Continental beds are fine for girls, but a poll among my neighbors indicated bunk beds are the top choice for boys.

All the amateur carpenter needs to undertake this project are five basic hand tools, a couple of boys and a couple of sheets each of three-quarter, half and quarter-inch fir plywood.

Features include storage drawer, a storage cupboard, an indirect lighting unit, a book shelf and an adjustable back rest. This last gimmick is a distinct asset for entertaining bored little boys recuperating from mumps, measles, chicken pox and so on.

BUTT JOINTS

A simple, ingenious ladder, cut from a single piece of three-quarter-inch plywood, adds the finishing touch to sleeping quarters that can do double duty as a daytime play centre. (For this you'll have to borrow a coping saw, or have it cut at the plywood shop).

At first glance the plan may seem complicated, but actually it is quite simple. Butt joint construction is used throughout, and any handyman can complete the project in a few evenings with only a hand saw, a hammer, a mitre square, a screwdriver and a smooth plane.

Materials needed, besides the wood, are sandpaper, wood glue, a pair of 3/4-inch offset hinges and finally a strip of piano hinge for the back rest of the top bunk.

Plan to build this plywood bunk bed in three distinct steps: the storage unit, the lower bunk and then the upper one.

Since butt joint construction is used throughout, and glue-plus-finishing nails recommended, I suggest you tack the portions together first and be sure of the fit before making it permanent. The glue-and-nail treatment doesn't permit any second guesses. Some of these newer wood glues are so permanent.

The finished handyman project as described by Peter Whittall in his column today—a bunk bed complete with bookcase, storage drawer, cupboard and adjustable back rest.

The thought of making drawers usually causes a beginner to turn pale, but the expert who designed this model—Fred Thornton Hollingsworth—thought of that, too. These drawers have tray bottoms which slide in twin tracks of one-inch strips of lumber. There's nothing complicated about making them, and they work smoothly and easily.

BACK REST

The piano-hinged back rest is an option. It goes over the storage space at the head of the top bunk. The three-quarter-inch plywood is hinged in two pieces, so that it can flip back and fit in one of those notches. Thus Junior can even adjust its slope.

It's just as well to have the man at the hardware store cut the two hinges to size for you. Or you can do it yourself with a hack saw.

Indirect lighting is another bonus feature of this plan, unless you prefer a plug-in or pin-up light.

The top bunk unit has a 2x2 frame while the bottom one has a 2x4 frame. A base frame of 2x4 can be built as a foundation on which to set the entire project. If this is done, the floor frame should be 8'3" long and 37 1/2" wide, with the 2x4s placed on edge rather than flat. The door and drawer faces are cut to fit flush, and the trim around them is 3/4"x3/4" strips of lumber. You'll need 54 feet of this trim, which should be available at your nearest lumber yard.

For detailed bunk bed plans, see your nearest plywood dealer or write Peter Whittall, in care of Box 335, Vancouver, B.C.

FIRE PREVENTION

Canada's shockingly high rate of home fires could be lowered if every individual would help by ensuring that his own house is free from such hazards as faulty electrical wiring, storage of inflammable materials in basement or attic, and unsafe storage of matches, fuel oils and cigarette lighters.

On Chilean sheep farms at the Strait of Magellan, the most serious losses are caused by thick fleeces. In rainy weather the wool becomes so wet and heavy that a sheep that rolls on its back may be unable to regain its feet. There it lies until rescue or death.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Violets Need Warmed Soil So Plant in Early April

By JACK BEASTALL

Q—When is the best time to plant violets, what kind of soil is suitable, and what variety which is available locally do you consider best? W. H. East Sooke.

A—Young violet plants may be put into a prepared bed as soon as the soil has warmed a little to encourage root growth. In your area possibly early April. Violets need a rich soil of well-rotted compost, old manure and a dressing of bonemeal. If water and temporary shade can be supplied after planting, a wholly shaded area is not necessary.

For perfume and length of stem, the variety Princess of Wales is considered good. This and other varieties are available at local nurseries.

Q—Are there any shrubs which I can plant now which will flower at this time (early spring) next year? H. S. Portage Inlet.

A—Yes, especially if you have trees sheltering your garden from prevailing cold winds during late winter. Visit some of the local growers while the shrubs are in flower. Planting sizes may be moved and planted now.

Several varieties of viburnum flower now and are deliciously fragrant, as also are corylopsis, hamamelis, chimonanthus and Daphne mezereum. Since most of these shrubs flower before leaves are produced, consider a shrub or two with evergreen foliage to plant with them.

Pieris is desirable in this respect, particularly P. Forsteri which has bronzy-pink new leaf growth at this time of year, followed by stems of white flowers in April.

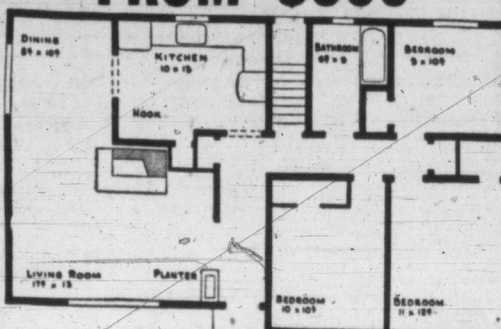

Marble, ground as fine as flour, forms body for rouge, toothpaste, paints, rubber and linoleum.

Hardboard Comes Tinted

Hardboard is now available in pre-finished panels, four feet square, that can be nailed into position to give you a ceiling completely finished in soft, neutral color-tones, without a single touch of the paint brush.

Weighing approximately 19 pounds, the panel is light enough for easy overhead handling, yet covers 16 square feet of ceiling per unit. It is grooved in either 12 or 16-inch squares to form a smart, over-all grid pattern. By means of recessed edges on two sides, the panels butt together, completely concealing the joints. Another advantage of the hardboard is that it is tough and durable—Cost per panel is only a few cents more than standard hardboard, and is much less than the cost of painting.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—A friend told me that carbon tetrachloride is dangerous to use to remove grease stains. Is this true?—G. S.

A—Firewise, no. But, like many other substances, it is dangerous to health if improperly handled. Fumes are toxic if inhaled in quantity. Apply to soiled object out-of-doors if at all possible, or open windows and doors in room. Wear rubber household gloves when applying it, as many persons' skins are irritated by the fluid.

Kimberchicks have a Record for Outstanding Performance

During the 3 years ending with 1955, Kimberchicks entered in the California Official Record Sample
Laying Test averaged:
250 eggs per bird, based on the number of pullets at one week of age.
91.5% livability to about 18 months.
$3.50 income over feed costs.
Although this five-year record indicates very fine breeding, the real worth of Kimberchicks is how they perform on commercial poultry farms.
Because of their large early egg size, high production rate, good livability, Kimberchicks may well be the birds to move profitable operation for you. That's why we suggest you start some K-137 Kimberchicks and compare them under your own farm conditions with the results of birds previously raised.

formation, write to:

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

MONDAY, MARCH 11, 1957

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Get every item that is important finished so that you can be prepared for worthwhile action about to break in your favor. Quietly search out experts and get their experienced suggestions. Privately combine with intimates toward mutual aims.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Much dashing around, despite relaxed state you would prefer, really gets you into the swing of cycle currently very helpful to you. Later you find you have loyal friend who can advise as best fits your own objectives. Listen carefully.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Making your possessions more attractive, looking for ways to get more revenue more easily than for some time. Let others see you have their good will at heart. Later, one in power gives you right-slant way to get ahead quickly. But keep mum re it.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—This is your day to be just as personal as you like. Seek others who have same goals as you, or who can help you get what you want. Join with them in putting into swift motion plans for the future. But start them right now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—You can busy yourself with behind-the-scenes maneuvers toward gaining public recognition and financial security. Those able to help feel benign and co-operative. So lose no time in definite, positive action toward your secret longings.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Friend who has rounded viewpoint and who does not dissipate energies or assets easily will give you some very astute ideas about way to get ahead and gain your hopes and wishes. Be sure you do unite with partners who have public recognition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Be just as worldly as you like. Don't hesitate to tell "the boss" what you have in mind or the manner in which you feel you can gain worldly aims by good, hard work. Fine for devising new systems under which to operate, be more efficient.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Now you can see how to so expand your horizons that you have far greater appreciation of the means by which you can have greater happiness, and also a chance to bring your creative talents to the attention of others. Be busy day and night.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Thinking out ways to gain benefit from all those big ideas now yours for gaining more revenue, personal happiness, unusually good now. But you will have to co-operate with all others with less independent spirit, if you are to gain full benefit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Much conversation with all partners, associates, opponents, public officials brings you the respect and active assistance of those able to give you the support and backing you want now. Tonight fine for sports, recreations, games. Have fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Wonderful day for you to start the week right by pitching in with enthusiasm at tasks connected with apparel, food, pets, garden, furnishings, utilities, sales, purchases, correspondence, communications and all allied matters. Produce now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Get yourself all dolled up in your finest raiment early. Then see who is able to aid you to get your special aptitudes which you enjoy doing before all others. Tonight excellent for enjoying yourself as you most like. Be happy.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY...

Monday's child is one of those very astute youngsters who will know just how to sell or merchandise his wares or ideas. Make sure you do see that he studies all angles of any matter in which there is evidenced an interest. This chart is excellent for both financial as well as artistic interests. Keep about always some books, tracts, philosophy, spiritual ideas that can be helpful, since this child will absorb whatever is in the surroundings. Also teach early that an objective approach saves many heartaches.

Toronto Lawyer Denies Huge Stock Profits

TORONTO (CP) — Samuel Ciglen, Toronto lawyer, said Friday at a press conference there "is not a title of evidence" to support charges made against him at a Securities and Exchange Commission hearing in Washington Thursday.

The charges were made by George Blackstone, associate director of the Division of Corporation Finance of the SEC, and were that Mr. Ciglen had made a $5,000,000 profit in dealings in shares of two Canadian oil companies and had misrepresented the value of the stocks.

The stocks concerned—those of Great West Ltd. and Canadian Oil Ltd.—both Canadian companies with holdings in western Canada and Oklahoma—are at present under suspension of trading on the American Stock Exchange on orders of the SEC.

Stamp Cancellation Irks Hungary Gov't

3 Good Plays At N. Saanich

Several fine characterizations highlighted presentation of three one-act plays in the new North Saanich High School auditorium Friday night.

The plays staged by the Peninsula Players will be repeated tonight at 8.15.

As the detective, Frank Watts was outstanding in the thriller, The Friends of Valerie Lane. Others in the cast were Mary Leaf, Demaris Jackson, David Smart, James Logan and Karel Larsen.

Second play to be presented was The Fish, a Gallic comedy by Yves Cabrol.

The mood was well-sustained by Joan Henriksen and Ellen Cooke as the man-hunting sisters. The others taking part were Alice Effa, Ken Smith, Alisa Rothery, Dorothy Rayburn, Herbert Drew and Glen Gray.

Final play was Harold Brighouse's drama, The Price of Coal, in which Pat Montgomery gave an excellent performance. One of the plays will be chosen for entry in the city drama festival, April 8 to 13.

ANIMALS AROUND US

Crabs Not All Like Those in Fish Shop

By DR. G. CLIFFORD CARL

Crabs, to most persons, are the little scuttling things seen under rocks at the seashore or the red-shelled creatures reposing on a block of ice in the fish store.

While those, perhaps, are the kinds most familiar to most people, there are many more species of crabs in the world and several dozen species are to be found along our own coast.

As in most animal groups, the various kinds of crabs differ among themselves, but all have certain features in common, characters that distinguish them from other animals.

Most conspicuous is the shell. As with other arthropods, it covers the body and all its parts but is wonderfully jointed to allow for movement. The shell covering the body itself, however, is broad and flat in the true crabs, which gives them their characteristic appearance.

The abdomen, which in many other crustaceans is a conspicuous part of the body plan, at first escapes notice, because it is folded up under the body so as to lie between the legs.

CAN DRAW BLOOD

The most noticeable of the appendages are the pincers, the first pair of legs ending in nippers that work somewhat like pliers. Often the cutting edges of these tools are set with bony teeth and the jaws themselves have a powerful grip.

The pincers on a medium-sized crab can easily draw blood and those of large individuals have been known to crush a metal pencil.

The crab's pincers have a multiple purpose. They can be used equally well in offence and defence in fights among rivals and are most efficient tools at mealtime. In flesh-eating species the pincers are used to open clams and other shellfish by chipping away the edges of the shell to gain entrance and then in transferring the meat to the mouth parts for chewing. They may also be used for cleaning parts of the body, for excavating holes and for blocking the entrance-way in the case of burrowing forms.

The remaining conspicuous appendages are the walking legs, four on each side, and so arranged that the crab can travel equally well to port or starboard. Each leg has several joints and ends in a sharp point useful in climbing slanting surfaces or for clinging to the bottom.

LEGS REPLACEABLE

Claws and walking legs are occasionally lost in battle or through some other accident. The inconvenience however is only temporary, because the lost member is replaced in time. Actually the appendages are rather easily shed. Any limb that may be grasped by a predator or trapped by accident can be deliberately broken off at a point specially prepared to prevent loss of blood. The wound quickly heals over and at the next moult a new limb bud appears. The new appendage increases in size each time the animal changes its shell and soon becomes functional again.

Crabs start off life as eggs carried around by the female attached to the abdominal appendages under her body. As hatchlings they bear no resemblance to their parents. Rather they look like little gnomes with large goggle eyes too big for their body and with long spines, one sweeping back from the top of head and one or more from the lower edge of the shell. The paddle-like feet are set with bristles for swimming; the narrow abdomen and tail are trailed behind like a train. Though they are tiny and almost invisible, being transparent, myriads of them are consumed by small fishes and other except by "draggers" after ground fish.

QUIT SWIMMING

Survivors in time undergo moults changing their shape somewhat until they begin to look like minute replicas of their parents but with the abdomen still trailing behind. At this stage they become too heavy for continuous swimming and so they begin to rest on some support, such as seaweed or on the bottom. Eventually they give up swimming altogether and stay more or less on the bottom for the remainder of their life.

Shore crabs take up residence along the beaches finding shelter beneath stones, in mud burrows or under debris. They do not grow into the large edible crabs as some persons think though they can be eaten in an emergency. Red crabs frequent the rocky shallows where they may be taken by "crabbers" hunting with dip net or spear. The crabs commonly found in the fish market prefer sandy bottom in deeper water where they are most readily taken by traps or trawl.

Still others live on muddy bottom in deep water and consequently are seldom seen alive.

FOUND AGAIN — A workman scrapes mud off Berlin's Olympic bell after its "grave" was found. The bell, which carried the world's athletes to the 1936 Olympics was buried by British troops for safe-keeping in 1946. The diagram indicating its underground location was lost but the 15-ton bell was recently found after lengthy probing with steel rods.

Mrs. Dowell Wins

Mrs. A. Dowell won the silver division of a women's par competition played at Royal Colwood Golf Club with a score of two down.

Mrs. D. W. Spencer took bronze division honors with a score of one up.

HE WOULDN'T WAKE UP TO 'LOVER BOY'

Policewoman Tells How She Gave Subpoena to Sinatra

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A shapely policewoman says she knocked on Frank Sinatra's front door about 4 a.m. last Feb. 16 and called "daddy," "darling," "lover boy" and "Frankie" in an effort to arouse the entertainer.

Mrs. Glory Dawson, 31, testified that she was helping two fellow Los Angeles policemen serve a subpoena on Sinatra.

When her entreaties caused no sign of life at Sinatra's darkened home near Palm Springs, the plainclothesmen entered the door. One said he shined a flashlight in Frankie's eyes while the other officer read the subpoena aloud and the "antagonistic" singer sputtered profanity.

The subpoena brought Sinatra to last week's legislative hearings here on private detectives and scandal magazines.

Officer Richard F. Williams related that, after Sinatra had awakened, the crooner told him: "If I'd been awake you could have got a bullet in you."

YOU may win this lovely...

HOLIDAY HARDTOP

Or One of Many Other Valuable Prizes!

All you have to do is cut out the Free Ballot Form, or pick one up at your favorite theatre, fill in the ballot and drop in the ballot box at the theatre or mail it to your favorite local theatre. DO NOT mail it to The Times, please.

OFFICIAL CONTEST RULES

Winners will be determined by the result of the Motion Picture Academy Awards as announced from Hollywood, Wednesday, March 27, 1957.

This contest is open to everyone except staff of The Victoria Daily Times or other participating newspapers and their immediate families, and members of the Motion Picture Industry and their immediate families.

Copies of this Ballot Form may be clipped from The Times or obtained free and without obligation at the entrance of your favorite theatre. Reasonable hand-drawn facsimiles will also be accepted.

Contest closes at midnight, Saturday, March 23, 1957.

Entries may be placed in the ballot boxes in the lobby of any theatre or mailed directly to your favorite motion picture theatre. They must be postmarked not later than midnight Saturday, March 23, 1957.

Mutilated or defaced entries will not be accepted.

The correct or most nearly correct ballot received from any contestant in B.C. will be awarded the first prize, an Oldsmobile car. Other prizes will be awarded (where offered locally) in order of correctness of ballot submitted.

All entries received will be checked and prize-winners will be announced on Saturday, March 30, 1957. In the event of a tie, winners will be asked to answer tie-breaking question on the Motion Picture Industry.

Completed ballot forms must be received in time and all entrants agree that the decision of the official judges appointed by the Motion Picture Industry Council of Canada or their agents is final and binding in all matters relating to this contest.

Watch The Times for more details of this contest, articles on the films and personalities listed in the Ballot Form, and the full list of prizes.

Service-plus is offered in the Oak Bay Municipal Hall for today's school referendum voting. Accommodating officials recognize that stairs to second-floor voting booths could be a bit tedious to some older voters—hence the sign. (Times Photo.)

Big Vote Indicated
On School Building

Noontime indications pointed to a strong vote in Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay on School District 61 referendum on a $4,470,000 building by-law.

Bright, sunny skies brought out numbers of voters shortly after the polls opened. Polls close at 8 p.m.

In the city 1,941 persons voted in the first four hours, more than 100 per cent better than the last comparable by-law referendum on Point Ellice Bridge in April, 1956.

In Saanich, the second largest polling area with 13 polling stations, no figures were available at press time.

Esquimalt reported 225 persons cast ballots to noon. Eligible voters number 3,328.

Oak Bay, with 7,041 eligible voters, recorded 676 votes cast, compared with 653 during the same period in December.

View Royal reported 75 persons voted to 12 noon. There are 1,200 eligible voters.

Capt. Matthew A. Van Winkle said the object came directly towards his plane and he had a hard time trying to avoid it.

San Juan, Puerto Rico (UP) — A Pan-American Airways pilot reported his plane almost collided with an unidentified object at the halfway point of his flight from New York to San Juan today.

Both teams have reached the League soccer match.

The Football Association Cup semi-finals. Manchester United, the first division leader, plays Birmingham in the cup semi-finals March 13 while Aston Villa meets West Bromwich.

Runnerup Preston remained in the running for the first division title by beating Charlton, 4-3. The victory narrowed Manchester United's league lead to five points.

Winters Says Banks
Ready to Increase
Funds Available

OTTAWA (CP) — Works Minister Winters said today chartered banks and other lending institutions have indicated they may increase mortgage money available for home building this year.

Mr. Winters, responsible for the government housing program, said in an interview the renewed interest in this form of loan by these institutions followed the Jan. 21 increase in the ceiling on insured mortgages to an interest rate of 6 per cent from 5%.

Following a sharp slump in house building in January, the boost was announced and Mr.

BUILDING BOOM HERE

Industrial and commercial construction in Greater Victoria is in the midst of a $6,000,000 boom, a survey by Times reporter Pete Loudon shows.

Increased activity on this aspect of construction, it's reported, is offsetting the slump in construction of private dwellings.

See story on page 15.

Winters expressed confidence then that Canada will build a better-than-average 100,000 new houses in 1957. Fewer than half the 4,000 house starts of January, 1956, were started in January this year.

Mortgages insured under the National Housing Act dropped in December to 598 from 2,317 in December, 1955. The decline was continued in January.

Mr. Winters said today there are signs the boost in interest ceilings on loans is attracting more money to the house building field.

In Montreal, a chartered bank source said the chartered banks will meet with the Bank of Canada "next week." The source declined to say where the meeting would be held or its specific date.

Play to Tie

LONDON (UP)—Manchester United and Aston Villa, in a possible preview of the Football Association Cup final, battled to a 1-1 tie today in a first division English league soccer match.

Both teams have reached the Football Association Cup semi-finals. Manchester United, the first division leader, plays Birmingham in the cup semi-finals March 13 while Aston Villa meets West Bromwich.

Runnerup Preston remained in the running for the first division title by beating Charlton, 4-3. The victory narrowed Manchester United's league lead to five points.

President Nasser, meanwhile, was quoted as saying that his government has not yet decided whether Israel ships, barred from the canal since the 1948 war, would be allowed passage.

Britain, the United States and France told United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld last month they favored payment of tolls to the World Bank or some other neutral international agency when the canal gets back in business.

The collection agency, under their plan, would give Egypt half the income for operating costs and keep the rest until the toll issue is finally settled. The tolls previously grossed about $100,000,000 a year.

Hatem's declaration came as UN salvage authorities awaited assent from Cairo to final clearance of the 103-mile waterway.

President Nasser, meanwhile, was quoted as saying that his government has not yet decided whether Israel ships, barred from the canal since the 1948 war, would be allowed passage.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Hassle Recalls Famous Farce

Nearly half a century ago George Bernard Shaw, the playwright, created a sensation by using the word "bloody" in his famous farce, "Pygmalion."

Fashionable first-nighters attending the London premiere are said to have shuddered in their seats when Eliza Doolittle, the flower girl who was turned into a lady by Professor Higgins, uttered the phrase "not bloody likely," and numerous complaints were addressed to the management.

How times have changed! When Tony Gargrave, youthful CCF member for Mackenzie, shouted: "That's a bloody insult!" in the legislature Friday night an eyebrow was raised in the public gallery.

Rude... Shameful... Disgraceful

"That's a bloody insult," cried Mr. Gargrave, and for the next few minutes CCF members leapt up and down in their chairs shouting:

"Rude, shameful, disgraceful... withdraw."

Mr. Gargrave demanded an apology from the premier for suggesting the CCF wanted to party instead of attending to the people's business.

Speaker Thomas Irwin was series—and even Premier Bennett did not seem particularly shocked, although the word was addressed to him.

Possibly the premier, in his wisdom, thought Mr. Gargrave had provoked, for the premier had just called a Friday night sitting—and night sittings on a Friday are rare occasions in parliamentary history. (The words "The House rose at 4 p.m. Friday" are almost legendary in the Times of London.)

CCF Leader Robert Strachan objected strongly (but not so strongly as Mr. Gargrave) him up. The premier responded, rather tactlessly, by saying:

"I suppose you want to go to a party."

On the premier's side. Drawing a nice distinction between direct abuse and "back-chatter" across the floor of the House, he said the premier's remark did not call for an apology.

So it was that the word "bloody" took its place in the annals of British Columbia's legislative history and, on precedent, members may feel free to use it without restraint from the Speaker.

Third Night Sitting Tumbles Reporter

A reporter fell down the steep stairs from the press gallery when Premier Bennett announced the third night sitting of the week.

LUMSDON

first recipients of Toronto's new civic medallion for outstanding performance.

Marilyn, who swam Juan de Fuca from the U.S. to Victoria a week after Cliff's crossing, and whom Victoria honored with a plaque-bearing cairn and by renaming her landing-point Marilyn Bell Bay, could not be present because of her McGill University studies. She sent congratulations to the "Chief," as she always calls Cliff.

Another regretted absentee was Coach Gus Ryder, who is vacationing in Florida.

"IT'S BEAUTIFUL"

Cliff's wife Joan was on the receiving end with him.

"It's beautiful," the blonde Mrs. Lumsdon told Ald. Curtis as she admired the crested plate with its lettering "City of Victoria, Vancouver Island, Incorporated 1862," and the Victoria motto, Semper Liber.

This and all the plates of the service have a gold inscription on the back which reads:

"Presentation service to Mr. Cliff Lumsdon, Lakeshore Swimming Club, Toronto, Canada, from the Corporation of the City of Victoria, in recognition of his epic swim, the first to cross the Straits of Juan de Fuca from Victoria, B.C., Canada, to Port Angeles, Washington, U.S.A., August 16-17, 1956."

J. D. Macfarlane, executive editor and vice-president, represented the Telegram.

VICTORIA PRAISED

Mayor Phillips welcomed Ald. Curtis as the representative of "the great city of Victoria," and extolled Victoria's generosity and good fellowship in making the presentation "to a fine local athlete, who showed the stuff he is made of when he tackled and conquered that treacherous and bone-chilling strait of yours."

Ald. Curtis said Victoria "was so happy that a Canadian boy did it. I carry the best wishes of everybody in Victoria."

Nine Killed In Riot-Hit South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Police armed with machine-guns stood guard today in the African township of Daveyton near here to prevent a renewal of rioting in which nine Africans have been killed.

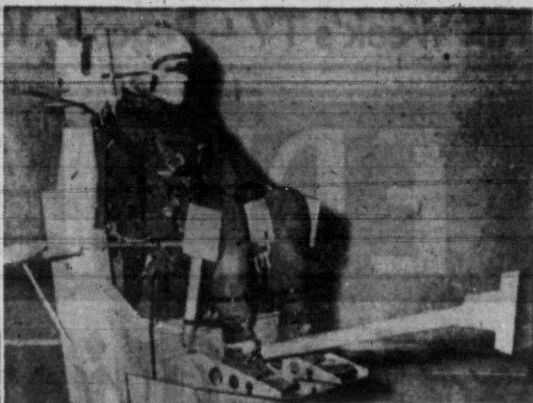

Another 16 persons were in hospital with severe injuries after street fighting between Swazi and Zulu Africans. Police said the trouble resulted from the slaying of a Zulu African.

Police in Johannesburg are on guard against a threat of rioting over the African boycott of city-township bus services after a fare increase.

About 200 Africans Friday night were involved in another riot in Johannesburg.

$750,000 Damage In Summerland Fire

(From CP Dispatches)

SUMMERLAND—Fire early today destroyed a $750,000 packinghouse in lower Summerland and for a time threatened nearby property valued at another $300,000.

The fire followed an explosion of unknown origin in the Summerland Co-operative Growers' packing house on the shores of Lake Okanagan, 10 miles north of Penticton.

The fire was brought under control by Penticton and Summerland fire departments. Fred Dunsdon, volunteer fireman, collapsed from exhaustion and was taken to hospital.

DEAD WOMAN FOUND

VANCOUVER—A woman's body, naked except for a brassiere, was found Friday afternoon in a dumping ground on Vancouver's False Creek flats.

The body, said by police to be that of an Indian woman 25 to 30 years old, was discovered by truck driver G. L. Boyd when he went to dump a load of fill at 3:30 p.m.

LAWYER PROTESTS

VANCOUVER—The lawyer of convicted murderer James Carey protested in a letter Friday the refusal of the justice department to give Carey a retrial. Carey and Joe Gordon are both scheduled to hang March 19 for the slaying of city police constable Gordon Sinclair.

"WRONG-WAY KERSEY-GAN"

Mr. Morris Kersey, who owns a flying machine, was up with my brother... & Lorn Green: Bruce was a pilot in war-times roles.

So—stick-happy again... to feel the controls: Mr. Green sells lumber, & is a Shawinigan weekender.

Mr. Kersey formerly... a big peanut vendor. Lorn's still green in the yonder up there.

But hopes to soon solo... on a "wing & a prayer." They flew up to Duncan, & to other such places.

Three business-men... with grins on their faces. Salt Spring they circled... a pre-daffodil day.

Then back for a coffee & brake at Pat Bay: "Hi Ruth," said Morris, as a red-head did appear.

"Just what are YOU doin'... away out here?" "Oh Dear," she sobbed, in quite obvious pain.

"I ran out of gas... so missed my plane." Morris quizzed his eyebrows at Lorn... then Bruce.

They shrugged like 3 guys all carefree & loose. "O.K.," said Mr. Kersey, "just a breeze... a push-over, Roger... Gentlemen... we'll fly the lady over."

All soon in the air, "she" was thrilled to the core. She'd never been up... in a Cessna-before.

"Down there," pointed Bruce, "is Active Pass. Where ships blow their whistles, so they won't ever crash."

"And over there," said Lorn, "yeah... yes ma'am. They too... sell lumber... in Bellingham."

"Oh Golly," breathed "Red"... it's all such a thrill. Morris buzzed the tower... for the ride down hill.

In the Administration Bldg... Ruth spied a bus. Then over "the 3 grins"... she made a big fuss.

She looked up to her "eagles" to say fare-well. "Would that bus," she asked, "go past the Olympic Hotel?"

Student Discipline Showdown Coming

Teachers and the educational system face two important controversies in the immediate future, Times associate editor Arthur Stott told the Greater Victoria teachers Friday at their association's annual banquet.

One concerns the question of discipline.

"It is coming to a head as more young people misbehave in a more widespread and more vicious manner than has been the custom of anti-social types among juveniles of the past."

On a broader field, the speaker suggested, another large debate is looming over the type of education that will be required in local and Canadian schools.

Teachers were often the victims and too frequently blamed for the unruliness and more serious offences of the young people.

Industry has called for specially equipped graduates to deal with the problems and the havior trend do not come from the public, the initiative may be taken by teachers, he pointed out.

opportunities of the new age in Canada. Industry has indicated its interest in providing funds to support higher education to this end, but must be expected to list certain requirements from education to which it makes material contributions.

Teachers were urged to "keep themselves informed" on the influence of this development, with a view to protecting general scholarship from too heavy an emphasis on relative "trade-training" in the educational processes.

Inco Metals at Work in Canada

Copper is one of 14 elements obtained from Inco ores. Inco produces over 250,000,000 lbs. of copper a year. And more than half of all this copper goes to Canadian companies for the manufacture of copper tube and fittings and hundreds of other useful products. Copper tube and fittings for supply and drainage plumbing are easy and economical to install... and will usually last as long or longer than the buildings in which they are used.

INCO COPPER in millions of feet of plumbing for Canadian homes

... more jobs in Canada

FOR LONG LIFE and trouble-free service, there's nothing quite like copper plumbing in the home. It won't rust; it resists corrosion; under normal conditions, it will last as long as the building.

Today, nearly all the new homes being built in Canada have copper plumbing. And more than half of this copper comes from Inco.

Here's how Inco Copper helps make jobs for Canadians. Down in the mines, Inco workmen blast out the ore. It is milled, smelted and refined at Inco's plants in Copper Cliff, Ontario. Refined copper is sold to Canadian companies for the manufacture of tube, fittings and other plumbing items. Then plumbers install them in Canadian homes.

All these operations help provide jobs for thousands of workmen. That's how Inco helps stimulate the growth and development of industry in Canada.

'OFFICIAL' BLAST ROCKS OFFICIALS

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters) — Transport Minister Harold Watkinson stood with civic officials on a canopied platform and ceremoniously pressed a detonator.

The results were more explosive than expected. Flying pieces of brick and stone injured several spectators, including a press photographer. The Lord Mayor and other dignitaries ducked for cover as rubble showered the platform.

The blasting of a 10-foot-high brick wall 50 yards from the platform inaugurated Birmingham's new highway program.

Long-Life Formula ---Just Never Works

OPRINGTON, England (AP) — Miss Emily Haydon celebrated her 100th birthday at the old peoples' home here and gave her formula for reaching the century mark.

"Never do a day's work in your life, my dear—I haven't," Miss Emily celebrated by spending an extra five hours in bed.

LEICESTER, England (AP) — A male efficient expert says a housewife should get through her work in two hours.

"The old saying that a housewife's work is never finished is rubbish," said C. H. Jones of the British Productivity Council.

"In the average household of four a housewife, with effective planning, should get through her daily routine in just over two hours."

A member of the audience asked the lecturer what happened in his home.

"The same as everywhere else, I'm afraid," confessed Jones. "I dare not mention the subject of efficiency to my wife. She's the boss in the kitchen."

SYRACUSE, NY (AP) — It will be standing only at the clubrooms of American Legion Post 1367 for some time.

Post officials recently found that burglars had backed up a van and made off with 20 red leather chairs, 25 lounge chairs, 5 davenport, 79 grey-metal chairs, 3 coffee tables, a juke box and a bowling machine.

The clubrooms are used only once a week.

GENEVA, NY (AP) — The New York State agriculture experiment station says that a table spoon or two of honey will make a drunken person sober.

The same treatment may be helpful in routing a hangover, the station reports.

The agriculture unit said in its current news bulletin that the sugars in the honey would cause a chemical breakdown of the alcohol in the system.

Election Speed-Up Indicated

OTTAWA (CP) — Some political observers see an early dissolution of Parliament in the works from the way the government has been doing its latest financial business with the Commons.

The government is about sure to call for the breakup of Parliament and an election by summer, but there appeared today a possibility that the expected timetable could be stepped up.

This developed from the fact that Finance Minister Harris, in tabling further spending estimates Friday, said this not only for the current fiscal year but also for the succeeding fiscal year.

The supplementary estimates of around $110,000,000 for the two years did not amount to much against the government's overall spending — better than $5,000,000,000 a year now—but they gave rise to some election speculation.

Expenditures in British Columbia included: Vancouver First Narrows-dredging $236,229; Haney, wharf construction, $40,000; Vancouver Stanley Park seawall, $35,000; Glacier National Park federal employees housing, $110,000; Westview public building, $60,000.

UNUSUAL MOVE

It is highly unusual for a government to bring in supplementary estimates on top of its basic estimates for a fiscal year before it even starts. Mr. Harris brought down his main estimates in late January.

Some political thinkers figured he could be getting the decks cleared for this: With all odds of finances mopped up, the government could call an election after getting further authorization for enough money to carry on the nation's business for a month or two.

This would dictate a fall session of Parliament but would make for a fast cleanup of the present session after the presentation of the Harris budget, now expected about March 19.

Friday's supplementary estimates for the 1956-57 and 1957-58 years each pushed the prospective totals for its year to a new all-time high in peacetime government spending, topped only by the $5,322,000,000 for the 1943-44 war year.

Tone of River Talks To Be Set March 19

OTTAWA (CP) — The agenda for major Canada-United States discussions on development of international rivers crossing their border will be drawn up at a meeting here March 19, Resources Minister Lesage announced Friday in the Commons.

Mr. Lesage gave no indication of when the main talks would be held. The discussions are expected to centre on the Columbia River, which flows from British Columbia into Washington State, the St. John River along the Maine-New Brunswick border, and rivers crossing the border between Alaska and Yukon and British Columbia.

Mr. Lesage said the March 19 meeting will be only a preliminary one to draw up an agenda.

HEADED BY COTE

Five Canadian representatives would be headed by A. E. Cote, assistant deputy minister of resources, and include two external affairs department officials, an official of the trade department and Lloyd McCallum, legal adviser to the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission.

The U.S. group would be headed by a representative of the U.S. Army Engineering Corps and include three or four officials of the U.S. state department.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver) asked whether "provision has been made for the B.C. government to be represented at the March 19 meeting."

Mr. Lesage said it is "not contemplated at the present time" to have a B.C. representative. He had informed B.C. Premier Bennett only that morning of the meeting and had said he would contact Mr. Bennett immediately after the meeting.

CONVICT SAYS

Narcotics Easier to Get In Prison

VANCOUVER — Four convicts were sentenced to an additional two years in British Columbia Penitentiary Friday and another received two sentences of two years for breaking out of Oakalla prison last Sunday.

Frank Schlosser, 46, believed to have master-minded the well-planned escape, was convicted and sentenced on charges of escaping custody and automobile theft. He was recaptured Wednesday by Washington State police after crossing the border in a stolen car.

His two terms will run concurrently.

George Perovich, 26; Gilbert Evans, 30; John Conway, 20, and Allen Bonner, also 20, pleaded guilty to escape charges and all got an extra two years.

Franklin Brown, 21, is still at large.

Perovich told the Burnaby police court before he was sentenced that conditions at Oakalla were the reason for escape.

The convict said it was easier to get narcotics inside Oakalla than outside.

"It is impossible to break the habit when it's so easy inside," he said.

By RENNIE TAYLOR

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A breakthrough in the long efforts of medical science to produce a vaccine against cancer was announced here Friday.

The new development is a vaccine which protects chickens against a cancer. It does not give full protection and it cannot yet be used on a practical basis, but it "may serve as a model" for developing a vaccine for humans, said its originator.

Details of the work were reported to the 11th annual symposium of fundamental research in cancer by Dr. B. R. Burmester, a virus specialist for the U.S. department of agriculture research laboratory at East Lansing, Mich.

This kind of cancer is called lymphomatosis. It caused malignant growths on the "inards" of chickens and it originates as the result of a virus infection. In some respects it resembles leukemia in humans. The cause of human leukemia is not known but a virus is suspected as the initial disease agent.

HIGH CHICKEN FATALITY

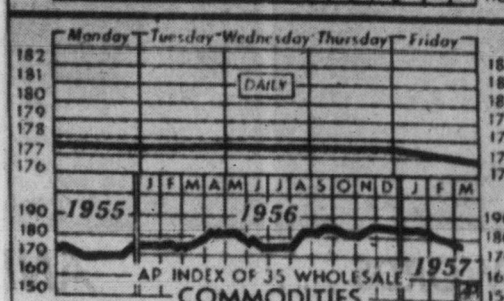

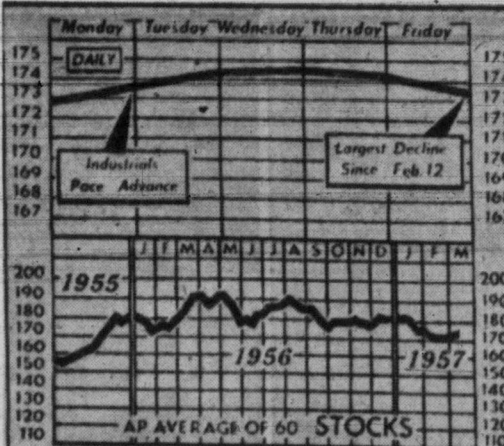

Virtually every flock of chickens in the U.S. has this virus infection but not all the birds develop cancerous growths, he said. Sickness and death rates are high among the hens which contract the cancer and it cost poultrymen about $75,000,000 a year, he reported.

The vaccine is an extract from the cancer. It is injected into full-grown hens. It increases their resistance to lymphomatosis about 5,000 times, Dr. Burmester said.

Chickens hatched from eggs laid by vaccinated hens also have immunity.

Although there is a resemblance between chicken lymphomatosis and the human leukemias, there is no danger to humans from contact with chickens having the disease.

But there is enough similarity in the human and chicken disease to warrant the belief that if a virus is found to be the cause of human leukemia, it will open up the possibility of a preventive vaccine, Dr. Burmester said.

Diefenbaker Urges More Oriental Trade

VANCOUVER (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker said here Friday it is time for Canada to consider expanding its trade with the Orient.

Addressing a public meeting Mr. Diefenbaker said British Columbia, in particular, is close to the Orient and its "vast markets."

Besides calling for the free nations to meet the "trade offensive of the USSR," Mr. Diefenbaker suggested a national development policy to build Canada.

The Opposition chief also called for strengthening of Commonwealth ties.

He said inflation is caused mainly by government waste and called on all political factions to defeat the government in the next general election by joining with the Progressive Conservatives, the "only alternative" and "restoring" the two-party system to federal politics.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Russia's advance in trade must be matched. He said the USSR is not worrying about a successful balance sheet; it is asking only for the souls of men.

Canada, he said, should have a national policy to push its economic frontiers by free enterprise and initiative. He called for more processing of Canadian products in Canada and more participation of Canadians in the development of their own natural resources.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Diefenbaker urged Canadian university students to stay in Canada when they graduate.

Speaking at the University of British Columbia auditorium, Mr. Diefenbaker said:

"We are losing too many engineers and other technological people to other countries. I want to see you stay in Canada and play your part in developing your country, irrespective of the opportunities you see elsewhere."

He blamed American firms in Canada partly for the emigration of Canadian students to the United States.

"U.S. firms operating in Canada do not employ enough Canadians," Mr. Diefenbaker said. Young Canadians, he continued, should crusade for a national development program.

TAX REBATE REJECTED BY CCFer

Home owner's tax rebate of $28 will be spurned by CCFer John Squire, MLA for Alberni.

He told the legislature Friday he doesn't need the money.

"You don't have to take it, my friend," cried Premier Bennett.

"And," said Mr. Squire resolutely, "I'm not taking it either."

U.K. Making Comeback In Industry

VANCOUVER (CP) — The first Canadian to tour Britain's security-cloaked atomic power station, a trade unionist, said on his return here the British are making a comeback in industry.

Angus D. MacDonald, a substitution serviceman for the B.C. Electric Co. and member of the Electrical Workers' Union, made the two-month study of British industry under sponsorship of the English-speaking Union.

"There's a strong spirit of optimism in Britain," he said in an interview. "The newly-opened atomic power plant at Calder Hall proved to me that Britain can win through."

"... The country has taken the world lead in development of atomic energy for peacetime uses."

U.S. TRENDS MIXED

Consumer Spending Tapers Off

By WALTER BREDE, Jr.
NEW YORK (AP) — Business trends were thoroughly mixed this week.

Consumer spending tapered off. Layoffs popped up in the hard goods field. Railroad income and freight carloadings were down. There were hints of a downward trend in new construction.

Latest statistics on personal income, installment credit and manufacturers' sales indicated that United States business over-all is fundamentally in sound shape.

One bright spot was a glowing report from the president of General Electric Company.

This was the picture sketched by G-E President Ralph J. Cordiner: Unfilled order backlog at the end of February at a new record high. Sales and income orders ahead of a year ago. No cut-backs planned in the company's total expansion spending.

ALL OPTIMISTIC

Equally optimistic was F. W. Misch, financial vice-president of Chrysler Corporation. Misch told the New York Society of Security Analysts that Chrysler earned more money in the first two months this year than in the first two months of booming 1955, the auto industry's record-breaker.

He hinted, too, that automation is paying off. He said "new work standards" at all Chrysler plants have increased labor efficiency and cut production costs. He made no mention of Detroit reports that the new work standards had eliminated 20,000 jobs.

Ford announced sales touched a record in the January-February period, up 22 per cent from a year ago. General Motors reported record sales for its Cadillac division.

Businessmen worried about high taxes and heavy government spending got it straight from the White House this week: President Eisenhower and his administration will do everything they can to shrink the massive $72,000,000,000 budget.

Briefly over the business scene: National Cash Register Company and Underwood Corporation are talking merger. ... Inad Petroleum Company has received permission to start repairing its Middle East pipeline. ... The trade magazine, Swimming Pool Age, says Americans will build 45,000 new swimming pools this year at a total cost of $400,000,000. ... Taxes collected by the federal government last year figure out to $46.86 for each man, woman and child in the U.S.

Uraniums Spark Moderate Rally

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock market traders this week found that some news was a little more to their liking and, as a result, provided enough buying to lift the markets to a moderate advance.

For the last several weeks there were few encouraging developments but this week uranium offered some bullish notes.

Uranium began their climb Monday following news that the Atomic Energy Commission is ready to support a stock-piling program.

They were given a further boost when a geologist said the industry would not die in 1962 after the Canadian government purchase contracts expire.

VOLUME HEAVY

Volume in the higher-priced issues was heavy. Gains ranging to $2 were evidenced. Gunbar advanced $2 to $21.25. Algom was up and Consolidated Denison held level.

Lower-priced issues also made good starts.

The activity in uranium spilled over into other mining specialties but gains were not as large. Advocate jumped $1.05 to $7.05 but other than that, there were few gains of more than 45 cents. International Nickel was $3.05—winner at $100. Western oils began to move ahead, sparked by an important oil strike by Home Oil in the Swan Hills area of Alberta. Home B gained $4.12 1/2 cents to close at $16.50.

Industrials offered few notable changes. McColl gained $4.50 to $68.50 and Aluminum added $2.75 to $117.75 but other gains were generally less than $2.

The week's volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange was one of the heaviest of the year. A total of 28,797,000 shares were exchanged, compared with 25,953,000 the previous week.

Index changes at Toronto: Industrials up 1.84 to 451.92; golds up 48 to 75.66; base metals up 2.00 to 208.70; western oils up 2.38 to 158.84.

A BUMP IN THE CORNER... A FEW HARSH WORDS...

Never one to ignore a challenge, New Westminster Royals' defenceman Pete Durham pulled off a spectacular wire-climbing act Friday night at Memorial Arena that had fans, police and hockey players playing a riotous game of tag in the south mezzanine. The action started when Durham crashed Victoria Cougar coach Colin Kilburn into the boards, left. Several Victoria fans, led by the overcoat-wearing

while his intended victim made hasty tracks up the steps and into the crowd, right. Cougars won, 5-2 on the spot to record Durham's epic, was Times photographer Bill Halkett.)

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

The time was roughly 10:42 and the place was the New Westminster Royals' dressing room.

The air was heavy with steam and harsh words, through which shone naked light bulbs and a wall-to-wall smile adorning the roughly-chiselled features of a certain Lloyd Robert (Pete) Durham.

Durham was having a real titter at the anxiety of a pair of reporters who were trying to pump him.

Peeling off a soggy BVD, Durham grinned largely and intoned, "You guys want me to say something, don't you?"

"Well, I'm not saying a word. Not a one. I bit once to-night."

In the middle of the dressing room, Royals' coach Hal Laycoe was pacing up and down, flapping his arms against his sides much in the agitated manner of Jimmy Durante.

"Don't tell 'em anything, Pete," Laycoe was cautioning. "Just let me do all the talking for everybody. Don't talk for the papers."

Arnie Knew a Fan Who...

Little Arnie Schmutz, hockey's answer to baseball's Billy Martin and the Dead End Kids' Leo Gorcey, was saying excitedly, "I know a hockey fan who's going to have sore fingers tomorrow."

"Listen, I'll tell you what," Durham said, "come see me Monday and I'll give you the whole story. I'll even name names."

Then he chuckled all the way to the shower room.

Laycoe, meanwhile, was in a lather.

"You want to know something," he asked intensely.

"That Kilburn is smart. He's the smartest guy in this league. He's too smart for this league. Hell, he's too smart for the NHL."

"I was up there for 13 years and I never saw such a smart guy."

Durham spent a bundle buying Tony Lewick just to needle guys, but this Kilburn he makes Lewick look sick."

With a despairing flap of his arms, Laycoe bellowed, "Kilburn should give courses in how to get swung at."

Hal was referring to Kilburn's peculiar talent for offering his body for target practice. There is a growing club in the WHL, composed of players who can honestly say, "I swung at Kilburn and got a penalty."

Laycoe does not like the club, nor its entrance requirements. "Never mind, fellows," he said, "Looks like the Good Lord wants Victoria in the playoffs."

By this time Durham was back, still chuckling at some secret.

"Were the fans cussing you, Pete," a reporter asked.

"Hmmm?" answered Durham.

But then he expanded a little.

Should Old Acquaintance Be Forgotten?

"There was a guy at that end of the rink who used to be there when I was playing for Victoria. I remember the guy pretty well. He was the one I was after."

"When I got up to the top of the wire, I saw him light out so I stopped up there. I figured he might get brave and come back and then I could get my hands on him. I was mad when I started but when I got down in the crowd, there was an old Englishman there and he was trying to say something and he couldn't get it out. It was real funny. One thing I was thinking about was getting my gear off so I could get loose. Oh well, nobody got hurt bad."

Schmutz (his mates call him Snuff) repeated, "I know a guy who's going to have sore hands in the morning."

Then there were the two old pros, Max McNab and Ollie Dorohoy.

Max was saying, "You know, we get a pretty bad time from the fans in Vancouver with that inter-city rivalry. But it's nothing like what we get here. Your fans are pretty rough."

Dorohoy, speaking through a Coke bottle, nodded solemnly and said, "Thing is, we expect the fans to get on us. They pay for that and it's their right. But they have no right to get personal, like some of these fans do. When they start getting personal, a guy can take just so much and then..." Dorohoy finished his statement by waving his pop bottle at Durham.

Pete smiled back.

And Schmutz said, one more time, "I know a hockey fan who's going to have sore hands in the morning."

Court Rule Marks Break-Up of IBC

NEW YORK (UP)—Uncle Sam apparently had the International Boxing Club on the ropes today and the situation was hailed with glee by independent promoters.

One of the sport's foremost legal "brains," who wished to remain unidentified, said Judge Sylvester Ryan's decision in Federal Court that the IBC is a title-fight monopoly "unquestionably will result in a loss of IBC power—just how much I do not know."

He said it was nearly certain the decision would force promoter Jim Norris to abandon entirely the IBC's policy of having contracts with champions for exclusive title services.

"And," he added, "it's quite likely the government attorneys will demand and get a break-up years."

Two promoters at Oakland, Calif., agreed. Jimmy Dundee said, "It's a good thing. Maybe it will stop the IBC from taking a boy away from you after you have built him up." And Frank Tabor said, "The decision is a boon to boxing. The IBC has hogged everything through the will demand and get a break-up years."

Guyle Ties Point Mark; 'Peg Wins

Gets 110th Point; Canucks Defeated

EDMONTON (CP)—Centre Guyle Fielder of Seattle Americans tied the all-time Western Hockey League point-getting record Friday night, but his team was beaten 5-3 by Edmonton Flyers.

A crowd of 5,447 fans saw Fielder, the slender Seattle pivot, score two goals and assist on another to boost his season's record to 29 goals and 81 assists which tied the record of 110 points set by Edmonton centre Bronco Horvath in the 1954-55 season.

Winnipeg Warriors won a come-from-behind 6-4 decision from Vancouver Canucks in a spirited Western Hockey League game before some 2,000 fans.

10 POINTS DOWN

The victory left the Warriors still 10 points out of third place on the prairies. Vancouver gave up third position in the coast division to Victoria Cougars, whose 5-2 decision over New Westminster gave them a one-point margin over the Canucks.

Gordy Redahl accounted for half of Winnipeg's four-goal outburst in the third period, which brought the Warriors back from a 4-2 deficit. The visitors led 2-1 after the opening frame.

Chuck Holmes scored twice for Edmonton and the other Flyer marksmen were Murray Costello, Don Poile and Bill McCreary.

EIGHT TO GO

Fielder, who still has eight games to play in the regular schedule, opened the scoring with the only goal of the first period. The second period ended in a 2-2 tie. Flyers grabbed a 5-2 lead in the third before Wright finished off the scoring.

Claude Pronovost, filling in in the Edmonton net for injured Denny Riggins, had little chance on the three shots that beat him but he stopped 39 others.

In the first period Fielder broke away alone after being set up on a pass from Wright, and beat Pronovost cleanly from 20 feet out with a rising shot.

Fielder put Americans on even terms again 38 seconds before the period ended with a 35-foot slider that went under a Flyer rearguard. Pronovost didn't see it.

Fielder passed the assist record several games ago. The previous high of 67 was set in the 1949-50 season by Mel Read of Tacoma and tied by Fielder himself in 1954-55.

EX-49er DUNCAN SIGNS TO LEAD LIONS IN '57

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Lions announced today the signing of Maury Duncan, 25-year-old second-string quarterback with San Francisco and Pittsburgh in the National Football League.

Herb Capozzi, general manager of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club, said Duncan is expected to lead the Lions' play this season. He is their third import quarterback.

Duncan displaced former Lions' quarterback Arnie Galiffa as understudy to Y. A. Tittle with the San Francisco 49ers in 1955.

D & D Scrambles For Thin Edge

'You Get Going, You Got'

By MATT BALDWIN
As Told to the BUP

KINGSTON, Ont. (BUP)—

When we first started out from Alberta last year we felt we would be very lucky to win seven and lose three games, because of the tough competition from the western rinks.

I guess we made a mistake because we ended up with five wins and five losses...

So this year when somebody asked me what we would do, I had no comment to make.

We hadn't been going too well and I felt probably we could do better, but with three strong western rinks also in it, I thought we had best not make any predictions at all.

The biggest thing in the Brier from a curler's standpoint are the ice conditions and this year they were tremendous. I feel that they've probably been to the advantage of open style of play which we try to stick to...

And I think it can quite possibly be said that is one of the reasons we did so well.

We had at least three really tremendous games with Saskatchewan, B.C. and Manitoba. The one with Saskatchewan—the one against the Campbells—was the first time we had met a western rink...

...and the first for them too. I feel it set the stage, so to speak, to put us on our feet...

It was the big game to lift the winner to go all the way. We were very fortunate to win that game along with B.C. which was just as tough.

Anytime you beat two rinks like the Stones (B.C.) and the Campbells (Saskatchewan) in extra end games, it can't help but give you a lift, and it certainly gave us a lift...

When we played Howie Wood (Manitoba) Friday morning, the pressure was off a little and curled that much better.

Looking back I can just say that the competition here has been equal to any of the Briers we have curled in before, including the one in 1954 (which Baldwin won with a 9-1 record). And I know it will get tougher in years to come.

We were going good this week. You just get going and you got, that's all.

It's hard to say which one of the Briers was the best to win. Naturally the first one is always sweet to win and also any one which Garnet Campbell is in is also very sweet to win, particularly when everyone picked him to win it.

Wire-Climbing Pete Rises to Challenge

Cougars Beat Royals; Durham Steals Show

Victoria 5, New Westminster 2

By DENNY BOYD

When they made dogs, they invented fleas. When they evolved picnics, they thought up rain. And when they invented hockey, they put Pete Durham together and marked him "Victoria—Special Delivery."

If Pete's mission in life is to torment Victoria's tormentable hockey fandom, the New Westminster Royals' bruising defenceman reached the high point of his career Monday night at Memorial Arena—in several parts of the arena, to be exact.

Durham and the Victoria Cougars both shuffled their respective social standings, the Cougars knocking off the Royals to climb back into third place in the coast division and Durham challenging any or all of some 2,700 hockey fans as he solidified his first-place standing in Victoria's Hate Parade.

With an inborn talent for angering local fans, Durham reached never-before attained heights last night as he scaled the wire screen at the south end of the rink and ploughed head-first into a crowd of hecklers bent on the annihilation of one particular fan who had been needing Durham both with word and gesture.

However, the fan did a

Jesse Owens to scamper to safety and Durham cooled off before he cost himself a heavy fine. But before he went back on the ice, there were a total of six Royals' players scattered through the mezzanine, a policeman led the fan away and Durham picked up 14 minutes in penalties.

Laycoe Said a Mouthful

And, as Royals' coach Hal Laycoe said after the game, "Us Royals may not win all our games but we are an entertaining team."

The much-needed victory put Cougars a point ahead of Vancouver Canucks in their little leap-frog game for third place.

Monday night, the Cougars have the chance of making it a three-point lead as they host the Warriors. Cougars now have a home-ice winning streak of five straight and have scored 17 goals in their last three home games.

Durham drew a holding penalty after only 42 seconds and while he was off—Bruce Carmichael got the Cougars off and running, chipping in the rebound from a Don Chiupka shot.

Over the Top Went Pete

Durham burst into full bloom around the nine-minute mark of the third.

He was penalized for chopping Colin Kilburn across the arm and when Kilburn piled Arnie Schmutz into the end boards on the tag-end of the same play, Durham again took after Kilburn.

A knot of fans gathered at the wire screen and began hooting at Durham. Schmutz slapped at some poking fan fingers with his stick and Durham engaged in a bout of fist-shaking and hollered threats at one fan in particular.

The fan wouldn't come down to the ice so Durham dropped his stick and climbed hand-over-hand up the 10-foot screen. He paused momentarily at the top and then plunged straight down into the crowd while the fan took off like a scalded cat.

Durham continued up to the top of the stairs where he was met by a policeman and former Cougar Bernie Strongman. By this time, other Royal players had poured over the boards.

The policeman led the fan out of the arena and the players went back on the ice.

And, if anyone was wondering, the Royals play here next, March 22.

Commercial, Industrial Jobs Offset House Slump

By PETE LOUDON

Greater Victoria builders are hammering through a $6,000,000 construction boom in commercial and industrial expansion, a Times survey revealed today.

The big-scale construction is going a long way to offset the slump in house building caused by tight mortgage money.

Building totals for Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt are almost $2,000,000 greater than at the end of February one year ago.

And just over the horizon, two projects alone are worth $6,500,000 more—the balance of the B.C. Electric underground wiring project and the $4,470,000 school construction program.

JOBS STILL SCARCE HERE

There are 2,828 men and 1,098 women registered for work at the National Employment Office here, manager J. H. Fox said today.

This is a reduction of 60 persons from the previous week.

Normal Civic Jobs Continue

These startling figures do not include the hundreds of thousands of dollars being spent on normal civic expansion by the municipalities.

The whole picture isn't shown in the lists of building values in municipal building offices. No permits are issued for the B.C. Electric wiring program for instance—instead the company buys city supervision.

The project, incidentally, has grown from a $2,225,000 undertaking to a $2,730,000 job, company officials estimate. This year's work will cost $730,000. Here's a rundown on projects underway:

Customs and immigration building (old post office) $1,000,000, to be completed this fall.

The Canada Trust building, $350,000, should be up in September.

The Douglas-Yates branch, Bank of Montreal, is winding up a $272,000 addition, probably in May.

Work is just starting on the $900,000 64-bed Queen Alexandra Solarium at Gordon Head.

The Salvation Army is busy with a $52,000 renovation of its hostel for men on Johnson Street.

Despite the fact tenants are yet to be found, Edward Mallek is pushing construction of a new seven-store block worth $94,000 at Douglas and Fisgard.

Across the street, parking is at a premium in one of the largest lots in Victoria, at the rear of the Hudson's Bay store, partly because shoppers are still flocking to buy, partly because the lot has shrunk recently to make room for a $200,000 addition to the store—two new freight elevators and more warehouse space.

Also on Douglas, the Odd Fellows have launched a $26,000 program, repairing damage in a recent fire and also installing a new boiler, new heating system, and a new rear exit.

Supermarkets Show Confidence

Safeway is putting final touches to a new $350,000 store at Tillikum and Burnside. It opens March 20.

Workers have cleared away old homes at Fairfield and St. Charles. Plans are being prepared and this spring another $350,000 store will be under way. At Head Street and Esquimalt, carpenters, electricians, plumbers and metal workers are rushing completion of a $100,000 Super-Valu supermarket.

Faith in the future despite dwindling naval contracts is expressed by Yarrows Ltd., also in Esquimalt, where a $32,000 addition and renovation is taking place in the administration section.

Oil Firms Push Expansion

Greater Victoria school trustees, paying today for an affirmative vote on the $4,470,000 program of school building, still has crews on the job completing previous contracts—the $123,600 Mount View addition, the $189,400 maintenance buildings on

Gorge Road which will open in April, and the $300,000 addition to Margaret Jenkins School.

The federal government is pouring piles for a new $213,000 hydrographic survey ship wharf in inner harbor.

Oil companies are expanding. McCall-Fontenac is building a $70,000 station at Douglas and Frances and a complete new plant on Kingston Street worth $300,000.

Shell Oil has a $20,000 job underway at its Songhees Road plant—new tanks. There is a $32,000 service station going up at Scott and Hillside, a $26,000 station at Fort and Foul Bay.

Monday, Shell will start work on a $33,000 station at Douglas and Saanich. At the same time a lot is being cleared at Johnson and Tyee for another.

British American Oil Company has a $20,000 station going up at Marion and Cadboro Bay.

What greater proof of prosperity than this—the canny St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society is starting its long-planned $55,000 clubhouse on McBride! Municipal reports of building can cause long faces if read separately.

Esquimalt, for instance, says building there is down $217,000 from last year at this time.

Oak Bay admits to being down $90,000. If it weren't for the Solarium, Saanich would be just holding its own. Victoria is up only $300,000—a small gain among big figures.

But the Solarium puts the district total up a million and the B.C. Electric project adds almost another.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Ontario, Jonquiere, Stettler, on training cruise, return May 3. Comox, Fortune, James Bay, return March 15.

Cordova, Porte Quebec on reserve training cruise, return Monday.

COMPETING in the first contract bridge tournament for Vancouver Island championships to be played here next Saturday will be Madeline Anderson, Seattle, known as "Mrs. Bridge" throughout the Pacific Northwest. She was member of U.S. bridge team that toured Europe last summer and is chairman of international matches between Canada and the United States.

Bridge Prizes Donated

Four Victoria mercantile and specialty firms are providing permanent trophies for annual competition in the Vancouver Island contract bridge championships which will be played in the Empress here next Saturday.

Championships to be played off are ladies' pairs for the Sidney Reynolds trophy; men's pairs for the W. & J. Wilson trophy; mixed pairs for the George Straith trophy, and open pairs for the Henry Birks & Sons award.

The bridge classic is expected to attract about 150 of the Pacific Northwest's top-flight players.

Spectators will be allowed, as long as they don't move around from one table to another but watch individual plays.

Japan Goods To Be Shown In B.C. 3 Days

Canada's fourth-ranking customer and biggest trading partner on the Pacific, Japan, will display wares at a "Japan Merchandise Show" in Vancouver for three days starting March 13, assistant director of the Toronto trade centre, Shigeru Oue, said here today.

Traditional Japanese products such as toys, bamboo ware, porcelain and exotic silks will be shown. The show is co-sponsored by the Japanese government and businessmen of that country.

Highlighted will be camera equipment for which Japan has achieved international recognition.

The show is aimed at Canadian importers and businessmen, though it will also be open to the general public.

Japan is in the position where she must export to survive.

In 1956 exports to Canada totalled $65,000,000 while imports from Canada totalled $125,000,000, of which grain accounted for $75,000,000 and pulp, $15,000,000.

Japan's export market is gradually increasing. For example, textile exports to this country in 1956 were four times the 1953 figure, for a total of $13,000,000, with iron and steel products jumping from nearly $2,000,000 to $16,000,000.

One half of Japan's exports to Canada are used in B.C. and Alberta, Mr. Oue said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. There is a stone seat in Pioneer Square on the side nearest the cathedral dedicated to the memory of Lucy Sanders. Who was Lucy Sanders and who placed the seat there?

A. She was the mother of Yvonne Hope Sanders, former editor of Chasteline, a women's magazine published in Toronto, who was given permission to set up that memorial to her mother in Victoria's early burial ground.

Q. Will you please give me the address of Gregory Clark, the writer?

A. Write in care of The Victoria Daily Times.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

WILL BOUNDARIES BE WIPED OUT SOON?

Unique aerial photo taken last week shows area that some day may be united in a Greater Victoria metropolitan district. Picture was taken from a government surveys plane during exceptionally clear weather Feb. 28 from an altitude of 22,000 feet. The plane was on a test flight of cameras and aircraft. Boundaries of four local municipalities are indicated by dotted lines. They may be merged in future under metro plan detailed in the new B.C. Municipal Act brought down in the legislature this week.

MONTE ROBERTS

I keep having trouble with friends of mine. Usually, the trouble I have is with old friends of mine, but in this case, the trouble is with a new friend of mine. This new friend of mine is named Eric. And the trouble arose when Eric proved to me there is no such thing as radio, television, or microwave telephone communication.

The way Eric put it is this: Radio, television, and microwave telephone communication are all based on the electron.

And the electron, as Eric explained, is something which no person has ever seen.

The electron, Eric said, is nothing but a theory. Theoretically, Eric theorized, there IS such a thing as an electron, and there ARE such things as, for instance, a million (or trillion) electrons.

But it can't be proved that there is even one little electron, because (as Eric said at the outset) who has ever seen an electron?

This leads to the obvious conclusion (my new friend said) that radio, television, and microwave telephone communication are all strictly theoretical.

If you think you hear a radio program, or think you see a television show, or think you are talking to someone in Port Angeles via microwave, it is strictly in your imagination, Eric claims.

And—despite the trouble my new friend Eric is causing me—I am inclined to agree with him.

Until I, personally, see an electron, I will not believe that electrons can do what they are supposed to do.

If anyone disputes my new friend Eric's claim that radio, etc., is all a figment of the imagination, let him produce an electron, and introduce me to same.

In the meantime, I will go along with my new friend Eric's thesis (despite the trouble it is causing me) because his surname is Mallett, and he is the new commercial manager for Vancouver Island of the British Columbia Telephone Company.

WRITER-LECTURER Mrs. Florence V. Mayberry of Santa Paula, Calif., will address a public meeting in the Blue Room, 1303 Broad Street, next Wednesday at 8 p.m. An auxiliary board member of the American Hands of the Cause of Baha'u'llah, she will speak on "The Baha' World Faith."

Capt. Charles Leaving Royal Roads

A change in command for Royal Roads and the other two Canadian services colleges was announced today by Defence Minister Ralph Campney.

Capt. John A. Charles, RCN, present commandant of Royal Roads, will be succeeded by Col. Percy Cooper, 41, of Revelstoke.

Capt. Desmond W. Piers, of Halifax, will become commandant of Royal Military College, Kingston, and Group Capt. Jean G. Archambault, 43, of Outremont, Que., will be the new commandant for College Militaire Royal.

Capt. Charles' new posting has yet to be announced.

Junior 'Frostbites' In Competition Here

Junior members of yacht clubs in three Pacific Northwest cities are competing this week-end in a "frostbite" team series at Cadboro Bay.

Host is Royal Victoria Yacht Club, and also competing are Royal Vancouver, Seattle, and Corinthian Yacht Clubs.

Races started at 1 p.m. today, will resume at 10 a.m. Sunday.

MONDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Gyros: Empress Hotel, noon luncheon. Times' associate editor Brian Tobin will speak on "The United Nations in Action."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The RCAF announced Friday night surface and anti-aircraft firing practice will be held in and above the Strait of Juan De Fuca on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Monday there will be action from 8.30 a.m. to 1 p.m., Tuesday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and again from sunset to 9 p.m. Wednesday there will be firing from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

D. R. F. Brower, who recently established a United Kingdom Information Service in Vancouver, will speak to the English-Speaking Union of the Commonwealth, Victoria branch, Tuesday at 8 p.m. Meeting will be held in the Douglas Building. Mr. Brower's subject, "Atomic Energy in Harness," will be illustrated by the film, "Atomic Achievement."

Replicas of ancient murals in the church of Our Lady of Lzevic in Yugoslavia will be shown for two weeks here starting Tuesday in the Art Gallery.

They were brought to Canada on request of the gallery to the Yugoslav government, and had previously been shown in the Tate Gallery, London.

Provincial archivist Willard Ireland will address University Extension Association March 25 in the Normal School auditorium on 1958 centennial celebrations in British Columbia. The talk, open to the public, starts at 8.15 p.m.

Although donations are coming in slowly, the Red Cross campaign for funds may top its quota of $79,500 this year.

Total to date is $13,101 and it "compares favorably" with the amount collected in the same period last year, campaign secretary Mrs. R. J. McRae said today.

Special dedication service for visitors and members of the congregation will be held Sunday morning at St. David's-by-the-Sea Anglican Church, Cordova Bay.

The service will mark the beginning of an extensive parish visitation to raise $17,500 through pledges over the next 21 months.

Two of Canada's top air force officers will visit Victoria Monday.

Air Vice-Marshal L. E. Wray, OBE, AFC, CD, air officer commanding Air Defence Command, will make an inspection of Victoria's 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron RCAF (Aux.) at 8 p.m. in RCAF Urban Centre, Yates at Quadra.

Accompanying him will be Air Commodore A. D. Ross, GC, CBE, CD, commander of 5 Air Division, Vancouver, of which the local squadron is a component.

Reunion dinner for ex-service women of Canadian and Allied forces will be held in the Britannia Legion auditorium next Saturday at 7.30 p.m. Marionette Library will close ticket sales on Wednesday. Further information may be obtained from Miss E. C. Kerr, 240567.

Rev. Paul Olson and Mrs. Olson, musical evangelists from Minneapolis, Minn., will open a two-week series of meetings at Glad Tidings Tabernacle, Sunday. Week-night meetings will be held Tuesday to Friday, at 8 o'clock.

Two Indians, George Charles, Brentwood, and Norman Johnnie, Kuper Island, each were fined $10 in Sidney police court Friday for violating the Migratory Birds Convention Act by shooting from a power boat near Shoal Harbor.

Eight ducks and a shotgun were seized by police.

Indians are permitted to shoot game the year round, but are not excluded from the Migratory Birds Act, which prohibits anyone from shooting game from a power boat.

Special dedication service for visitors and members of the congregation will be held Sunday morning at St. David's-by-the-Sea Anglican Church, Cordova Bay.

The service will mark the beginning of an extensive parish visitation to raise $17,500 through pledges over the next 21 months.

COMPARATIVE RELIGIONS

7 Heavens, 7 Hells In Islamic Belief

How many times have you been in "Seventh Heaven"? By using this cliché you are, perhaps unwittingly, referring to the highest paradise of the Moslem, or Islam, faith.

Dr. Frank Hoffman, lecturing to members of Victoria College night school course on comparative religions, explained that Moslems actually believe there are seven heavens, the seventh representing ultimate bliss. There stands the throne of God; walks are of gold and silver; trees are of gold and flowers are precious jewels.

Seventh heaven is designed for men. There they experience perpetual youth, as they are raised to paradise as they were physically and mentally, at the age of 30, even if they are old when they die.

In this sensual heaven, described by the prophet Mohammed, men recline on couches. They eat delicious fruits while beautiful damsels pass golden goblets to them.

CAN CHOOSE WIFE

These paradisaical maidens are chosen by God to take the place of earthly women. However, if a man wishes his wife or wives to accompany him to seventh heaven, he can pray to God, who may grant his wish.

In seventh heaven grows the "tuba," a giant tree producing wonderful fruits. It is so big that an earthly horse could gallop about it for 100 years and not reach his starting point.

When women die they go to a separate place of delight, explained Dr. Hoffman.

"It is not a person's good works, but the mercy of God on judgment day, which admits him to heaven," he said.

Conversely, there are seven hells. The first is for wicked Moslems; second for Jews; third for Christians; fourth and fifth for the Sabious and Magi; sixth for idolaters and seventh for hypocrites.

Inhabitants of the seven hells are exposed to extreme heat and cold. Hypocrites in the seventh receive worst torment.

and wicked Moslems in the first, least.

Mohammed is considered the only prophet; none can come after him. Narrow ideas such as this make Islam stagnant. "Countries which practise it are a little backward," said Dr. Hoffman.

Moslems believe their book, the Koran, is perfect and more comprehensive than the Bible, because it was written 622 years after the New Testament.

"The Koran does not have the scope or vision of the Bible, Dr. Hoffman said, "and is parochial in comparison."

We study the Bible critically, but the Moslems, in their belief that the Koran is perfect, refuse to do this.

They will never touch it without first washing their hands, and they open it reverently, letting it fall open where it may, for it is not paged.

Operation of 'God's Navy' Outlined to Kinsmen Club

CHEMAINUS—Work of the Marine Medical Mission, which has a camp and vocational training school at Thetis Island, was explained to Kinsmen this week by Karl Hess and Dennis Snider.

The MMW was organized in Seattle in 1949, Mr. Hess told Kinsmen.

They purchased an old mine-sweeper and after several months of rebuilding and refitting, the vessel was christened the "Willis Shank."

Complete with chapel, and medical and dental facilities, the boat sailed for Alaska July 24, 1949, on its first mission. It is now a familiar sight to residents of Chemsinus and villages up the coast.

Each summer, a group of 40 to 50 Canadian and American divinity students boards the ship at Thetis Island and for six weeks calls at as many ports as possible between Seattle and Alaska, mostly Indian villages.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Friday night he will never release the RCMP report into accusations against former lands and forests minister R. E. Sommers.

"I hope no one in Canada shall live to see the day when the innocence of a Canadian citizen is to be established by such means," he told the legislature.

His statement followed demands by George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) that the report of former RCMP Inspector W. J. Butler be tabled in the legislature.

Mr. Gregory said in the House Wednesday night Inspector Butler's investigation found that Mr. Sommers had borrowed $6,500 from the director of a firm seeking forest management licences for clients.

The Liberal member repeated his demand for publication of the report.
